Letter From The Editor

We decided to join in the superhero craze and super fitness model Jennifer Nicole Lee donned the Wonder Woman body paint for this month's Kandy Magazine cover. JNL opens up to Kandy in her first interview on the film Pain and Gain, co-starring Mark Wahlberg and Dwayne The Rock Johnson. Also, Nurse Emily has some great advice for single guys in her column this week. Make sure you subscribe so you don't miss the next issue which will feature Miss Emily on the cover.

However, I want to take the little space reserved for me in this issue to discuss horse racing's Triple Crown – Kentucky Derby, Preakness Stakes and Belmont. There are some great horses competing this year – Union Rags, Bodemeister, and Creative Cause. However, for my money, I love Gemologist. His pedigree is top notch with Tiznow and Mr. Prospector in the bloodline. His record is impeccable - 5 races and 5 wins; his most recent win at the Wood Memorial. It seems my enthusiasm is not shared equally by the experts, who have Gemologist as the third or fourth favorite. It just seems to me that if a horse is going to win the first Triple Crown in thirty-four years that it will have to be a very special horse, as Secretariat was when he won the Triple Crown and broke a drought of 25 years.

Gemologist has the look of a Triple Crown winner, a very majestic looking horse. Now, I am not comparing Gemologist to Secretariat but he is the only horse who is undefeated. If there is one horse in the field that could spoil Gemologist's Triple Crown dreams it would be Union Rags. Union Rags has been in the money in all his races and is a close second to Gemologist in the looks department. But, I am not sold on Union Rags genealogy. The edge definitely goes to Gemologist. These Triple Crown races could very well go down in history as epic as the Triple Crown matches between Affirmed and Ayldar, when Affirmed won the last Triple Crown with margins of victory of 1 ½ lengths, a neck, and a nose – in that order. So, barring an injury scratch, I like the odds of witnessing our first Triple Crown Winner in thirty-four years.

Cheers!

● Dear Kandy,

I recently broke up with my girlfriend of 8 years. Her younger sister has been hanging around the gym where I work and I get the feeling she wants me to ask her out. Good idea or bad idea?

Lance
Knoxville, TN

That really depends on how much you despise your ex, because moving onto her younger sister is pretty much the most heinous thing that I could think of. If you dated for 8 years I am assuming it was a close relationship that involved a lot of family holidays spent together, nobody dates that long and doesn't get close to their partner's family on some level. With that being said, think about what you are really doing and whether or not it's really worth the shit show of drama that is bound to unfold the minute you act upon it, it's not worth it and you need to move on. It seems like by developing feelings for your ex's sister you are just trying to replace her, so if you miss her that much why hurt her in the worst possible way?

● Dear Kandy,

I read in your last issue about dating in the workplace. I have a similar situation as the last inquirer. However, my situation has to do with a co-worker in another office in a different location. Since we don't technically work together, do I need to be concerned about sexual harassment in the workplace?

Nathan
El Paso, TX

I think you should still proceed with caution because you never know what could happen with company transfers and such, but it's a lot less margin for error if there is a different location altogether. Did you meet through work? Remember the same circumstances where you met through work can be easily recreated if things turn sour so just keep that in mind. If you met outside of work and just happened to figure out you work for the same company in different buildings I'd be pretty mean if I told you not to go for it! You have my blessing on this one, best of luck!

● Dear Kandy,

Lately my boyfriend has been overly tired and our sex life has fallen off the proverbial cliff. I have tried wearing sexy lingerie at night, short skirts when we go out to dinner. I don't know what else to do to reignite our sex life. I've asked him what's wrong and he says nothing. Any insight?

Cindy
Pueblo, CO

Many women have this problem in their relationships so I want you to know first off that you are not alone! It's a hard blow to a woman's ego to feel like their man isn't chasing them anymore because it makes you feel less feminine, but try to give him some sleep, space and time because you may not realize that when you come on strong with lingerie, etc. he may feel pressure to perform, which takes away his masculinity just as much as him not chasing you takes away your femininity. Give him a break or head away for a girls' weekend and let him miss you and imagine you out dancing and having fun without him. Sometimes less is more, let him come to you. As for him saying nothing is wrong, he probably doesn't know how to articulate his feelings and is embarrassed by his lack of libido and performance in the bedroom, again just be there for him by not being there as much.

● Dear Kandy,

I have a problem with an upcoming wedding. I am a guest of the groom and have slept with 2 of the bridesmaids. I don't think either knows it and I am bringing my own girlfriend to the wedding. Last I heard, both of the bridesmaids were single. Do I need to be concerned about a scene at the reception?

Keith
Dayton, OH

Wow!, this is a really tricky situation and prime example of why I am dead against sleeping around in a group of friends, makes occasions such as these very awkward! Normally I would say that your girlfriend has a right to know the back story here, but at the end of the day I think it's best to respect that it is your friend's big day and do not cause a scene at any cost. The best way to handle this is to bring your girlfriend, be attentive and stick by her side all night and introduce her to everyone there, including each bridesmaid, as your girlfriend and ignore everything and everyone else. Do not drink too much, keep it low key and try to stay on opposite sides of the reception from the bridesmaids and do not make eye contact with either of them. I'm just happy to hear that you haven't slept with the bride!

● Dear Kandy,

I am a guy in his mid 30's. Lately, I have been dating a lot of women who are older through one of those online services. The other night I went out on a date with a young female, just turned 21. During the course of the evening I find out that her mother is someone who I had sex with. I would like to see this girl again. Do I need to be concerned about the mother situation?

Alex
Pittsburgh, PA

I don't even know where to begin to tell you how many kinds of wrong this is. On what planet do you start dating this girl, and get through the "meet the parents" dinner smoothly when you have slept with her mother?? Honestly, think even one step ahead on this one, she is going to tell her mum that she is dating someone, then her mum is going to ask what his name is and to see a picture, making you the official biggest creeper on planet Earth. If you want to see this girl again I'm sorry but bad luck. You can't win 'em all. There will be plenty of 21 year old girls for you to take out in the future so long as you stay off online services with their mums!

9 Signs She Might Be Psycho

They say the hottest ones are usually the craziest, so is that hottie you've been seeing waiting to unleash her inner-psycho on you? Check out the crazy-chick check list below. If you answer 'Yes' to 3 or more of them, you might be dating a psycho!

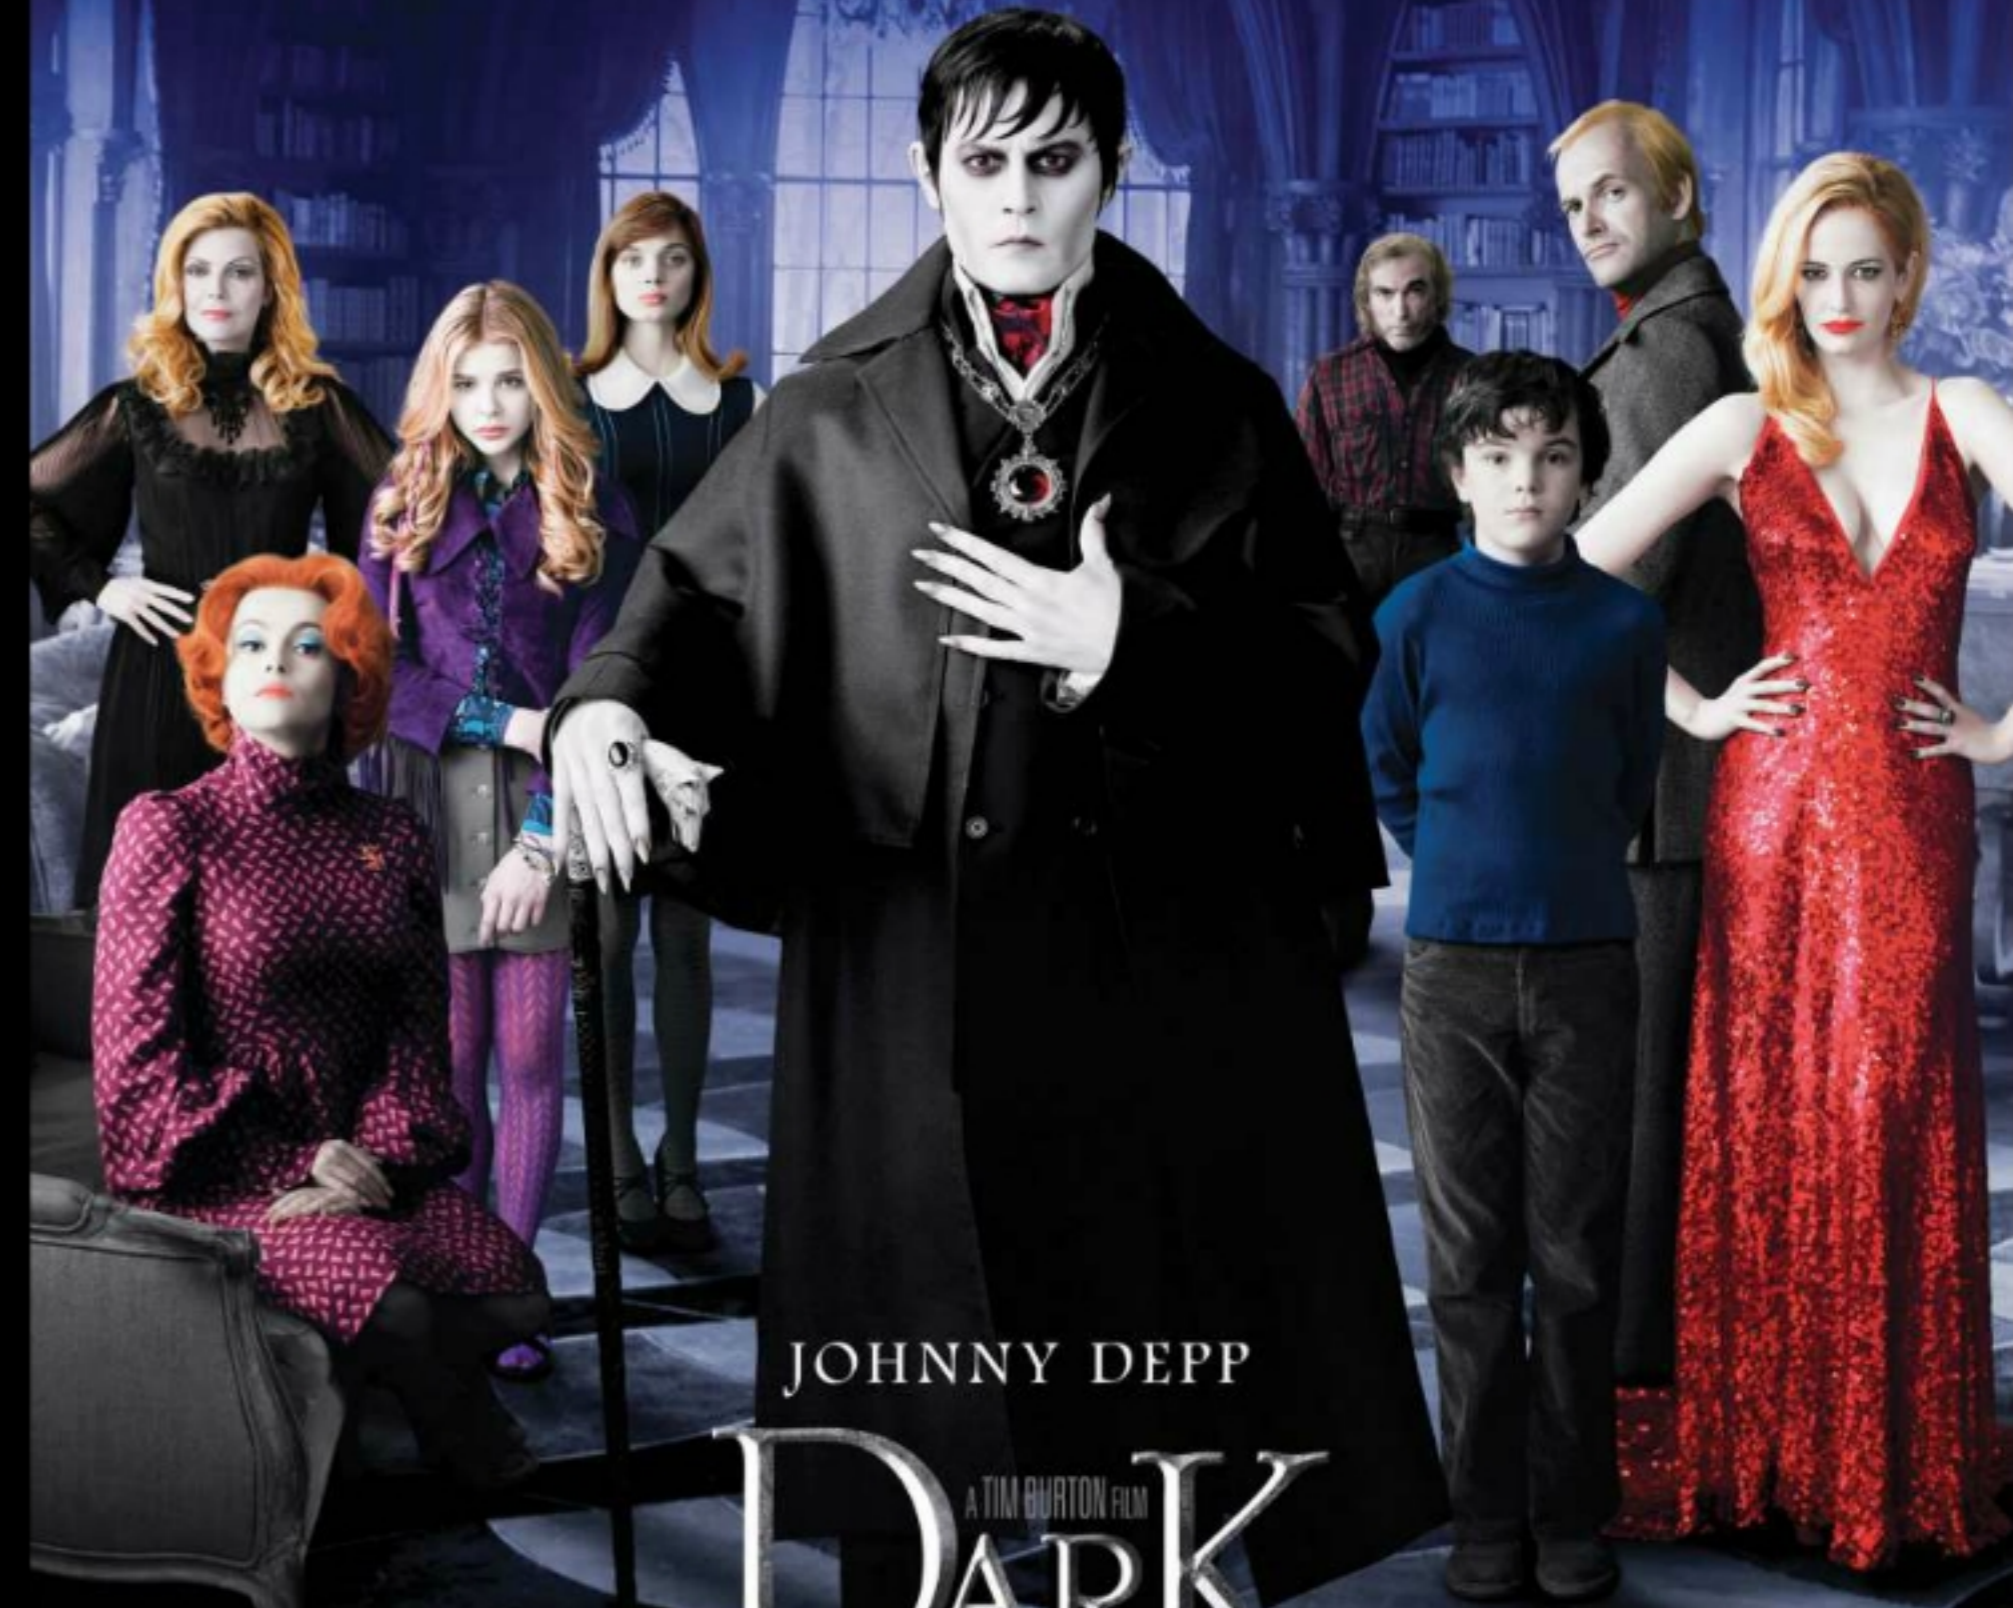

1. She knows every word to Carrie Underwood's "Before He Cheats." (Add an extra point if she sings it out loud in public, such as at karaoke).
2. She trolls your Facebook page and interrogates you about every and any girl who "Likes" anything.
3. You aren't in a committed relationship yet, but she has been asking her close friends how they think her first name sounds with your last name.
4. "The Notebook" is her favorite movie. (Add an extra point if she suggest that you watch it with her).
5. She tells you she wants to have a "girls night," then she sees you check in somewhere in Facebook, she shows up and watches you ... and pounces to you as soon as she spots you casually talking to another girl, and proceeds to freak out on you.
6. She slowly but surely is changing her appearance to resemble your ex-girlfriend.
7. She has a new set of "best-friends" every six months.
8. She introduces you to her friends as her boyfriend, but you guys have never had that talk and are merely in the dating phase of the relationship.
9. She shows up to your work to surprise you with lunch ... but you have never told her where your office is.

Who is hotter in a leather catsuit?
 ■ Scarlett Johansson
 ■ Kate Beckinsale

KANDY'S First Take

So, what if you had a quarter of a BILLION dollars to spend? How would you spend it? Well, make the biggest action move of all-time, of course. And, that is exactly what the folks at Marvel have gone and done. Now, seeing Scarlett Johansson's curvaceous bosoms contained in tight leather is right up there with Kate Beckinsale's body wrapped in a form fitting leather catsuit, but we don't know if that is how we would spend our quarter BILLION dollars.

Hiddleston as the villain Loki from Thor provides continuity to one of the characters and a storyline, as well as creates a great source of conflict within The Avengers. Without giving away too much of the plot, let's just say that Thor and Iron Man level a mountaintop as they work out their differences on how to best take care of Loki.

The Plot

When an unexpected enemy emerges that threatens global safety and security, Nick Fury, Director of the international peacekeeping agency known as S.H.I.E.L.D., finds himself in need of a team to pull the world back from the brink of disaster. Spanning the globe, a daring recruitment effort begins.

The Cast

For a film of this magnitude to be pulled off, the casting has to be nails on. Several of the characters already have established audiences which is important in a film with so many main characters. Introducing Mark Ruffalo as Bruce Banner aka The Hulk was a stroke of genius as the chick flicks veteran will bring sensitivity to the character which will appeal to the female audience. And, of course, bringing back Scarlett Johansson as Black Widow, well ... no argument from this corner. Carrying over Tom

The Box Office Prize

Will The Avengers topple The Dark Knight as the all-time comic book inspired film box office champ? To do so, it will take more than $1 Billion in box office receipts. Iron Man, Thor and Captain America combined have totaled more than $2 Billion in box office receipts. Will their joined forces pull in half that total? Stay tuned, but it will be tough with box office heavy-weight sequels coming out later this summer including MIB 3, Spiderman 4, and The Dark Knight Rises.

The Projected Verdict

Box office champ! When all is said and done, we expect The Avengers to emerge as the all-time box office champ for a comic book movie adaptation.

IRON MAN
(Tony Stark)
Played by:
ROBERT DOWNEY JR.

On top of being an eccentric genius, a billionaire, a play-boy and a philanthropist, Tony Stark (Robert Downey Jr.) is also the armored Super Hero known as Iron Man. Fresh off of defeating enemies the world over, Stark reluctantly agreed to serve as a consultant to Nick Fury's (Samuel L. Jackson) top-secret peacekeeping and intelligence agency known as S.H.I.E.L.D. Now, with a global crisis on the horizon and the fate of the world in the balance, Stark must again power up his Iron Man armor to save the world and become a full-fledged member of The Avengers.

Robert Downey Jr. on Iron Man: "Tony Stark is open to all possibilities and has no problem accepting extraordinary happenings. Joining The Avengers team is an act of curiosity—he wants to see what's happening firsthand. He realized a while ago that he's not an island and this time around he is beginning to understand that it's about a group mindset and that 'we' is better than 'I.'"

THOR
(The God of Thunder)
Played by:
CHRIS HEMSWORTH

An arrogant prince from the distant land of Asgard, Thor (Chris Hemsworth) was banished to Earth after his irresponsible behavior threatened his homeland. While in exile on Earth, Thor learned humility and helped save his new friends from a destructive threat sent by his brother Loki. In the process, Thor redeemed himself in the eyes of his father, Odin, the King of Asgard. After being welcomed back to Asgard as a hero, Thor must now return to Earth once again to prevent a cosmic-level catastrophe. With Mjolnir in his hand, a legendary hammer with immense power, the mighty warrior soon finds himself drawn into an unlikely alliance with Nick Fury's secret initiative, The Avengers, lending his power to their cause against his wayward brother, Loki.

Chris Hemsworth on Thor: "Thor has more of a personal investment in what's happening than the other Super Heroes because Loki is his brother. The bigger conflict for him is that he's trying to protect the greater good, but he has some deep questions about what is going on with his brother."

CAPTAIN AMERICA
(Steve Rogers)
Played by:
CHRIS EVANS

After a top-secret Super Soldier program transformed frail Steve Rogers (Chris Evans) into the powerful and heroic Captain America, his amazing WWII exploits made him a living legend. Steve saved New York City and turned the tide of the war, but crashed into the Arctic during his final mission. Awakening in the modern day, Steve learned that he had spent decades frozen in the icy tundra. Now, Steve Rogers finds himself alone in a modern world that he hardly recognizes. When Nick Fury (Samuel L. Jackson), director of the international peace-keeping agency S.H.I.E.L.D., calls on Rogers to help save the world again, he quickly suits up as Captain America, taking up his iconic shield and bringing his strength, leadership and no-nonsense attitude to The Avengers.

Chris Evans on Captain America: "Big parts of Steve Rogers are his good nature, high morals and strong values. Those morals and values were created in a time when people treated each other differently. The level of interaction was a bit deeper. Everything feels one step apart with all of the technology we have now. A lot of the things that he believed in, stood for and loved have changed. They're not gone—they're just different. He's trying to find his footing in a modern world."

THE HULK
(Bruce Banner)
Played by:
MARK RUFFALO

After a gamma radiation experiment went awry, mild-mannered scientist Dr. Bruce Banner (Mark Ruffalo) found himself with a peculiar condition. When angered or provoked, he would transform into the uncontrollable, green-skinned monster known as The Hulk. Now, fearful of the damage that The Hulk could inflict, Dr. Banner chooses to live a discreet life in remote parts of the world, working to cure the sick and help the poor while trying to elude those who would take advantage of his ability to change into the enormous, green menace.

When a mounting threat calls for Banner's specialized scientific expertise, S.H.I.E.L.D. Director Nick Fury recruits him, knowing full well that the incredible strength of Banner's alter ego, The Hulk, would be an asset to The Avengers.

Mark Ruffalo on The Hulk: "This Hulk is mercurial. He's very unpredictable; he's nuanced. There's a sense of humor there; there's an ability to communicate. But he's bristly and he's incredibly dangerous, like a wild animal. His rage feels real; his reactions to things feel human."

BLACK WIDOW
(Natasha Romanoff)
Played by:
SCARLETT JOHANSSON
S.H.I.E.L.D. Agent Natasha Romanoff, aka Black Widow

(Scarlett Johansson), is one of the world's greatest spies and quite possibly the world's most skilled assassin. Armed with an extensive arsenal of specialized weapons like widow stings and cluster bombs, as well as a vast repertoire of martial arts skills, Romanoff's unique talents make her one of Director Fury's top agents and an integral part in assembling The Avengers.

Scarlett Johansson on Black Widow: "Black Widow is all business. She's sort of in a grey area. In a sense, she's been fighting the good fight despite her dark background. But she's committed because she has to be and her moral ground is more dutiful. She's militaristic in that way; that's how she knows right from wrong."

NICK FURY
(Director of S.H.I.E.L.D.)
Played by:
SAMUEL L. JACKSON
As the legendary director of the international peacekeeping organization S.H.I.E.L.D., Nick Fury (Samuel L. Jackson) is humanity's first line of defense against the world's biggest threats. When S.H.I.E.L.D. becomes aware of an evil that threatens global safety, Fury assembles the planet's most powerful beings and forms The Avengers.

Samuel L. Jackson on Nick Fury: "Nick Fury monitors a lot of things and when he sees a need, he generally goes against the grain; he rubs a lot of people the wrong way by taking actions in situations that they don't necessarily want him to take action in but he does anyway."

HAWKEYE
(Clint Barton)
Played by:
JEREMY RENNER

Jeremy Renner on Hawkeye: "Hawkeye is alone in the game, an outcast and a loner; he's a lone wolf sort of character, so he's not a team player, but will be there if needed."

One of S.H.I.E.L.D.'s most elite agents, Clint Barton (Jeremy Renner), code-named Hawkeye, is the greatest living marksman on Earth. Armed with his weapon of choice, the recurve bow, Hawkeye fires his arsenal of custom-augmented arrows, specialized for any number of specific situations, with perfect precision. With the potential for global catastrophe on the horizon, he employs his amazing combat skills to fight alongside The Avengers.

LOKI
(God of Mischief)
Played by:
TOM HIDDLESTON

After his bid to overthrow the throne of Asgard was thwarted by his brother Thor (Chris Hemsworth), the evil Loki (Tom Hiddleston) retreated to lands unknown to plot his revenge. Not just against his brother, but against Earth, whose inhabitants Thor now protects. Loki now returns with a nefarious plot to conquer Earth and will stop at nothing to see his vision realized. When his misuse of power threatens the entire planet, it may take more than The Avengers to stop him.

Tom Hiddleston on Loki: "Loki's villainy is motivated by the fact that he's damaged and searching for his place in the universe, but in this film he's a lot more menacing and a lot more powerful. He's much more self-possessed. He's also a god, so he's more powerful than any human."

ALBUM: This Is How I Feel
ON SALE: May 8th
GENRE: R&B
LABEL: AR/Atlantic Records
HOMETOWN: Baltimore, MD

Tank is one of the most recognizable names in modern R&B, known for vivid storytelling and sensual love songs. He's also a singer who carries the torch of masters like Marvin Gaye and Al Green, while redefining R&B for a new decade. In "This Is How I Feel," Tank shares the intensely intimate themes his fans have come to love, even as he prepares to show an entirely new side of himself. His first single, "Next Breath," picks up right where he left off with the classic R&B cuts he's given his fans over the years like "Maybe I Deserve" and "Please Don't Go." On it he tells the love interest in his life that he needs her like the air he breathes, a line even a man struck by Cupid's arrow might stammer through. These timeless songs of love, lust, and loss take cinematic tone in the hands of Tank, as he crafts imagery that is uniquely tangible and real.

ARTIST: Jason Mraz
ALBUM: Love Is A Four Letter Word
LABEL: ATG/Atlantic Group
GENRE: Pop
HOMETOWN: Mechanicsville, VA and San Diego, CA

What ties the songs together on the album is their theme. "I had this vision that the album was going to be called 'Love' and I was going to talk about love and share love in one way or another," Mraz says. "I thought it was going to be easy because everything I write comes from a place of love, whether it's a new understanding of it, or a retelling of it, or a reawakening to it. But the more I looked at the subject, the more I realized that love almost can't be defined and who am I to define it anyway? So I went on a journey to try to define the word and be an expression of it in the world."

TERA

Published by: En Masse Entertainment
Genre: MMORPG
Price: $49.99
Rating: M for Mature
Available On: PC

with some of the strongest environmental design ever seen and lush, vibrant character models and spell animations.

It's worth noting that the TERA scheduled to hit shelves in May is far different from the TERA that launched in Korea months ago. En Masse has added systems by the dozens to the game, creating a wholly new experience that's as different from the original as Cataclysm is from World of Warcraft. The level cap is now 60, a public quest system has been implemented, and the economy has been significantly refined. Players that snuck a glance at the Korean version may want to reserve judgment until they've played the North American version.

It's hard to review an MMORPG due to the genre's tendency for enormous, time-sinking games. But TERA offers

If you've played one MMO, you've played them all—create a character, talk to NPCs, kill a few mobs and level up. Move to the next zone up, rinse and repeat. It's an old, stale formula that successful MMORPGs like World of Warcraft, RIFT and Star Wars: The Old Republic have been working to evolve for the last several years. If En Masse's TERA is any indicator, their efforts have largely been successful. TERA is more action-RPG than grindfest, and its robust in-game systems make it one of the most complex MMOs created since EVE Online launched in 2003.

In TERA, you can choose one of several starting races: Aman, Baraka, Bastanic, Elin, High Elf, Human or Popori. Each race has its own special bonuses, but also has access to all of the game's eight classes. Every common MMO archetype is present, from ranged damaged dealers and casters to healers and tanks. Essentially, if you like playing MMOs, you'll find your role of choice in TERA.

Where TERA differs from traditional MMOs, however, is in its actual gameplay. The game utilizes a hybrid control sequence that feels like a mix between hack-and-slash titles and traditional MMO mechanics. You'll spend quite a bit of time mashing buttons and watching your character perform incredibly animated, extravagant attacks. TERA is beautiful from almost any angle, action along with traditional MMO tropes, and will be a strong competitor once it hits shelves. The game boasts instanced dungeons, raid encounters, single-player quests and co-op horde modes—everything you could want from a game and more. TERA has seen some criticism for its depiction of female characters, but if you can overlook the scandalous outfits you'll find a lot to enjoy.

Overall, TERA is a promising new MMO with plenty to offer fans of the genre and newcomers alike. The game has a few kinks, to be sure, but En Masse is working hard to ensure the TERA experience is unlike any MMO you've ever played. Put simply, TERA is a glorious, violent adventure with the potential to change the genre.

Special Thanks to Mike Brochu!

She has built an empire on empowering women through personal fitness. She was named by CBS as 2012's Sexiest Fitness Mom. She has been on Oprah, Inside Edition, The CBS Early Morning Show, Fox and Friends and the Big Idea with Donnie Duetsch. Now, she has made the leap to the big screen in her first major film role in Michael Bay's new film, Pain and Gain.

We have to know. What is your secret to success?

One word! It's PASSION! I'm passionate about helping others achieve their fitness, lifestyle, beauty and glamour goals! I love to see a woman wake up and start enjoying life! It's all about truly relishing every experience, both good and bad, and always staying positive. I have learned the coveted secrets of the most successful people and started practicing them in my life. I can tell you this, you must have a kick ass attitude and think big in order to get anywhere in life. Playing small gets you small results. So, I learned how to unleash my motivation after finding my passion in life and then fulfilling it. As they say, we all have one life to live. But if we live it right, one life is enough.

When did you start modeling and participating in fitness competitions?

WOW! in 2004 was my first show. I placed 1st runner up, and then all the magazine covers starting snowballing from there. It's been a big fun ride!

What was the biggest sacrifice you made to achieve this level of fitness?

NONE! I actually gained a whole new active lifestyle worth celebrating! My sons are now very athletic too! They love to get out and enjoy moving their bodies. If I didn't train, then I would really be making the sacrifice by living a boring and unhealthy lifestyle.

How much time and effort on a daily basis goes into maintaining your physique?

I created my own training method called JNL Fusion, which is based on 'Super Spiking'. This allows you to get max results in minimum time. I train 4 times a week about 45 minutes per session. My JNL Fusion workout regiment is so innovative, because I have blended resistance exercises with fat blasting cardio bursts, so you get the best of both worlds to burn off ugly fat while toning sexy muscle! I love to tighten up sexy, sleek, feminine, muscle tone which is more athletic than aesthetic. I love functional muscle which burns fat while keeping me light on my feet, and oh yes ... I love always being bikini ready!

Lately, there has been quite a few photos of you popping up on the Internet practicing martial arts. What's fueling that passion?

Just say the name "Martial Arts". It is an "Art", not just exercise. My JNL Fusion method is based on many different martial art forms. Plus, I feel enlightened when I train with my bow or staff. It's very empowering. In addition, it's a very disciplined art form of moving your body which connects the mind, body and soul all together. Plus, I have to say I feel sexy when I do martial arts, karate, or kickboxing!

What's your favorite personal feature?

OMG! I have to say my smile. I also love my abs and glutes, as they are my two favorite body parts to train.

What's your opinion on the uproar on models and celebrities being too skinny?

I tell them strong is the new skinny! If you are naturally thin, that's great. But add some sexy lean muscle tone so you won't be a "skinny fat" person.

Can being too skinny have the same damaging affects as being overweight?

Yes! Because you may be thin or a size 2, but you may have a bad cholesterol level, or your body fat percentage could be on the high side.

JNL The Actress

Tell us about your upcoming film, "Pain and Gain".

The opportunity presented itself for me to play a key principle Sun Gym trainer in the up and coming Michael Bay movie based on a real life story which happened where I live in Miami. It stars legendary actors and blockbuster names Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson and Mark Wahlberg. Other extremely talented actors on the cast are Ed Harris, Ken Jeong, Anthony Mackie. Paramount pictures offices contacted my office with this special chance to work with such highly regarded and multi-talented actors. Another admirable actor in the cast is Rob Corddry. He plays the owner of Sun Gym, and we share two very heated screaming matches with each other. One scene I quit the gym and take off my shirt and throw it at him, and in another he fires me and tells me to get out of the gym. Michael Bay is a sheer genius, with such a clear cut vision of what he wants as an artistic outcome on the silver screen. I swear he has at least ten brains and they are all going at once. He is a brilliant creative director, and I was honored to have been on the Pain and Gain set with big notable names in our entertainment and fitness industry.

What character do you play?

Her name is "La Tigra!" She is a feisty high energy, intense, brash and outspoken Sun Gym Trainer. She is a principle Sun Gym trainer who trains Mark Wahlberg's love interest. I enjoyed many scenes where the energy was extremely high, where I was either in a shouting match, quitting my job, or getting fired. I love intense scenes with a lot of passion and strong body language.

/// I love intense scenes with a lot of passion.... ///

So this will be a movie all fitness fanatics won't want to miss!

What was it like to work with Marky Mark and The Rock?

One thing is for sure, I didn't call him Marky Mark! LOL! All and all, Mark is an all around great guy. With a wife and four kids, I totally respect him both on the movie set and off. As a mom and wife myself, I know it's not easy to balance work and family. But he totally has it down pat. He was very cordial, respectful and nice to everyone who came across his way. Dwayne Johnson is another outstanding actor. I watched many scenes with him, and he took this role and ran with it. Again, it's apparent that both of these men have enjoyed long standing careers in the entertainment industry, and part of their success is that they were always ready for their scene, polite to all, and always knocked their scenes out of the part.

When you found out you got the role in the film, did you adjust your training regiment at all?

Absolutely! I think I trained harder for this role than any fitness, bikini or athletic competition! I actually trained to increase my endurance level since I know how it is to be on a movie set. I have filmed many different productions, from live TV to 12 exercise DVDs in 3 days. The camera sucks the life right out of you, so I did my JNL Fusion method to amp up my endurance, energy and stamina levels. When you are on set, and the director needs you, your energy must be at an all time high. So I trained with the specific goal in mind to increase my stamina and to endure long hours in front of the camera. Plus, it's more mental training than physical. You must keep positive on the long hours, and also keep your mind razor sharp. What I also loved about the Michael Bay 'Pain and Gain' movie is that we got to improvise some, which was a freedom enjoyed when you ride high on creative energy. So, I also made sure not to over train, as this can zap your energy and leave you lifeless on set.

Michael Bay's films are usually stunt intensive. Does he have you performing any stunts in the film?

I wish! However, he did push me to the extreme. He always wanted me to be louder, more intense, and really in the face of the camera. One thing for sure, on a Michael Bay set, you can't be shy or doubt yourself - you have to be ready, willing and able to be your best. Plus, this movie is about "over the top" action, outfits, energy and personalities. It's a great black comedy and character piece, built on larger than life actors, personalities and real fitness icons. Again, I'm honored to have been a part of it!

JNL On Men

What's your favorite feature on a guy?

I have to say their minds and also eye contact. I like it when a man can look me straight in my eyes and actually "talk" to me with their facial expressions, and not even say a word. This is very intriguing and powerful .

What's the most important thing men should understand about women?

Those who talk the most do the least, and those who talk the least do the most. So guys leave the out-dated sweet talk and put it to rest, and focus on having your actions speak for you. As the saying goes, actions speak louder than words.

What fitness tips can guys in their 20's take from your daily routine?

WOW! Go for the high intensity. When you build your endurance, you can add to your stamina. A woman loves a man with endless energy.

JNL The Entrepreneur

Tell us a little about your Fitness Model Factory events.

My Fitness Model Factory are not just events, but experiences! They are the most festive times on earth! I invite the biggest names in the industry, and we all network, celebrate and enjoy the positive energy. My Fitness Model Factory is a worldwide known destination spot. It's really an iconic landmark production house where all travel near and far to experience! I shot my entire body paint calendar there, and many other amazing projects.

Do you think you could have accomplished all that you have if you were not living in Miami?

Great question! I visited Miami many years back, and I found my "home". I thrive on the pulsating energy of Miami. When I am not here, I feel like a fish out of water. Miami is like no other place on earth. The people here enjoy beauty, a spicy flavorful life, and love to be either in the ocean, or outside. There is a reason they call it the Magic City! I also have brought a lot of work to Miami. Many of my own productions that my company JNL Worldwide Inc Media Group are produced in Miami.

What's next for the JNL empire?

Launching new clothing items at www.JNLClothing.com and I just released my "Fun Fit Foodie Cookbook" and I am now penning my fourth book called "Beyond the Bikini". But I'll leave it at that as I can't give it all away! I have many, many, many projects up my skirt ... uh, I mean sleeve! You will just have to stay tuned for more!

DATING LIFE OF A REALITY TV STAR

My reality TV experience was mind blowing. I still can't believe I was on a reality show because I always told myself I would never do one. I thought Tough Love Miami on VH1 would be beneficial for my dating life so I decided to do it. Never say never! Living in a house with seven other ladies and being filmed constantly is definitely stressful but at the end of the day you have to remember it's just a show and not everything should be taken seriously. It was expected that I had to go on dates and unintentionally mortify myself on national television, that didn't bother me so much. The only thing that bothers me is when I'm in public and someone recognizes me from the show and asks me if I'm still stripping. I was never a stripper! I was known as the go-go dancer on the show and for some odd reason people think go-go dancing is stripping. Those people need to get out of their little bubble and come to Vegas so you can see that go-go dancing and stripping have absolutely nothing to do with each other. I wish I could say that the show improved my dating life but it didn't. I'm currently single but dating. I learned a few tips while on dates but the show in no way, shape or form helped me find Mr. Right. I know he's on his way though!

MISTER RIGHT

A guy gets my attention by having quiet confidence. There's nothing better than an attractive man that knows he's attractive but doesn't flaunt it. I'm just really into men that don't try too hard because when you try too hard it makes you look desperate.

WILD AND CRAZY IN VEGAS

That's a tough one because I see crazy things happen on a weekly basis. The craziest thing I've probably seen was this couple getting jiggy with it in a public pool while two random guys stood around and watched. People here have no shame!

TOURISTS

The best part of living in Las Vegas is constantly being entertained by overly intoxicated first time tourists. Every time I'm on the strip the tourists never cease to amaze me! There is never a dull day in Vegas!

REHAB

Rehab is the hottest pool party because it's the ORIGINAL Vegas pool party. Rehab was the first pool party in this city and it started the trend. It's wild, exciting, and you'll leave having some great stories to tell your friends when you return to your normal lives.

First kiss: My first kiss was in middle school and I thought it was amazing at the time but now that I look back I'm realizing neither one of us knew how to kiss.

Your best feature: I think my best feature is my smile. I have a big one!

Best feature on a guy: A muscular back is so damn sexy to me.

Best first date: I was taken to a Vegas show I had been wanting to see for a while called Zumanity. It was a very sexual show which is right up my alley!

Best surprise: I was having a bad day and told my boyfriend at the time I needed to get away so out of nowhere he plans a little getaway for us to go to Key West for a week. It was so thoughtful and sweet.

If you did not live in Vegas where would it be? If I didn't live in Vegas I would live in Los Angeles. I love the entertainment industry and am determined to be successful.

Favorite vacation spot: Anywhere tropical and with a good nightlife. I would love to go to a nude beach.

Celeb crush: I think so many celebrities are attractive! Don't laugh, but Simon Cowell is dead sexy to me. He has had my heart since the first season of American Idol. I would love to go on a date with him!

Jewelry of choice: Anything Beysey Johnson

Favorite ride. A plane, duh:)

Blazing Across
Screens of All Sizes

As many of our readers are aware, we have an ongoing feature in the magazine called "America's Sexiest Boss" where we feature different women in business. Stefanie Blaze would definitely fit the criteria but, after getting to know her a little better, we decided she deserved more of a Kandy feature. So, guys, here you go ... enjoy!

Tell us about Blaze Modelz.

First of all, Blaze Modelz is with a Z not an S – ha ha. Blaze Modelz is a full service modeling agency based in LA, with offices in Beverly Hills and Hermosa Beach. I am the founder/CEO and started this agency two years ago, but have been in this type of business for 14 years! We recently filmed our reality show “Remodeled” on the CW Network, we replaced Americas Next Top Model last season!! The full season will air again this Summer 2012!! Blaze Modelz is now the ONLY agency in California branded by “The Network” (talent) and famous supermodel agent Paul Fisher! The sky is now the limit for Blaze Modelz, anything is possible!

What motivated you to start a modeling agency?

I started my agency because I had been a model since I was 15 years old! I had always had the height (standing 5’10” currently) and was successful as a model from high fashion, runway, print to current swimwear and glamour. Everyone had always told me I should start my own agency because I was always booking myself and my friends/former models jobs constantly. I was ALWAYS working, if not on a shoot/job I was working on the computer booking and booking. It took me a while to realize this, but then I did, and I initially started this business out of my home. It wasn’t long until I realized I needed some kind of office space to conduct meetings, castings and overall ... so people would take me seriously and sign with me. I opened my first office in West Hollywood and now have an office on the Pier overlooking Hermosa BEACH!

What’s the biggest misconception guys have of beautiful women in business?

Guys think that modeling is EASY. That’s the biggest misconception PERIOD. Not just guys, but anyone who has never done any modeling think that beautiful women get paid just to be beautiful. It’s not that easy, shoots are LONG hours and very tough. The positions that we have to hold are not as glamorous as it looks. There is a lot of down time which can be very boring if you don’t create things to do with all of your free time. The pay isn’t as it seems either. There is always someone more beautiful than you out there, and they are willing to do things for free and for exposure, leaving us with crappy pay and sometimes no pay.

What do you tell girls trying to break into the business?

I tell girls who are trying to break into the business, not too! Modeling is a tough, very tough industry - how would you like to go to castings 2 - 3 times per day, 100 castings per week, 400+ castings a month (if not more), 4,800 per year and get denied, denied, denied. This will really do something to your self-esteem. Beautiful, and I say Beautiful girls, get denied over and over and over. Girls start to look in the mirror and think something is wrong with them. They start seeing things that only they see, and they start doing things to change themselves. But, if you can get past that, and are strong, and you have what it takes, the right girls can be very successful in this industry. As long as you know this, and know this as a parent letting your child go into this, don’t say we didn’t warn you. We tell you NOT to get into the business, we tell you all of the bad things about the business. But, we also tell you the good things and what can come out of it. Just keep your morals and give back ... and the world will give back to YOU.

Who are more difficult - male or female models?

FEMALE models are the most difficult for sure! Female models can be tough to work with. Depending on the model that is; female models are more insecure and take longer to get ready. If you are booking a group of girls or work trip and have to go out of town, beware! This is the most difficult! In most cases, a group of girls always results in some sort of drama / catfight, etc. It’s all so silly, but it almost never fails.

What has been your favorite shoot?

My favorite shoot was a simple shoot for a look book and we shot at an air force base. Well, I guess that’s not so simple in all reality. I got to crawl in the cockpit and different areas of the plane! The pictures turned out amazing and it was definitely an amazing memory. Modeling is definitely a life experience, we get to do some things that people dream of doing. People’s dreams are my reality. I am truly blessed, grateful and thankful.

Tell us about your craziest photo shoot.

My craziest shoot was when we were doing an advertisement for a theme park, and they shut down some of the rides at the park to take pictures of me. I had to climb up and down parts of roller coasters and there were times where I was the only one (and the production crew) on the rides, ALONE and trying to shoot and make pretty facial expressions moving fast at periods without screaming and acting like it was a piece of cake, and it WASN'T THAT EASY, needless to say! -haha ha. I have some great memories of many crazy shoots!

What should guys recognize when approaching a beautiful woman?

They should recognize that it's not just a beautiful woman, that woman has a personality too! (Well, at least I hope she does, I guess I can't speak for everyone ... ha ha ha)

Where is the one place a guy should never approach a woman?

When you're driving, in your car, minding your own business. And a guy pulls up next to you, telling you to roll down the window, and if you don't, they beg you to roll down the window, to "holler" at you, and try to get your number. AND You think to yourself, that's someone out there's boyfriend. How pathetic.

What's next for you?

Well, I have had my agency for two years now, and have accomplished so much in as little as TWO years... It's unbelievable to be quite honest! The future is bright in every direction... I am just working day to day, week to week and amazing opportunities arise often, there are many things that are NEXT... follow me and you will see.

//...keep your morals and give back ... and the world will give back to YOU.//
