EXCLUSIVE!

Lucy's 2013 calendar!

A peek at the main reason why 2013 is your lucky year!

How are you, Lucy? What have you been up to recently? I'm very good! I've been on holiday, which was nice. I've just been doing my Pinder things and shooting my best calendar yet.

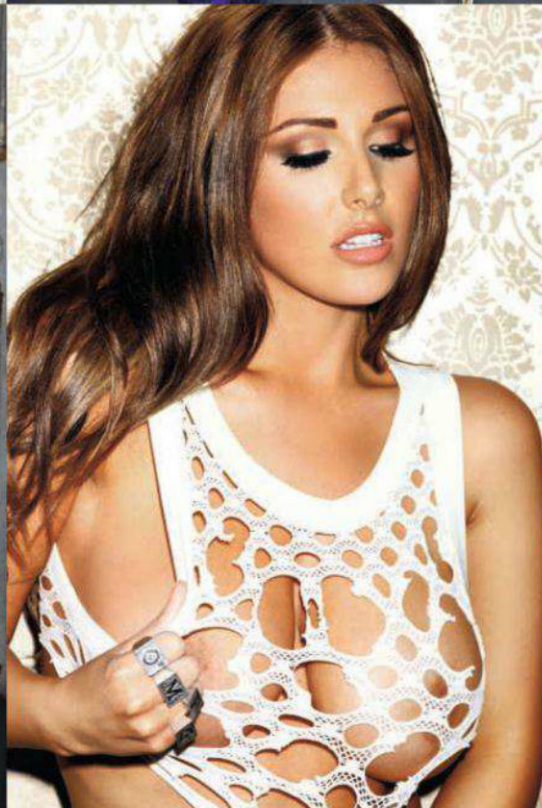

Really? What makes it your best calendar yet? I'm really pleased with it this year – there's quite a lot of nakedness! Probably one of my most naked calendars. We did it in a really cool red house. It's quite a red vibe. ►

She was always a stickler for a dress code

The decorator tried to distract from her shoddy work

Which was your favourite month in this year's shoot?

There's one where I'm naked from the thighs, crouching with big blue shoes on with blue bangles and not a lot else – that's probably my favourite. That and the one of me sat on the stairs – April, I believe.

It looks like your top in the February pic has been riddled with bullets. What happened?

I don't know where that was from! I don't know if it was the stylist doing her own thing or if it came like that. It's like a naughty "you can see my nipples but you kind of can't!"

What would you say is your favourite month in general?

Oh, that's difficult. Umm, because I'm a Christmas baby, I do like December. September is a nice month 'cos I usually get a holiday! I'm not a fan of March. It's a bit kind of "is it spring, is it winter?" I think we get quite a wet March, so that's my least favourite.

As we come towards the end of the year, what have been the highlights of 2012 for you?

Generally, I think the Olympics was a highlight of this year. I was one of these people who was quite cynical and negative about the whole thing and then actually got quite into it. The highlight of my year is being voted number one in the Nuts 100 Sexiest Topless Babes, of course.

Anything bad to report in 2012?

It's been quite a positive year, hasn't it? The Jubilee was this year too. Especially considering we're still in a recession, we've had a lot to celebrate. It's been a very good year to be British!

Thanks, Lucy. Finally, if you could invent an extra holiday to celebrate what would it be?

We should have Nuts Day, to celebrate all things Nuts! Lots of boobs and jelly and ice cream and other fun things like that. And sausage rolls – you can't have a party without sausage rolls! X

THANKS A BOT!

"Just realised I forgot my pants... back in a mo"

CHRIS KAMARA

NUTS COLUMNIST

"It has to be an Olympian or Paralympian. For once, football and boxing won't get a look in. I'll say BRADLEY WIGGINS, because he won the Tour de France, then went to the Olympics and won there. If it'd been me, I'd still have been celebrating the Tour de France by the time the Games started!"

PHIL "THE POWER" TAYLOR

15-TIME WORLD DARTS CHAMPION

"I'm going to give my vote to MO FARAH, not just because he's a fantastic sportsman but he's also a thoroughly nice guy, a great personality with a fantastic smile. Did you see him on The Cube? It's no wonder the nation fell in love with him."

Sports Personality 2012: the stars vote!

Nuts ropes in some famous sporting friends to help find an answer to one of the year's most impossible questions...

THE SPORTING year isn't over yet but we're already struggling – who the heck should we vote for in the BBC Sports Personality Of The Year poll? One of our super cyclists, Hoy, Pendleton or Wiggins? A track and field titan such as Ennis or Farah? Olympics and Paralympics record-shatterers like Ainslie or Weir? We asked the experts for their views...

DAVID WEIR

WINNER OF FOUR PARALYMPICS GOLD MEDALS

"I've got admiration for BRADLEY WIGGINS for what he did at the Tour De France and what he did in the Olympics was really special. He inspired me a bit when I was watching the Tour de France – he tweeted me once in the games. He said: 'Awesome, Mr Weir, awesome.'"

BETH TWEDDLE

THREE-TIME OLYMPIAN AND LONDON 2012 BRONZE MEDAL GYMNAST

"My selection would have to be MO FARAH. He's been amazing for British athletics. But more than that, he's so down to earth. You could always see him out and about in the Olympic village, always smiling. I'm really proud of what he's done in his sport."

STEVE CLARIDGE

FOOTBALL LEGEND AND BBC PUNDIT

"I'll go for BRADLEY WIGGINS over Andy Murray as Nadal wasn't fit for the US Open, so that's a major contender out. He didn't play Federer on his way to the final – the draw was too kind to him. Wiggins sustained his excellence over a period of time, so I'm going for him."

LAURA BECHTOLSHEIMER
BRITISH TEAM GOLD
AND INDIVIDUAL
BRONZE DRESSAGE

"I'd pick my dressage colleague CHARLOTTE DUJARDIN [team and individual gold]. I know it's a long shot! But only a handful of women have ever won double gold at an Olympics. She's also put a lesser known sport on the radar which is a huge deal."

GARETH SOUTHGATE FORMER ENGLAND DEFENDER
"I sat up and watched
Andy Murray win the US Open and he has a real shot at becoming world number one, but MO FARAH's two wins made for the most emotional story. Nothing could've better summed up what a multicultural nation we've become. He's a good personality as well, which is where we started off!"

NATHAN CLEVERLY
WBO WORLD LIGHT
HEAVYWEIGHT
CHAMPION AND
LONSDALE AMBASSADOR

"SIR CHRIS HOY is very consistent, winning over a number of years. He's been the world number 1 for years in a gruelling, physically demanding sport. He's won the most medals and just keeps producing."

PETER SHILTON
ENGLAND
GOALKEEPING
LEGEND, WINNER
OF 125 CAPS

"My vote for sports personality would have to go to ANDY MURRAY. To win the US Open on top of an Olympics gold medal is a great achievement, that has to elevate him even above the other Olympics and Paralympics heroes."

PAUL MERSON
EX ENGLAND
INTERNATIONAL
AND SKY PUNDIT
"My selection may seem odd but I half expected the big names like Farah, Ennis, Hoy and Wiggins to win. For me, GREG RUTHERFORD provided the moment of the Olympics when he won the long jump. Nobody mentions him, yet the lad has come out of nowhere!"

What Nuts readers said...

12,000 Nuts readers voted in our online poll. Here are your top five!

- 1 Bradley Wiggins
- 2 Jessica Ennis
- 3 Andrew Murray

Assassin's Creed 3: first play!

The bloodiest ever history lesson!

➔ NUTS HAS got its gaming paws on the latest instalment of historical action-adventure game Assassin's Creed for a first play, and we can report that it's a top game!

Set in 1775 during the American Revolution, Assassin's Creed 3 has you play the part of a Native American called Connor. As well as allowing you a murderous romp through American history, there's a massive landscape to explore, with battles on both land and sea.

Out for Xbox 360, PS3 and PS Vita on 31 October.

NEW MISSION!

As Connor, your task is to protect villages from gangs and lead the Revolution by hacking the limbs off anyone who gets in your way with a tomahawk axe!

A screenshot from the game Assassin's Creed 3 showing Connor in his blue and white naval outfit, standing on the deck of a ship. He is looking towards the camera. In the background, another ship is visible on the water.

NEW OUTFITS!

Ditch the stealth robe for an admiral outfit and change your pauper threads to something nice as you gain money, importance and fame.

A screenshot from the game Assassin's Creed 3 showing Connor in his white hooded assassin outfit, standing on a rooftop. He is looking towards the camera. In the background, a large British flag is flying from a pole, and a town is visible in the distance.

NEW LANDS!

From dense forests to guarded villages and epic sea battles, the vast game map takes hours to cross. A decent map system helps to guide newbies.

NUTS GETS HANDS ON!

Nuts man Richard played the game for two hours at the Tower of London with its creators!

NEW ENEMIES!

Take out pirates, poachers and vigilantes with your trusty bow, then rough up the last man standing so he can spread a message of fear among your enemies.

NEW WEAPONS!

Blades are fine for basic stealth disembowelment but Connor also rocks a cool rope dart, and he can swing two swords at once with his wrestler-size arms.

NEW FRIENDS!

New allies will direct you to the sea and help on your rise to naval boss. You'll do everything from steer the ship to attack pirates and yes, find treasure.

John Bishop's new gags!

The chirpy comic's latest rib-ticklers!

On Freddie Flintoff and James Corden!

"I took a penalty at Wembley for A League Of Their Own. The kid who throws stuff for a living, he scores. Fat lad who had to put a pasty down on his way to the penalty spot, he scores. It was the Community Shield, Man United were playing Man City two years ago. Forty thousand Man City fans and 40,000 Man United fans who hated each other. They said, 'The guys from A League Of Their Own are going to take a penalty at half-time.' James Corden. Big cheer. Freddie Flintoff. Big cheer. Eighty thousand Mancs heard my name. I felt like Nelson Mandela. I brought those people together. Eighty-thousand shouting, 'You Scouse b*stard!'"

On the Royal Family!

"I'm not that keen on the Royal Family. Like every other Scouser, I don't mind people who live off the estate, I just think they take it a bit too far."

On porn!

"In my day, porn was the Littlewoods catalogue, specifically pages 462-511. There might have been a few medical girdles but it was great in-between. Now kids have seen it all. Go on the internet. 'I want some fella with a 27-inch cock, a sheep dog and spaghetti.' A hundred-and-fifty-thousand hits."

On Fifty Shades Of Grey!

"My wife said, 'Me mate bought it for me.' I bet not one single bloke has ever gone to his mate, 'I've been reading this fantastic w*nk mag. I'd lend you mine but it's a bit sticky so I got you your own copy.'"

"My wife said, 'You should read it, you might learn something.' So I read a few chapters on the plane. I did learn something. I learnt you're not allowed to w*nk on a plane."

On Prince Harry's naked pics!

"There he was, naked in a Las Vegas hotel room, holding his balls while playing billiards. I was kind of disgusted. He's third in line to the throne. There's no fking way I want to be ruled by someone who can't play billiards."

On school!

"I've got three teenage boys. Imagine the toilet paper we're going through at the moment."

"There was a thing in the paper recently, the number of kids with ADHD. ADHD? When I was at school, no one had ADHD. We hadn't heard of ADHD. We didn't have lasagne either."

On marriage!

"One of my kids came up with the name for this tour, Rollercoaster. My missus said, 'That's perfect. That's what marriage is like.' Yeah, it is like a rollercoaster. You get together and sit in the carriage together. You hold hands as it chugs away, full of anticipation. You get to the top and there's a moment of pure clarity where you can see everything. And then it's fking downhill the rest of the way."

"My wife says marriage is like a dishwasher. The more you put in, the more you put out. Yeah, it is like a dishwasher. Good to begin with, but after a while, you think, 'I'll be quicker doing it myself by hand.'"

"Why do women always say they need a new dress? Because someone goes around to every woman's house before they're about to go to a big do, takes all the dresses out of the cupboard, takes photos of them all, puts them on the internet for the whole world to see, and if anyone notices that one has been worn twice, they think, 'What a stinky bitch.'"

On Sport Relief!

"I'll never do it again now I know that Africans don't buy my DVDs. I even sent them the money to buy my DVDs. I thought you can't get DVDs in Africa. You can, but you can only get them in Somalia and they're all pirates."

On Prince Philip!

"They could have brought out anything at the press conference, like he's got a bad back, he slipped a disc, or he got knocked over shooting a deer. They said, 'He can't come, he's got an infected bladder.' You can imagine the Queen. He stood there in the rain looking at all those boats going, 'I'm not coming tomorrow.' And she's gone, 'If you don't come to my birthday tomorrow, I'll tell everyone there's something wrong with your c*ck.'"

● John Bishop: Rollercoaster is on tour now.

Deft leopard!

Feathery chap heads to the great aviary in the sky thanks to cat capture!

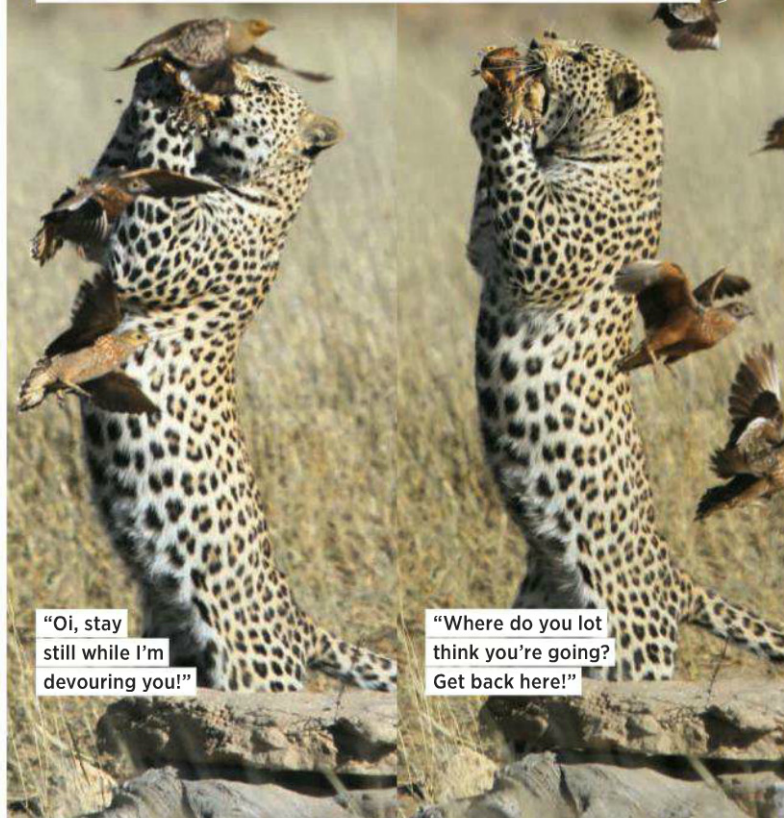

IT'S NEVER nice to see a little fluffy birdie die horribly but, sometimes, you have to give the beast killing it a bit of applause.

This young leopard in a nature reserve in Botswana showed off some cat-like reflexes (appropriate, really, since it's a cat) to catch a passing sandgrouse – sadly for the sandgrouse, it's not in the leopard's nature to then pat you on the head and let you go. Nope, the sandgrouse got eaten – but we're sure even the bird would admit that these pictures are pretty cool. If it wasn't a big pile of leopard poo by now.

Insane Audi convertible!

The wind in hair, heart in your gob... This is the new convertible Audi RS5 – a 444bhp hairdryer!

- Audi convertibles have long been kind on the eyes, so it's no surprise the soft-top version of the flagship RS5 is a real head-turner.
- In 17 seconds, the RS5 goes from cosy, quiet hood-up status to topless audio studio with a screaming 4.2-litre hand-built V8 delivering 444bhp to all four wheels.
- Like the hardtop coupé, the RS5 cabriolet can call on the legendary Quattro system for a 40:60 power split. In fact, up to 70 per cent of the grunt can be dished out to the front axle, and 85 per cent to the rear.
- Earlier this year, the hardtop RS5 had a facelift, with sharper bonnet contours, tweaked bumpers, new ten-spoke 19in rims, "solid band" wraparound LED running lights and LED rears. The RS5 cabriolet has all of the above, plus a roof that drops in 17 seconds at up to 31mph.

- If it rains, you could clog the V8 and savour the three-stage head-level and front seat heating, or put the roof up in 15 seconds.
- To stop this cabrio feeling as floppy as a four-week old cucumber, it sits 20mm lower and has had chubbier anti-roll bars and stiffer suspension mounts bolted up underneath. This adds 200kg to the weight, so

"Ee, I remember when it were all fields round here"

"Oops! That bridge was even lower than I thought!"

0-62mph happens in 4.9 seconds – 0.4 seconds slower than the coupé.

- To compensate, the RS5's front wings are made from aluminium. Peer through the wheels and you'll see radical flower-shaped mountain bike-style disc brakes. This reportedly shaves off 3kg, although carbon ceramic brakes do appear on the options list.
- With almost identical performance to the Porsche 911 Carrera cabriolet, the RS5 rag top costs over £8k less. And the sound of that V8 at 8,250rpm through the Hatfield Tunnel? Abso-bloody-lutely priceless!

iPhone 5 is here!

Thinner, lighter, faster and, well, just better

➔ APPLE HAS finally lifted the lid on its iPhone 5 and

Nuts was the first magazine to play with the most anticipated smartphone since phones got smart.

It's thinner, lighter, has a taller 4in screen and packs the new A6 chip – twice as powerful as the A5 of the iPhone 4S. The new iOS 6 operating system includes Apple's own Maps app with free satnav gubbins.

You'll get upgraded "Ear Pods", and the usual iPhone connector has been ditched for a tiny one, but our fave feature is the "panorama" photo function and Shared Photo Streams, a kind of private Facebook that lets you "Like" those pics which aren't safe for work.

Apple is taking online pre-orders now before it drops into shops on 21 September – we're going to camp out to get ours, though. We like camping.

Verdict:

A dream of a smartphone with a processor that will worry your games machine. It might cost £529 on Pay As You Go, but it makes rivals look ugly and weak when placed side by side.

WORDS: RICHARD MELVILLE

A6 PROCESSOR!

Twice as fast, better for games, quicker snaps and smaller than a thumbnail!

THINNER THAN EVER!

Eighteen per cent thinner and 20 per cent lighter than the iPhone 4S.

BIGGER SCREEN!

Taller, not wider – better for emails and widescreen YouTube HD funnies.

EAR PODS!

Upgraded earphones with added bass ports and a better fit for all lugholes.

NEW CONNECTOR!

Smaller, but you'll need an adaptor to make it work with your old dock.

This plucky Chinese chap came out of a car accident with a rusty iron plate, measuring 30cm by 50cm, driven more than 10cm into his skull and brain. Yet, after some very careful blowtorch work, and the small matter of ten hours of surgery, he lived to crash another day. He probably has a cool scar to show chicks, too.

SEX ADVICE FROM A FIT LESBIAN!

Because she knows what she's doing and we don't!

DANNI ORSI,
100% REAL
LESBIAN!

You might recognise Danni from hit TV show Candy Bar Girls on Channel 5

She hates sideburns!

After watching Bradley Wiggins at the Olympics, I really want to grow some massive sideburns. My girlfriend says she'll dump me if I do it. Do you think I should just grow some anyway?

DAVE Worthing

Would you stay with her if she decided never to shave again? There should always be compromise. Fashions die out and this will, too. I'd listen to your girlfriend on this one.

Dress like her? No way!

My girlfriend says it'd turn her on if I dressed up as her when we have sex! There's no way I'd ever let it happen. How do I tell her I won't without upsetting her?

DEANO Cambridge

LETTER OF THE WEEK!

Should I snoop on her?

Because my girlfriend is an air hostess, I hardly get to see her. Every time she goes away I get paranoid about what she's up to. She always leaves her Facebook logged on when she stays round mine. Should I go through her messages?

SHARPY Manchester

There are two points to this situation that you're not seeing. Your girlfriend is an air hostess who constantly returns to you. If she didn't have feelings for you she would simply not bother. The fact she leaves herself logged on Facebook shows she has nothing to hide. Don't be jealous – be a man. No one fancies weak people!

I wonder where she got that idea from? Was it out of the ordinary or has she always been a wild child? What's your fantasy? Perhaps you could make a compromise. Use this situation to your advantage and make sure your idea goes first – she may be too tired to carry on for round two!

Sex for a bet!

I found out recently that a girl only had sex with me so she could win a bet. Now I'm worried this just means I'm a joke.

What do you think?

DANNY London

It's not fun this side of the game, is it? Girls get hurt all the time by games you boys play. Take it on the chin. You still got a shag, didn't you? I doubt she slept with you for a bet. I presume you slept together drunk, perhaps by mistake. Is she best friends with your ex, friend's brother or neighbour, perhaps? These would be good reasons to cover up the fact that she fancies you!

- If you've got something to ask Danni, just email her at thelesbian@nutsmagazine.co.uk or write to her at the usual Nuts address on p64.

Pascal

Get up close with this awesome Essex girl!

How would you describe yourself?

A girlie girl with a dark side. I'm pampered, but I also like to kick out a bit.

What do you look for in a man?

Tattoos, please! I like a man's man – no fake tan, waxing or pretty hair. I also like a bloke with a big appetite – I can't stand fussy eaters. He has to be able to clear his plate!

What's your ideal date?

I hate the idea of a date – well, a standard, sit-in-a-bar-drinking date, anyway. I don't want to hang around making small talk. I'd love to do something like dune buggy racing or zorbing – something we can have a laugh at.

How are you on a night out?

First on the dancefloor, last off it! I love dancing and goofing around. I'm also notorious for rounding my mates up at the bar and getting them to down shots of tequila. There's no escaping it when I'm around.

How should we approach you?

Challenge me to a dance-off. I'd love that! Nothing too professional, though. I want to see some ridiculous dance moves. Bust out "the worm"!

What's your sexiest outfit?

I do classic, sexy stuff. Maybe a tight, black all-in-one. Kind of like a catsuit. Meeow!

What's the craziest thing you've done on a night out?

Streak! I was at a house party and thought it would be a good idea to bust out of the bathroom wearing nothing at all. How many people were there? Enough!

DAVID WEIR

London 2012 four-time Paralympic gold medallist on winning, fame and Ibiza...

Hi David! Was it always your ambition to race in front of millions of people? Yeah, you just dream about things like that. The Paralympics have been something special – to win in front of 80,000 people – but I wasn't scared by it. It was the home crowd that made it a privilege. Paralympic sport has grown so much this year and I felt we weren't getting as much recognition as other sports. People were going to see quality sport, they weren't thinking about disability. People weren't thinking, "Let's go and see these people in wheelchairs!" They were thinking, "Let's go and see some great action tonight!" You only get that in Britain because we're sport mad and want to see any kind of sport. That inspires me.

When did you realise this was what you wanted to do with your life?

I didn't get many qualifications in school and I just felt sport was the way forward, really. Then I saw how great the 2000 Games in Sydney looked on TV and I was in floods of tears, wishing I was there. I didn't look back after that.

Tell us a bit about yourself and your background.

I'm 33, I've been racing since I was eight and I live on a South London council estate. Everyone has always known me on the estate and I don't feel any different – I've always felt like one of the boys and just done what they've done. I lived a normal life.

Do athletes such as yourself enjoy the perks, money and lifestyle that able-bodied athletes do?

I can't say I've got a lot of money because I'm Lottery funded. I've got a few sponsors but I'm not going around in a big Rolls-Royce. I was never there for the money, I was there to do a job – win gold medals. I was waiting for that day for seven years.

Do you feel that athletes such as yourself don't enjoy the same level of recognition as other athletes?

These Games have changed people's minds and made people realise these Paralympians are proper athletes, like the Olympians, like everyone else. They train as hard as everyone else and the media have got better as well. By the end, the press were 30-people deep on the track.

Tell us about the technology behind your wheelchair?

It's custom built and it costs £3,500 to build. It's not like a bike, where you can adjust it. It's got carbon fibre wheels and it's about seven kilos – the chair has to feel like part of your body so I don't have any padding – I'm sitting on a carbon seat. I have a spare one in case I have a big crash, too.

You have incredible upper body strength – do you bench press a lot?

I never want to lift too much because you get too bulky. We did one bench session with ten reps at 55kg, ten reps at 65kg, ten reps at 80kg and then I'd have a couple of minutes rest, then I'd start doing reps at 60kg again. Then I'd do 20 chin-ups and I thought, "Jesus, this is killing me!"

What did you make of Oscar Pistorius' comments about his some of his rivals' blade lengths?

I thought it was a bit sour at first – I think he was a little bit wrong and it made him look like he was a sore loser. He hasn't lost for nine years, so he probably didn't know how to react. He'll learn from that and try even harder now. He's apologised and I've got a lot of respect for him saying that.

Personally, what was the greatest moment of the Games for you?

Winning four gold medals and seeing family and friends at the end of it was a great achievement – I made history. My family were supporting me all week and I've never had that before because I've always been on the end of the phone. I feel like I'm dreaming – I feel like I haven't done it yet then I wake up and I think it isn't real.

What has the public's reaction been like?

The crowds were superb – we felt like we were on a level par with the Olympics for the first time ever. It was bloody awesome every day. I couldn't even hear my name against the cheers.

Where do you go from here? The Paralympics in Rio 2016?

I haven't had time to think about that yet – I'm just going to enjoy my time off. I'm on a high still after what I've achieved, I didn't think it was possible. I'm off to Ibiza to spend some time with my mates – I keep saying to Emily [Weir's girlfriend], can't we buy a villa out there?

Any other events you fancy having a crack at?

I'd probably have a go at wheelchair basketball but I've so much experience at racing, I just want to get the next generation racing and put wheelchair racing on the map.

Finally, David, where did your "Weir Wolf" nickname come from?

Rick Edwards and the Channel 4 guys! After my first couple of finals, someone came up to me and showed me the masks people wear, then the media got hold of it and it went wild. Everyone howls at me – even in the street!

'THE BULLETS MISSED ME BY CENTIMETRES...'

MAJOR RUSSELL LEWIS TELLS NUTS ABOUT HIS SIX-MONTH TOUR OF HELMAND

VER THE six months he led a company of Paratroopers on a tour of Helmand, Afghanistan, Major

Russell Lewis was shot at and nearly blown up countless times. On his return in 2009, he was awarded the Military Cross for his leadership. Here he tells Nuts about leading 200 troops into that firestorm...

Hi Major Lewis. What were conditions like in Helmand?

Hot, dirty and messy – freezing in winter and scorching hot in summer. You live in an enclosed space shared by hundreds of people. The toilets were just a trench with a shed above it. You can't imagine the smell.

How difficult are the Taliban to face?

We're a well-trained, well-armed beast but a slow-moving one – we carry around 70-90lb each. This makes it challenging to fight a light, agile foe who has local knowledge. Our main advantage is they're looking to attack us, not the other way round. Therefore, we can draw them to a ground of our choosing, making it the worst possible place for their attack.

What's an average day like in Helmand?

Typically, we'd rise at 2-3am to beat the heat, then head out on patrol. I'd pick an area I'd want to search before first light. We'd reach that target then wait for dawn. Shortly after that, we'd expect to be attacked. Knowing it's coming takes a lot of pressure off. You never want to be in a position where you're ambushed – if I know they're coming, I know that my men are prepared, giving us a huge advantage.

What is it like being under enemy fire?

One time, I was under fire in open ground. As my pace sped up, so did the enemy's bullets, which meant he was firing directly at me. Bullets have a different noise the closer they get – once they're really close, say 50cm, they start to make a zipping sound. So close were they, it's like your body braces itself to be hit – your nerves almost reach out for the impact.

Your company lost three men to a suicide attack. You rejected airlifting them out for treatment for fear of the helicopter being shot down. How hard was that decision to make?

You need to draw a line between what you want to do and what you need to do. I wanted to get my injured men out of there as quickly as possible, but a voice in my head said, "If a helicopter comes here and gets shot down in the middle of all your men, you've made the situation ten times worse." We had to return the next day to clear up any forensics. You don't want any enemy taking snaps of bandages or bloody ground and using it to show they had hurt us.

How did you lift morale after that?

You tune in to what individuals need. Some need to be left alone others need a personal touch – an extra phone card to call home.

What part does luck play in battle?

Well, one corporal was stood in the middle of the men who were killed during that suicide attack but he survived. He was stood on a log, meaning the force of the blast projected him straight into a ditch rather than going through him. He must've escaped death by millimetres.

What was your own nearest miss?

An RPG clipped a wall about three feet above my head and exploded in the next field. If it had detonated at the wall, it would've killed me. No chance of survival.

Who has the most dangerous job in your command?

We have a position we call "point man" – the first man out as we file out on patrol. He's the first person attacked in an ambush and needs to be the first to spot a threat. If he misses one himself, his comrades might die. It's a supreme test of nerve.

How difficult is it to go home again after being in combat?

It's surreal. You fly from Bastion and on to 24 hours of decompression in Cyprus, which helps you start to readjust. From there you can be back in your own home with hot running water within a few days. That's a big adjustment to make.

○ Company Commander by Major Russell Lewis MC is out now through Virgin Books, £12.99. All profits go to Army charities.

Major Lewis was awarded the Military Cross

Maj Lewis' leadership tips!

1. Read what's in front of you:

"If you approach an area where civilians live and none of them are there, this usually means Taliban are nearby. If you're a villager and you see Taliban and us in the same area, you do not want to be in the middle."

2. Deal in hard facts: "Humans are really good at seeing what they want to see. Look at actualities – don't make the problem be what you want it to be."

3. Flexibility: "Keep a level head and be prepared to change the plan. The best plan isn't always the first one."

Carrina Reid

"Having a pair of big boobs like mine is a bit like having your two best friends in the world with you the whole time!"

Erica Cambel

"I spend a lot of time in the US and it's so frustrating not being able to get my boobs out on the beach there. It's such a waste!"

Satine Gampini

"You think mine are big? You should see my aunt's! They're absolutely huge. It must be something to do with genetics!"

Jana Defi

"Even though they sometimes give me problems by getting in the way of everyday tasks, I honestly wouldn't change my boobs for anything." ▶

BIGGEST BOOBS

Sammy Braddy

"Big boobs can come in really handy. I've used them for doing things like resting drinks on a few times - they're like a little tray!"

Holly Peers

"My friends fondle my boobs a lot. Sometimes they cup my boobs so they can feel their weight - that's pretty standard on a night out with me!" ►

Lucy Collett

"Lacey Banghard has taught me a lot about boobs. If people start ogling your boobs, the best thing to do is point and stare at them!"

"I used to really hate having big boobs but it's amazing how much easier they've made my life in some ways."

Sarah
Randall

"When I'm out, I keep my boobs under wraps. You can't just flaunt them anywhere. You have to keep them for special occasions only." ►

Lacey Banghard

"I'm always knocking over drinks and stuff because of my boobs. The other day I managed to knock over a vase while I was at a friend's house."

Danielle Sharp

"Brit girls definitely have the best boobs in the world and we're not afraid to get them out. Plus we have Lucy Pinder – the Queen of Boobs!" ▶

Leah Francis

"I like calling my boobs my wangers. I think I've become a bit of an ambassador for big boobs. Girls are always asking me to assess their breasts!"

Casey
Batchelor

"Pinky and Perky are what my friends used to call my boobs, though there have been a few other names along the way!"

Jess
Kingham

"My boobs are my best features, and lots of people tell me the same, so who would I be to disagree with them?"

Malene
Espensen

"I like the way my boobs look, and I really like showing them off. They're a pain to go running with though."

Emma Glover

"My bra should get an Olympic medal for the sheer strain of its daily life. Sometimes girls ask me if they're real and ask to have a feel!"

SILENT HOUSE

DVD & Blu-ray 15

This horror, shot in one continuous take, follows Sarah as she visits her family's holiday home. And so a chase begins. ★★★

"I knew I should have gone with the 100 watt bulbs!"

MUSIC

BAND OF HORSES MIRAGE ROCK

These fellows are a Nuts office fave. They do what would once have been called grunge, but with soul and sadness. ★★★★★

DINOSAUR JR I BET ON SKY

These would also be called grunge, mainly because they virtually invented it, so it's ironic that, while raw, it ain't as good as the Horses! ★★★

THE KILLERS BATTLE BORN

At times, they sound like Queen, but it's hard to not be swept away by the grandeur of the chaps' fancy rock epics. Lighters in the air time! ★★★

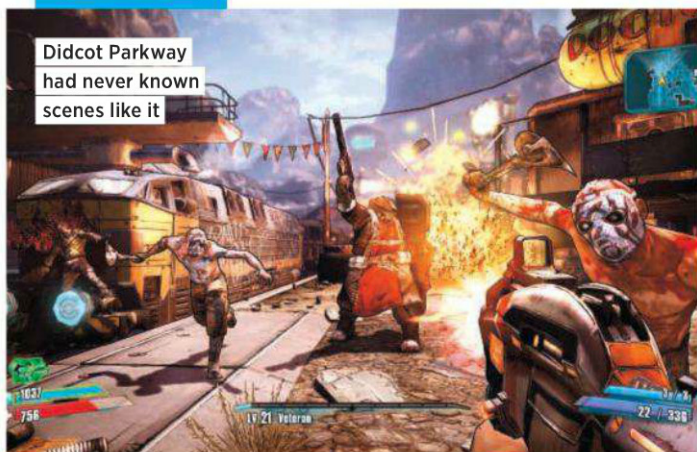

WE ARE THE OCEAN MAYBE TODAY, MAYBE TOMORROW

The Essex foursome have done away with the shoutiness for some nice, bouncy rock tunes. ★★★★★

BORDERLANDS 2

PS3, Xbox 360

Utterly irresistible and totally bonkers post-apocalyptic shooter. Play on your own or online in a squad of up to four players with four classes to choose – commando, dual-wielding big unit, stealthy sniper and telekinetic – then basically cause havoc in a series of offbeat levels with an ever-expanding, unique arsenal of guns and a grin plastered from ear to ear. ★★★★★

F1 2012

PS3, Xbox 360

Exhaustive and official F1 game. This season boasts shinier graphics and co-op playing through a full season at one team. ★★★★★

LITTLE BIG PLANET

PlayStation Vita

So much more than a port, the handheld version has more content than the huge PS3 game and adds touch-screen ease of use. ★★★★★

A Nuts Games special offer!

Limited offer! Get £35 to play when you join now!

1. Log on to www.nutsgames.co.uk.
2. Deposit £10 (and we'll give you £25 extra!)
3. Pick Deal or No Deal slots!

- Betting on all 20 paylines gives you 20 chances to win on each spin, as well as the chance to play the Deal or No Deal bonus game.

How to play

- The aim is to get winning symbol combinations from each spin of the reels, with the ultimate target being the Progressive jackpot.
- Choose your coin size (up to 20p on each of the 20 paylines) before you play.
- Click the number beside the reels, or the "Bet One" or "Bet Max" button to select the number of lines you want to bet on.

The jackpot

- The Progressive can only be won on the Deal or No Deal bonus, but you can win cash on other bonus games Banker's Offer and Mystery Box Bonus, too.
- The Deal or No Deal bonus game only begins if you bet on all 20 paylines and get three Deal or No Deal bonus symbols on any payline. This plays like the TV show, but with the Progressive at stake.

'My boss disciplined me'

I'VE BEEN having this fling with my boss from work. He tells me off a lot but I enjoy the authority. One afternoon, he shouted really loudly at me and sent me into his office. As the door closed, he told me to take off my skirt and shirt, leave my underwear on and bend over the fax machine. He gave me a cheeky few slaps on the bum and then ordered me to give him oral sex to which I readily obliged. It was such a horny experience. I get told off so much, everyone at work must wonder why I haven't been given the sack by now!

Abby via email

'I oiled him'

I'M A huge fan of giving my boyfriend hand jobs – I just love being in total control while I'm doing it. The other night I really teased him by slowly pouring baby oil over his member. As he became more slippery, I carried on stroking as slowly as I could. The more he begged me to speed up, the more I slowed down until eventually he came. I continued a little longer – ensuring all of it came out. I couldn't believe how wet it made me when I watched him come. It was the sexiest hand job I've ever performed!

Mackenzie Ipswich

'Neighbour saw us at it'

MY BOYFRIEND had been working weekends and arranged to go out with the lads on the Sunday as it was a bank holiday Monday. We'd not had time for nookie all week and were gagging for it, so when he got home at around 2pm and hopped in the shower, he asked me to get my clothes off for some fun. As he stepped out of the shower, I sank to my knees and gave him oral. He moaned with delight and then asked me to bend over the sink to take me from behind. We were going for it for a few minutes when he announced he was going to come. I knelt down again to take him in mouth just as he ejaculated. As he reached for some tissue, I glanced sideways through the open bathroom door and into our bedroom which had the windows open. My neighbour opposite was on her stairwell, painting, and had a perfect view of everything. I wanted to die of embarrassment!

Lou Woodford

'She came in the shower'

MY FRIEND called at my house to get ready for a party and went to have a shower. I've got one of those showers that has about six settings, from spray to jet. She'd been ages and I started to think she might be having trouble working it. I knocked on the door but heard no answer, so I peeped round. I could just see through the misted-up glass panel that she had her knees bent and open, and was aiming the water at her lower parts, holding onto the wall with her other hand. I'd done exactly the same thing when I first had it! I watched her for ages, then got scared that she'd spot me. I left quietly and thought about saying something as it had turned me on so much. In the event, I just asked her if she'd enjoyed her shower!

10 RUDE QUESTIONS!

And a real girl to answer them!

Kat

23 Cambridge

1 Where's the strangest place you've had sex?

"On a secluded beach. It was such a turn-on, rolling around in the sea, getting sand in our naughty bits. We waited a few minutes then went at it again!"

2 What's your trademark move in the bedroom?

"I love running my hand down the back of the neck, slowly unbuttoning the jeans, taking my clothes off and walking naked to the bedroom."

3 What turns you on?

"When a guy touches my back and kisses my neck. It sends a tingle up my body and always leads to something naughty!"

4 What's your favourite position?

"I definitely like being on top. I like to be in control and look down on the man I'm pleasuring."

5 Is it better to give or receive?

"A balance between the two is best. It's good to be pleased and to know you're pleasuring. I think sometimes that's better than sex. I love foreplay."

6 What would you really like to try but haven't?

"Being a bit of a geek, I'd have to do naughty things in a library. Something about the silence rule and roleplay of sexy librarian makes it sound exciting. The whole 'hand over mouth while I orgasm' is sexy as hell!"

7 Have you ever got it on with another girl?

"I'm not really into girls. I can appreciate a gorgeous girl but that's where it ends. But I have a girl crush on Megan Fox. She'd be pretty hard to say no to!"

8 What's your favourite role-playing costume?

"I have a cute pink outfit from Ann Summers that goes great with a pair of heels and some chocolate flavoured body oil."

9 Have you ever made a sex tape?

"I'm not brave enough for that, but if the right man came along then maybe I could be corrupted!"

10 What's the rudest thing you've done?

"I can't tell you all the details as it was so naughty, but it involved being naked in public and handcuffed!"

"Megan Fox would be pretty hard to say no to!"

CHAMPIONS LEAGUE SPECIAL!

England legend Gareth on the ones to watch in Europe!

➔ IT'S THAT time again! Yes, the preliminaries are over and the group stage of the Champions League begins this week. Nuts caught up with Gareth Southgate and asked him about the key players for the English teams, and the clubs to look out for.

- The Phones4U Upgrade Your Team campaign is giving away £2,000 to ten UK amateur football teams. See www.facebook.com/Phones4u for info.

INTERVIEW: TIM BRADLEY
PHOTOS: ACTION IMAGES, PA PHOTOS, ANA, PICS UNITED

A GAME WITH GARETH!

One competition winner also gets the chance have Gareth play in a local match!

ARSENAL

"Santi Cazorla looks like a really exciting signing. I think the only reason he was quite an unheralded arrival was that ahead of him in the Spain team were Alonso, Iniesta and Xavi! Arsenal are set up to play European football – they keep the ball better than anyone in the Premier League and their midfield looks strong. It's a question of whether they'll get enough goals."

MANCHESTER UNITED

"The signing of Robin van Persie has turned the season on its head for United. Provided the injury he picked up for Holland against Hungary isn't too serious, he's United's key man. Shinji Kagawa also looks like a fantastic signing. Last year United slipped up in a couple of group games and were unable to recover. They need Nemanja Vidic and Rio Ferdinand back."

CHELSEA

"Fernando Torres is the main man. He has to fill the role that Didier Drogba played and there's no back-up if he's injured or out of form. Daniel Sturridge could play that role but most of his effective games have seen him coming in from out wide. Chelsea will get goals from midfield, through Mata, Hazard and Lampard, but they need Torres to be getting goals this year."

Gareth on the biggest threats to English Champions League glory!

BAYERN MUNICH

"People like Bastian Schweinsteiger are outstanding players, and they've bought well, taking Javi Martinez from Bilbao and the Croatian centre-forward Mario Mandzukic. They've strengthened considerably. They had three or four suspended for the final against eventual winners Chelsea last season and they were the better team in that match."

BARCELONA

"It'll be interesting to see if either of the Spanish big two come up trumps. Barcelona obviously have the unsettling factor of Guardiola leaving. David Villa is a big player for them – Barca missed him last season. If Messi is playing as a central striker then they need someone who gets goals from wide and Villa contributes enormously in that respect."

PARIS SAINT-GERMAIN

"Last season's Ligue 1 runners-up haven't started the season well, which can happen when you throw players together, but Thiago Silva and Zlatan Ibrahimovic are super signings. It won't be, realistically, their year this year, but once the players get used to playing together in Europe, they'll emerge over the next couple of years."

REAL MADRID

"They haven't started the season very well and Ronaldo – bless him, having to pay his tax – is clearly an issue, too. The dressing room will know that Ronaldo can win them matches – players are willing to put up with high-maintenance players if they deliver on the pitch, but if they don't, then all of a sudden you have a real issue."

MANCHESTER CITY

"Yaya Toure is the big player for City – I'm a fan of Aguero and Tevez but in all the big matches last season, Yaya was the game-changer. He's started this season as a holding player but once Gareth Barry's fit, I'd expect them to move him up the pitch. When he arrived at City, we were scratching our heads as to what Mancini was doing, but the gamble's been repaid tenfold."

Only bad luck and bad finishing cost Roy's boys!

➔ ENGLAND GOT a lot of stick after the Ukraine draw, but you have to say they created a lot of chances and were unlucky in front of goal.

Young Tom Cleverley's a very good, very talented young footballer, great passer of the ball, very fit, gets all over the park – a fabulous player. But he's not a goalscorer. It's strange. What did people expect? When you're providing opportunities for the man playing tucked in behind the striker, but he's not a natural goalscorer in that position, whereas Frank Lampard is.

If I was the manager and young Cleverley missed a couple, why not just swap them around? You need somebody in that position who's going to bury the chances. The person who plays in that position needs to be a natural scorer, and finishing's probably the one area of Cleverley's game that he needs to improve.

England caused their own problems by putting him in that role, but other than that, they created loads of chances, had a perfectly good goal struck off, and went behind to a wonder goal that was one of only two Ukraine created.

Roy Hodgson has made England organised and hard to beat – now they just need to make that switch from "hard to beat" to "good to watch", and making and taking chances.

"Damn, I'm here a day early – just act casual"

What on Earth has happened to Wales?

CHRIS COLEMAN must be scratching his head and tearing his hair out wondering what's happened to his Wales team. All the signs were that under the late, great Gary Speed the team was moving forward, but that forward momentum seems to have deserted them, and it's hard to work out why.

Chris, to me, was the ideal person to have taken over from Gary. There's not a lot of people who would deny that. But it's not registering in the performances. It's early days though, and that group is still open. Wales can come back into it if they can get back to those Gary Speed-era levels of performance. For now, though, it's a bit of a head-scratcher.

KAMMY'S UNBELIEVABLE-OMETER™

UNBELIEVABLY GOOD!

MAGIC MURRAY!
This simply has to be Andrew Murray's victory in the US Open. Absolutely fantastic. I know him well, he's a top boy and not a bad footballer either!

UNBELIEVABLY BAD!

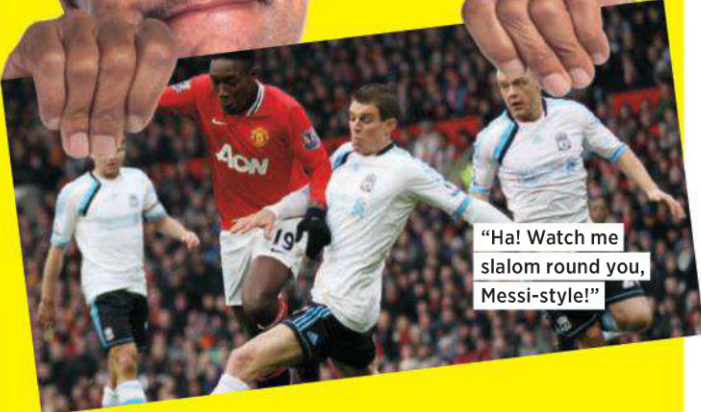

HILLSBOROUGH
How can anything be "bad" this week next to what we've learned about Hillsborough? The families refused to let it be dismissed. Now we know why.

My memories of Hillsborough

LIKE EVERY other player at the time, I was horrified by the events that unfolded at Hillsborough in 1989 – it was a surreal weekend. At first you think it's just a tragedy, but reading the reports that came out last week, you have to admire the families and their efforts to expose what were blatant lies.

THE BIG MATCH!

"Ha! Watch me slalom round you, Messi-style!"

Liverpool vs Man United

23 SEPTEMBER •
Sky Sports 1/HD, 1.30pm

Liverpool always tend to do well against Manchester United and they'll be hoping that this will be another of those occasions and that it acts as a kickstart to their season. But I can only see it ending in stalemate.

PREDICTION: 1-1

Key man

Pepe Reina has been absolutely shocking of late. I know Brendan thinks the world of him but he needs to justify it.

ONLY IN Nuts!

Outside the Box

JULIAN PUCKETT & STEPHEN GULBIS

Tattooed players. What do you make of it, Robbie..?

...unbelievable isn't it?

I really can't understand why they are just so concerned with their own appearance...

"Yeah, pink gloves.
So what? My mum bought me them!"

WORLD TITLE SPECIAL!

Ricky Burns: 'I'm ready for anything!'

The Scot on winning streaks, tattoos and McDonald's!

Hi Ricky! Some people are calling you the favourite for this WBO Lightweight title defence. Is that fair?

I treat every fight exactly the same. I think it's going to be a tough fight but I'm prepared for anything.

As a Scot, does it make it sweeter when you beat an Englishman?

Not at all. Boxing is my job, it's all I've ever wanted to do. People think I'm nuts but I actually just enjoy the fighting. A fight is a fight – it doesn't matter who it's against or where it is for me.

You're 19 fights undefeated. How long can the streak last?

When I know that I'm up against it, I know I'm fighting somebody good. I lost a couple of fights early in my career so I know what losing feels like – nobody wants to lose but it's not the end of the world. I'm a quiet guy and keep to myself. I try not to put that pressure on myself. I'll never say, "I'm going to do this." My attitude is always go into the fight and the best man will win.

What did you do to beat Michael Katsidis that Kevin failed to do?

I knew he was going to be aggressive, I knew he was going to come forward so I got my punches off and kept out of range. I was reading after the fight that Mitchell had some problems with his training too.

Do you allow yourself any post-fight indulgences?

After a fight, my idea of celebrating is going to see my mum, pick up my dogs who stay with her during my fights and then go straight up to McDonald's and get a Big Mac. I'm booked up to go to Las Vegas after this fight though, so as long as there are no cuts or bruises, I'll go, but I'm taking my training gear.

Can you remember, off the top of your head, how many different nationalities you've fought so far?

I couldn't tell you – there have been so many. I've boxed people all over the world.

It's 18! What's your least favourite bit of training?

The best bit of the training is the sparring but the usual 12 weeks' training schedule means the length is the hardest part for me.

You have lots of tattoos...

I was 17 when I got my first tattoo – after big fights, I get one. I got one of a dragon but it's not finished. I'm going to get it coloured in after this fight.

Once you're done with Mitchell, who's next?

I don't really like looking beyond fights because one punch could change a fight. The one thing in boxing I'd like to win is The Ring magazine belt. Fingers crossed I can win this then I'll ask my manager to try to get me into a fight for that.

IT'S THE BATTLE OF BRITAIN!

In July, the pair promoted the fight at London's RAF Museum!

"I must stop
punching myself like this!"

Kevin Mitchell: 'Me, the underdog? Ridiculous!'

The Dagenham man on beating Burns and taking on the world!

Hi Kevin! What can boxing fans expect from the fight?

It's going to be a nice fast fight, an explosive clash.

Some people are suggesting Ricky Burns is the favourite – does that provide you with extra inspiration?

When I fought John Murray, they said he was the favourite. When Murray fought Burns, everyone would have said Burns was the underdog and Murray was the favourite. To be called the underdog in this bout is ridiculous.

Does it worry you that the only person to beat you, Michael Katsidis, was beaten by Ricky Burns?

Yeah, but I beat Carl Johanneson and he's beaten Ricky Burns.

What happened in the Katsidis fight? If given the chance again, would you beat him?

Yeah, of course I would – I couldn't prepare properly last time. The timing wasn't right and I got in the ring when I shouldn't have. I should've pulled out of the fight.

You're a big West Ham fan. If you had a choice would you rather beat Ricky Burns or watch the Hammers lift the Premier League title?

It would have to be me beating Ricky Burns, for sure.

Are any of the Hammers coming to the fight?

Well, there are 2,000 West Ham fans coming, I reckon!

What was it like showing off your belt at Upton Park?

It's great. I drink in local bars with everyone else and I party with them. The fans all start singing. It's amazing.

Which part of your training do you dislike the most?

The last week using the weights is the hardest bit and the bit I hate the most.

Do you ever allow yourself any indulgences after a fight?

Yeah, I go to Majorca for a couple of weeks with my two baby sons. Then I come back and it's into full-time training.

You fought Walter Estrada in Atlantic City. What's it like fighting in the States? Did you allow yourself a little gamble afterwards?

The Americans love me because I'm an aggressive fighter but there's still nothing like the West Ham fans. I had a little gamble – I lost $100 in ten seconds and that's the only gambling I've done there. I'm not a good gambler!

Your Wikipedia entry says you have three nicknames – have you settled on one yet?

I like Dagenham Destroyer as I'm from Dagenham, but I like The Hammer because I'm a West Ham man. I'm proud of both of them.

Thanks, Kevin! Finally, what are your plans for the future?

To beat Ricky and knock him out in a late round, then fight a big name. I want to win the World Welterweight title.

Pub ammo on... Talk Like A Pirate Day

- This year's International Talk Like A Pirate Day sees it celebrating its tenth anniversary.
- Talk Like A Pirate Day was the brainchild of two friends who inexplicably started insulting each other in pirate-speak during a game of racquetball.
- The inventors of it, Mark Summers and John Baur, have released two books to date about getting "the pirate attitude".
- International Talk Like A Pirate Day is celebrated on Wednesday 19 September.
