

File Manager

Tutorial

Your files at your fingertips

Summary

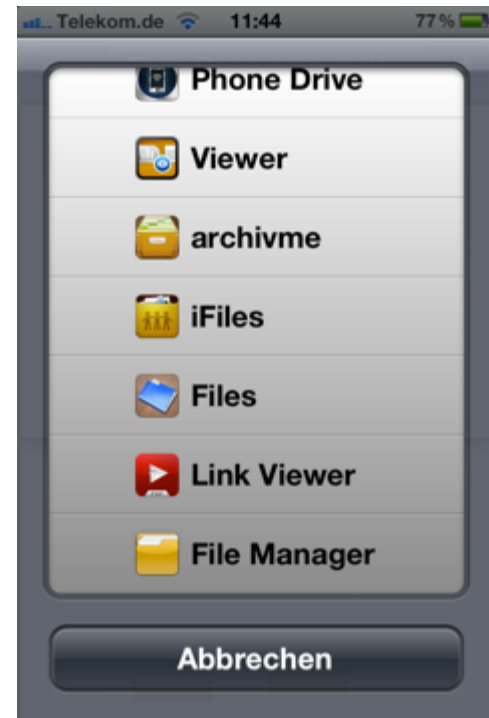

- Thanks for downloading File Manager!
- This brief tutorial will give you an overview on how to:
 - Import files
 - Sort files
 - Edit files
 - View files
- You can also let us know your feedback on mobile@zuhanden.de

Import via Email

iPad

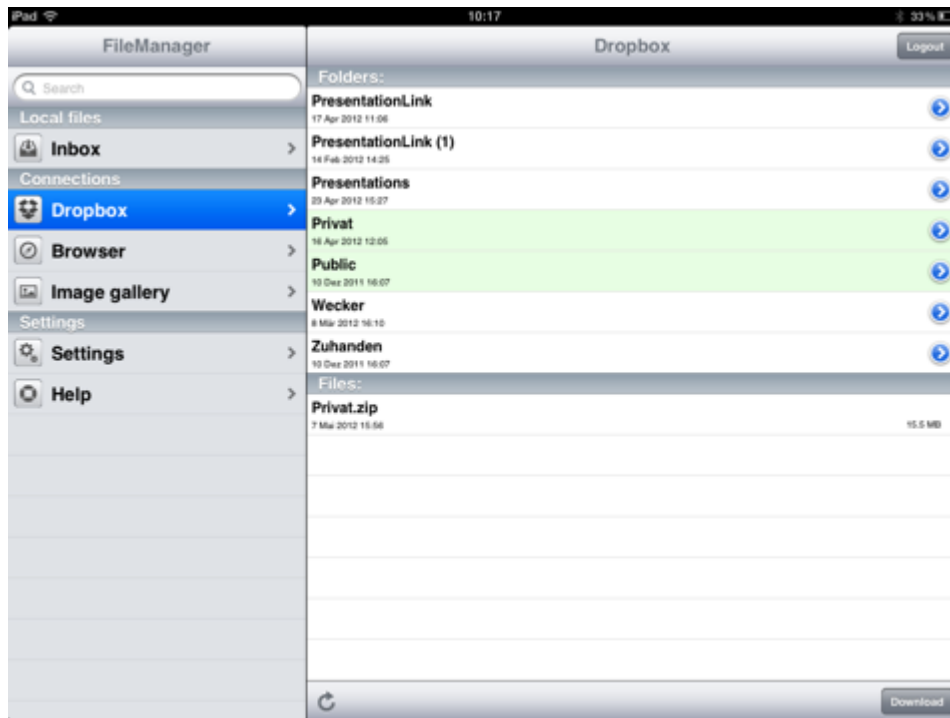

iPhone

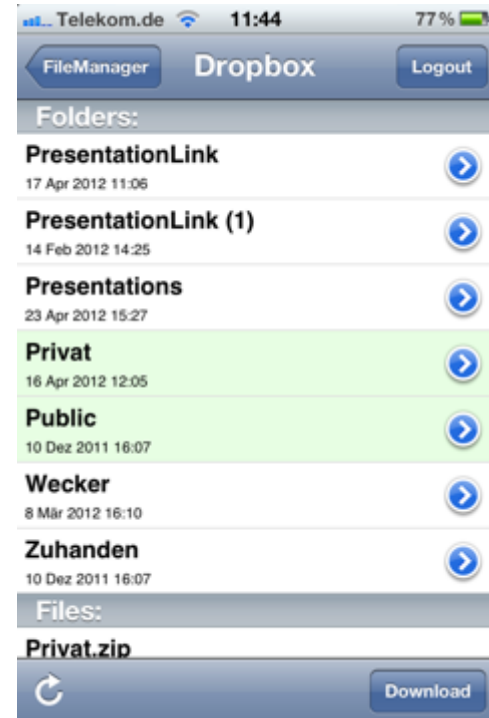

- Tap on the Email attachment
- Then press “Open in” File Manager
- Your file will be saved to the Inbox

Import via Dropbox

iPad

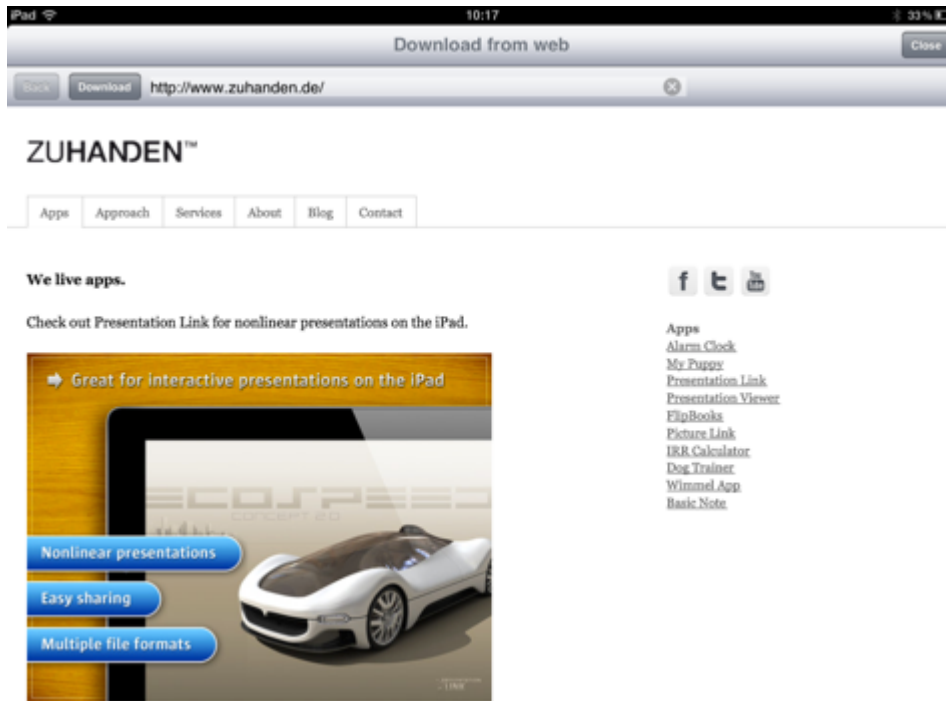

iPhone

- Connect to your Dropbox account
- Put in your user name and password
- Tap on the desired items that you want to download. These are marked in green.
- Then press the download button at the bottom right
- Your files will be downloaded to the Inbox

Import via Web Browser

iPad

iPhone

- Tap on the browser section to the left
- Enter the desired URL
- Navigate to the document
- Press download button
- The file is then downloaded to the inbox

Import via iTunes

iPad

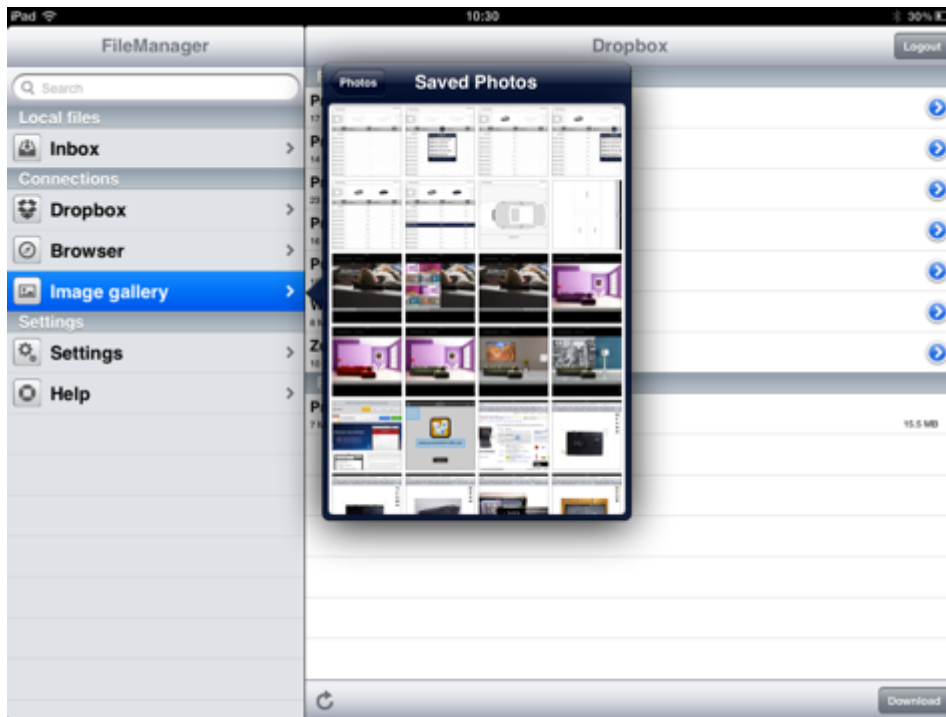

iPhone

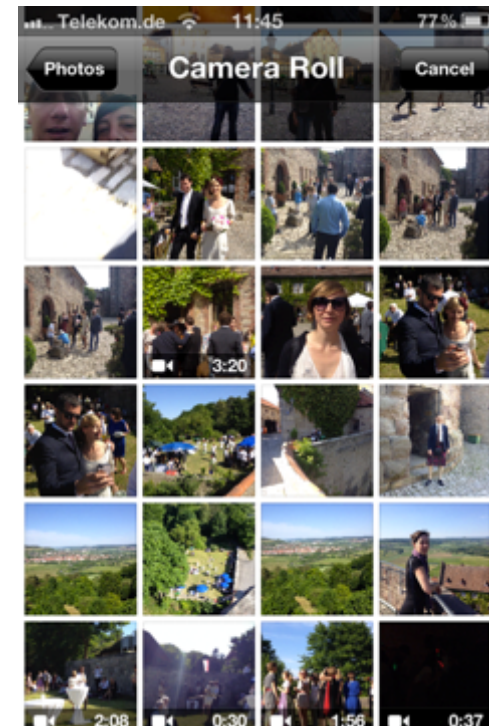

- Connect your device to your computer
- Open iTunes and select your device
- Click on the Apps Tab
- Scroll down and you will find the shared folder at the bottom
- Tap on file manager and move your files by drag and drop into the shared folder

Import from Image Gallery

iPad

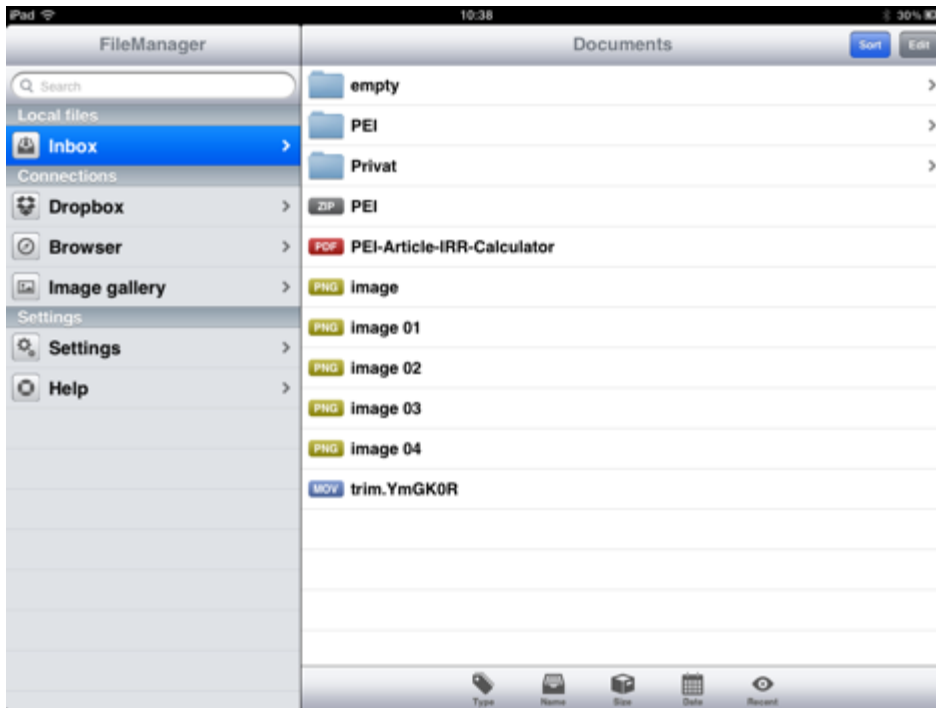

iPhone

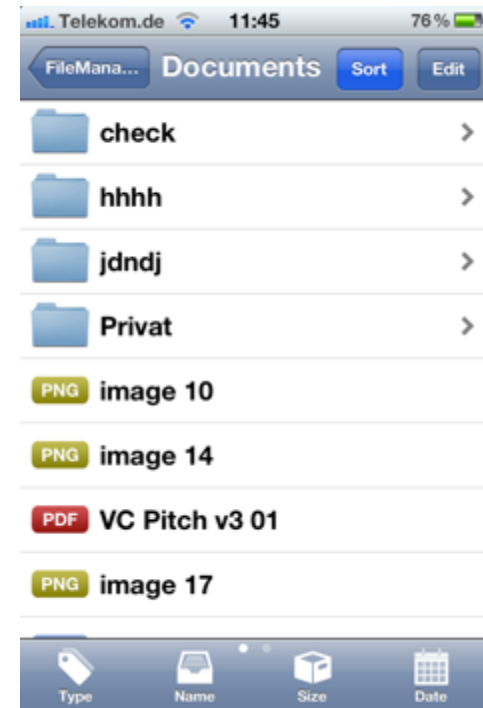

- Tap on image gallery to the left
- Select the desired images
- The images are saved to your Inbox

Sorting Files

iPad

iPhone

- Your files can be sorted in many different ways
- Simply press on the sort button at the top right
- A second toolbar will appear at the bottom with the different sorting options
- When pressing the sort button on the top right again the sorting options will disappear

Editing Files

iPad

iPhone

- Press on the edit button on the top right
- A second navigation bar will appear at the bottom
- Select the files you want to edit
- Now you have several options to edit the files such as renaming, moving them into folders, etc.
- Press on edit again and the bottom toolbar will disappear

Viewing Files

iPad

PEI-Article-IRR-Calculator.pdf

iRR

Life just got a little bit easier for the Apple addicts in the private equity industry. There is now an IRR-focused application for the iPhone, iPad and iPod touch. Developed by Zuhanden, a German company that makes applications for Apple and Android products, the IRR Calculator can calculate IRR, money multiple and holding period, so long as the user can enter two of the three variables. The user can then tilt their iPhone right or left to see related tables like compound interest rates.

Zuhanden founder Hans Koenig said the idea for the app came from his past experience working several years for German fund of funds von Braun & Schreiber Private Equity Partners.

"The reason for programming the IRR Calculator was to give private equity professionals such as buyout or secondaries specialists a simple but very efficient tool to quickly judge the potential of deals," Koenig said in an email. "They do not need to open an Excel sheet in order to answer questions like, 'Given a minimum return of 26 percent on a deal and an expected multiple of 2x, in what timeframe do I have to realise the deal?'" The IRR Calculator quickly tells them the answer to the question is three years.

The IRR app: making life easier for GPs

"I am not entirely sure why investors are still so keen on private equity. But I would rather those managing my pension stayed out of it."

Financial Times columnist Tony Jackson concludes his assessment of 'Private Equity, Public Loss'.

"Seriously? Is it possible the author is right and everyone else is wrong?"

Doug Lowenstein, president of The Private Equity Council, reacts in a letter to the Financial Times to claims in 'Private Equity, Public Loss' "that an entire class of very sophisticated and savvy" institutional investors have been "duped by the PE industry into thinking the asset class delivers superior returns."

"Real estate is boring and boring ... art has zero downside."

Colony Capital founder Tom Barrack discusses the pending purchase of Miramax films with the Financial

iPhone

Documents PEI-Article-IRR-Calculator.pdf

iRR

Life just got a little bit easier for the Apple addicts in the private equity industry. There is now an IRR-focused application for the iPhone, iPad and iPod touch. Developed by Zuhanden, a German company that makes applications for Apple and Android products, the IRR Calculator can calculate IRR, money multiple and holding period, so long as the user can enter two of the three variables. The user can then tilt their iPhone right or left to see related tables like compound interest rates.

Zuhanden founder Hans Koenig said the idea for the app came from his past experience working several years for German fund of funds von Braun & Schreiber Private Equity Partners.

"The reason for programming the IRR Calculator was to give private equity professionals such as buyout or secondaries specialists a simple but very efficient tool to quickly judge the potential of deals," Koenig said in an email. "They do not need to open an Excel sheet in order to answer questions like, 'Given a minimum return of 26 percent on a deal and an expected multiple of 2x, in what timeframe do I have to realise the deal?'" The IRR Calculator quickly tells them the answer to the question is three years.

"I am not entirely sure why investors are still so keen on private equity. But I would rather those managing my pension stayed out of it."

Financial Times columnist Tony Jackson concludes his assessment of 'Private Equity, Public Loss'.

"Seriously? Is it possible the author is right and everyone else is wrong?"

Doug Lowenstein, president of The Private Equity Council, reacts in a letter to the Financial Times to claims in 'Private Equity, Public Loss' "that an entire class of very sophisticated and savvy" institutional investors have been "duped by the PE industry into thinking the asset class delivers superior returns."

"Real estate is boring and boring ... art has zero downside."

Colony Capital founder Tom Barrack discusses the pending purchase of Miramax films with the Financial

- When pressing on the files you will be able to view them
- By pressing the arrow to the right you are able to perform more actions
- When viewing images you can scroll through your images within a given folder by swiping

Feedback

Please let us know your feedback on:

mobile@zuhanden.de