Geordie Shore's Lynsey – topless!

It's the show's new girl, with no top!

LITTLE DID law graduate and jewellery

designer Lynsey Moss here know, when she and her girlfriends bowled up to Newcastle for a night on the sauce, that it would end in a hook-up with teak-coloured, extensively groomed Geordie Shore bloke Dan Thomas-Tuck. Nor could she have guessed that she'd end up ensconced in the Geordie Shore HQ for a week, earning a semi-permanent gig in MTV's saucy reality show and a debut in the pages of Nuts. (Right here, silly.) Which does, of course, once again prove irrefutably the positive power of booze. Like we ever doubted you. Well done, beer!

It's nap o'clock!

Daredevil/mentalalist has a nap 850m above Rio!

WE DON'T think that the official term for a slackliner is a "slacker", but if it's not, it should be. For here is thrill-seeker Brian Mosbaugh who, as we can see, decided to take a short break from his 850m-up slackline trip above Rio de Janeiro.

Of the line itself, Mosbaugh said: "It was established on all natural anchors, on one side using a sturdy tree on the edge of a cliff and a bush/shrubbery slowly ripping from the hillside!"

Which makes his wee nap seem all the more brave/certifiably bonkers.

"Phew! When my parachute failed, I thought I was a goner for sure!"

BLOKE ON A ROPE!

Russell Brand and Noel Fielding's new gags!

Funnies from the sexiest/druggiest match up in comedy!

On chocolate!

Noel: Why are Walnut Whips so wrong yet so right?

On themselves!

Noel: We're like Sherlock Holmes and Watson, aren't we?

Russell: Very much. We're both addicted to opium, like Holmes. And that's really where the similarity ends.

Noel: We can't always get it, but we're addicted to it.

Russell: The times we were without opium were some of the worst times.

Noel: Now we're into yoga. We used to be into opium. What happened to us?

On cheese!

Noel: What is the Laughing Cow laughing at, off the cheese?

Russell: Maybe it's laughing at the dairy industry, which is exploitative of that cow by sucking its milk out of it for no reason, which is a disruptive and cruel thing to do to a cow.

On writing!

Russell: I'm not used to using my hands for writing things. Normally they are used to create orgasm.

On the audience!

Russell: [Picking a pretty girl] Noel, you're using your criteria for picking a volunteer as you would for selecting a sexual partner. Luckily, that is the same criteria that I use.

Noel: [Picking a scruffy looking bloke] How about him?

Russell: [To scruffy bloke] I prefer you because when I look at you, I'm not distracted by sexual desire.

Noel: He looks like someone in Poirot that at first you think, "Oooh, he could be the murderer. Then halfway through you go, "Actually, no fking way." Then at the end you go, "It was him!"

On honesty!

Noel: You're so honest, you're giving me an erection.

On the Olympics!

Russell: "Did you see me in the Olympics? In my head, I was just in the Olympics. Usain Bolt was in the Olympics. I was in the Olympics. Mo Bot was in the Olympics. I was in The Olympics. I appeared on top of a double-decker bus dressed as Willy Wonka, singing I Am The Walrus. Luckily, it's exactly what I would have worn if they'd said, 'Wear what you want', but perhaps with five per cent more glitter."

"The next day, I got an answerphone message from Noel Gallagher. [Does impression] 'Well, well, well. Two weeks of the Olympics. And how does it all end? Old Mr Skinny legs on top of a bus murdering The Beatles.' Better murdering The Beatles than digging up their corpses and basing a career out of it!"

On prank calls!

Russell: Noel, how are we going to get out of this? I've got some previous in this area.

On sex!

Russell: I need to live in a daisy chain of incessant fellatio just to think it's worth breathing.

On working together!

Noel: We just lose our way quite often. At one point, you'll probably see Russell over there, crawling about, eating cardboard. I'll be at the back, putting a skipping rope up my bum hole. We get easily distracted.

Russell: Noel and myself possibly mistakenly believe that what people seek from us is spontaneous comedic jazz. But what they get is absolute filth and smut.

On hecklers!

Noel: One at a time! That just sounds like two mandrills having sex.

On Goths!

Russell: Here's what we know about Goths. Number one: Goths can, surprisingly, breathe under water.

Noel: Goth fact number two: Goths are completely invisible in WHSmith's.

Russell: You've never seen one in there, have you?

Noel: Next time you don't see one, look outside and there will be a pile of clothes on the floor. Otherwise, all you'd see is a pile of floating clothes. And they'd be stark bollock naked as soon as they step out of the shop. We've both been arrested for that, haven't we?

Russell: Several times.

On decisions!

Noel: There's a tractor coming over the hill being driven by a scarecrow. You see a crab on the floor that's been sprayed black, and you see what you think is a Babybel, but it's got eyes.

Russell: Not the purple one? Just the standard red.

Noel: It's not in its sack with all its brothers.

Russell: It's loose. It's got away.

Noel: Which one would you save? The Babybel or the crab?

Russell: The crab.

Noel: I can see what you're doing.

Battlefield 4 revealed!

New game! New engine! New war!

➔ A MORE considered yin to Call Of Duty's shouty yang, Battlefield's always been the thinking man's pop-enemies-in-the-face shooter, and no less fun for such. So fire guns indiscriminately in the air in joy for the next title's announcement.

Battlefield 4 is hitting consoles and PC this year, in the Autumn, and most likely on shiny, new consoles. We picked over a 17-minute demo. Here's what we've learnt...

VEHICULAR COMBAT!

Vehicles feature heavily. The demo ends with Tombstone squad trying to escape an attack helicopter, taking it out with a well-placed grenade while hanging out of a speeding car.

TACTICS!

In the firefights, you can mark enemies. Triangles appear above their heads and your squad suppresses them while you pile in, or your gunship air cover will take them out.

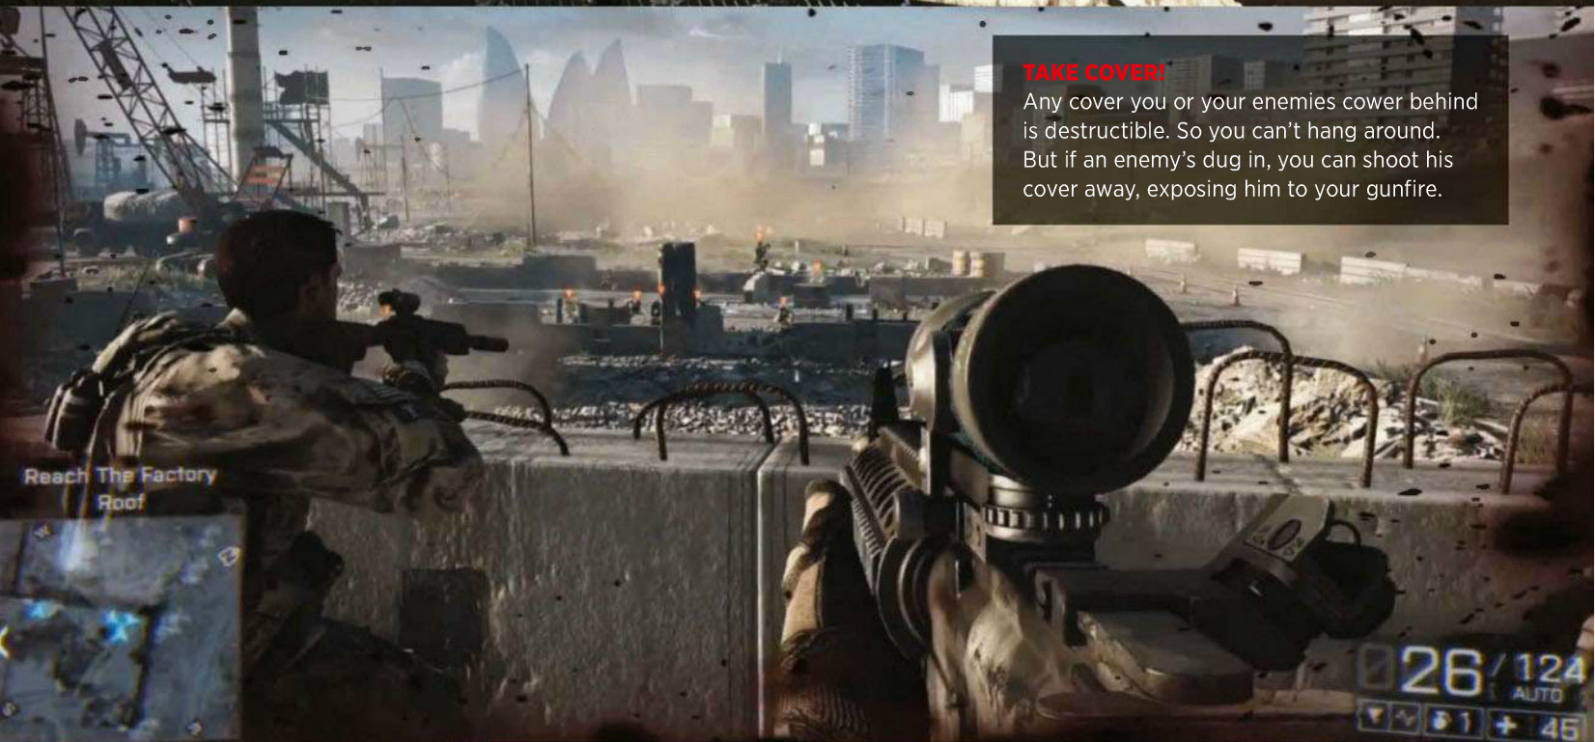

CHOPPING OFF LEGS!

At one point, your squad leader gets caught under a falling building, so he orders you to cut off his leg. Cue you drawing your tactical knife and doing the bloody business.

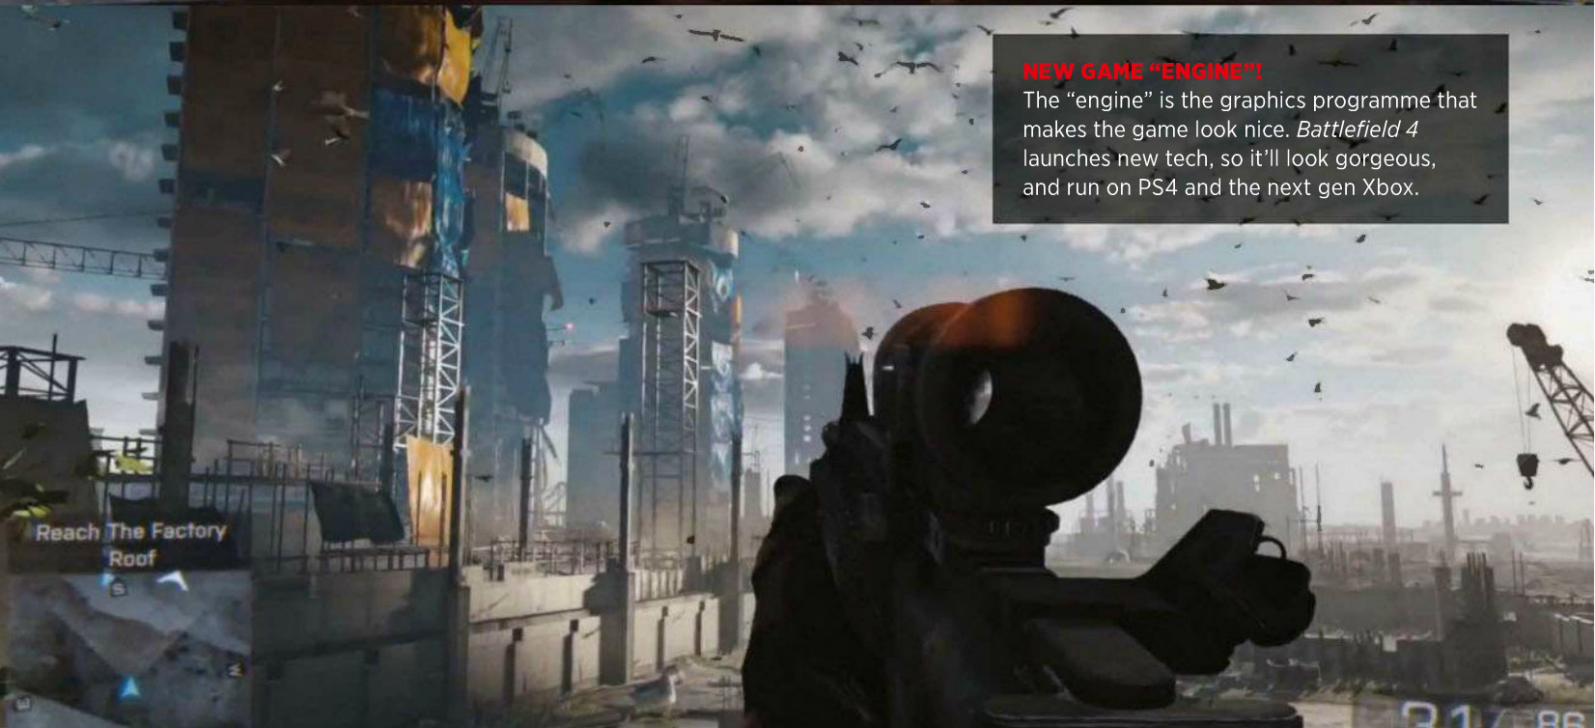

NEW STORY!

The squad in the demo had escaped after a handover gone wrong, when Russian spec ops arrived. We then learn the Chinese are involved and you're shipping out to China.

TAKE COVER!

Any cover you or your enemies cower behind is destructible. So you can't hang around. But if an enemy's dug in, you can shoot his cover away, exposing him to your gunfire.

NEW GAME "ENGINE"!

The "engine" is the graphics programme that makes the game look nice. Battlefield 4 launches new tech, so it'll look gorgeous, and run on PS4 and the next gen Xbox.

Bull-dozed!

Dozy cow-taunters get just desserts!

IT'S ALWAYS with a little measure of schadenfreude that we report these stories of blokes who goad wild bulls, being on the receiving end of swift and horned retribution. So have a good old hoot at this buffoon, who found himself upside-down and a several feet up in the air while doing his best bull whispering in Arjona, Colombia, during an annual festival.

The bloke was OK, by the way. Just bruised and now internationally embarrassed!

WORDS: RORY BUCKERIDGE PHOTOS: REUTERS

"Ooh, that's it, just there!"

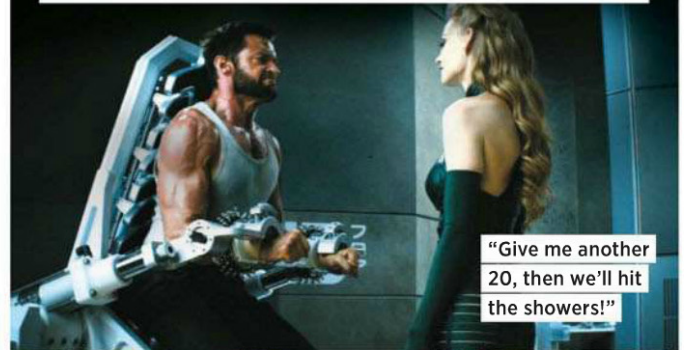

Wolverine's back!

Hugh Jackman's hairy hero returns!

HE MAY be the angriest and hairiest superhero of all time, but Hugh Jackman and his amazing acting mutton chops make for a terrific Wolverine. So a first glimpse at flick number two is as good a use of half a page as we can think of. This one involves old spiky hands having his powers of rejuvenation removed. Called The Wolverine, it's in cinemas on 26 July. And it looks smashing.

"Give me another 20, then we'll hit the showers!"

"OK, which idiot hid my shirt?"

"Oh, so this train's on time!"

"Boo!"

Electric French supercar!

Sacrebleu! It's a 4WD Porsche Cayman slayer!

- An extra S on their capital city's name certainly isn't the highlight of the French-designed and built new 2013 Pariss roadster. It's a rubbish name for what seems to be a brilliant new silent supercar.
- The Pariss promises to get to 62mph quicker than a 330bhp Porsche Cayman R (under five seconds, with a top speed of around 120mph) and cover 125 miles before needing a five-hour household recharge.
- A pair of electric motors drive all four wheels, with one up front and one at the rear, which means bags of traction and the immediate torque that electric motors are famed for.
- At 3.6 metres long, the Pariss is shorter than a Ford KA, but its shrunken dimensions help to reduce unnecessary bulk while keeping the design sleek and fresh. It looks like a Mazda MX-5 ought to these days.
- Over a tubular steel chassis, the two-seater Pariss is clothed in carbon fibre and Kevlar body panels. This brings weight down to a jaw-dropping 750kg – almost exactly half of a Ferrari 458 Italia. Gulp.
- But the French design team is keen to point out that no luxuries have been disposed of. Inside the snug cabin, you'll first notice the removable Targa roof, for when it's not snowing or lashing the country with rain.
- Then you'll clock the huge portrait-mounted iPad type touchscreen in the centre console – which is an iPad and is removable. All the car's tech and controls are channelled through here, with displays of wattage, range, speed and satnav.
- Interior finish options include aluminium, carbon, Alcantara, leather and a selection of matt or gloss veneers. Although there's no mention of where luggage will go or battery packs will live, we suspect it'll have a front and rear boot like a Porsche Boxster. Batteries will most likely live under the floor.
- Although this is a pure electric car, Pariss has promised that a range extender model could also become available, with a titchy petrol engine that acts as a generator to charge the batteries – like Vauxhall's Ampera.

"Cheeeese!"

- That will be able to raise the distance between pit stops from 125 miles to 435 miles.

And that little engine only adds an extra 70kg to the car. It's some sweet package, and it'll be available at the end of the year for around £60k. Gary Neville, we've found your next motor!

A quick word with Duncan Bannatyne!

The Dragon on Cowell, time travel and poker!

Hi, Duncan! You're managing a new boy band called Reconnected whose single, One In A Million, is out now. Er, how did that happen?

It came about by accident. Two lads came on Dragons' Den who had a music label. They said they were keeping 80 per cent of the artists' revenue. I said, "I'm going to offer you all the money you want for 79 per cent of the company." They said yes. We signed Reconnected, the single came out and it's doing really well.

Did you at any point think of adding "Only if I can join the band too" into their record contract?

No! I can't sing. That would have been funny. I sing like a squeezed cat.

You'll probably be accused of trying to be the new Simon Cowell. Are you?

No, I don't think so. I wish I was. I wish I had his great knowledge of music. But it's still interesting just to be involved, to see these guys sing and put a record out.

Would you be prepared to have your hair cut and hitch your trousers up like Simon Cowell if One In A Million sold more copies?

It depends how many more. If we sold another ten million, yeah, I'll have my hair cut like his and pull my trousers up to my chest.

So did you write the lyrics to One In A Million?

No, I didn't write the lyrics. It's all about the girl you're looking for being one in a million when you find her. It's great to watch them sing because all the girls in the audience think they're the one in a million.

How much creative control did you have? Did you turn up to the studio and insist on more bagpipes?

No, I don't have any creative control. I've been in the studio, but I leave it to the boys.

Cowell's record label's called SyCo. Yours is called Bannatyne Music. Why didn't you choose something more inventive, like Dunc-Tyne records?

People keep saying, "Duncan Bannatyne, the egotistic Scotsman, has a record label called Bannatyne Music. What a stupid name!" But it's publicity and it sells records, so I'm happy with it.

How in touch are you with the youth of today? What was the last track you downloaded?

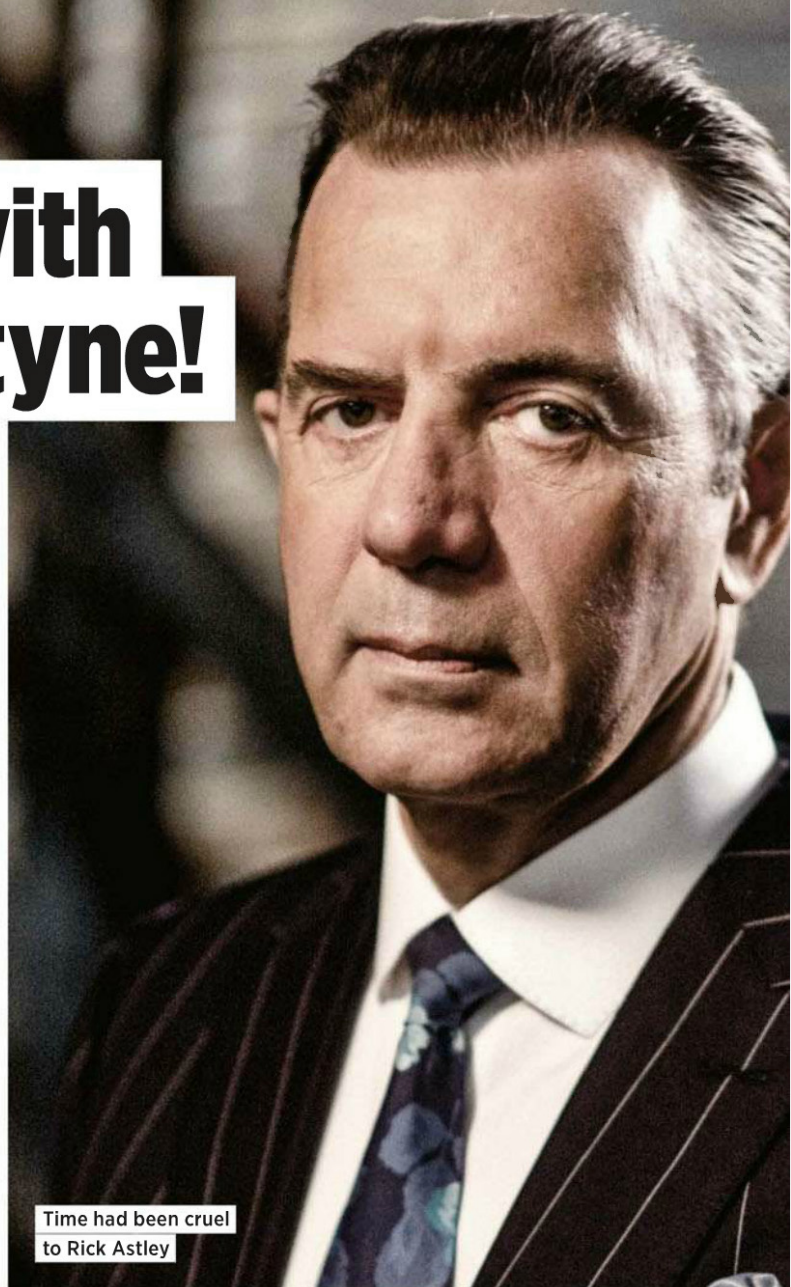

Oh, I haven't bought a record for years. I listen to the radio but I don't actually download anything. The last CD I bought was Love Changes Everything [from naff West End musical Aspects Of Love].

Why don't you do a sexy girl band with Deborah Meaden, Hilary Devey, and Theo Paphitis in a mini-skirt?

That's a good idea. I'm just on a break [from filming Dragons' Den] now. I'll go in and I'll ask them if they're up for that.

Should more people sing on the next series of Dragons' Den?

I'm expecting them to now. I'm expecting boy bands to appear.

Time had been cruel to Rick Astley

Do you think shows like The X Factor and Britain's Got Talent would be more interesting if people came on and pitched their inventions?

Absolutely. We should have a big show for inventions. They could call it something like Dragons' Den!

They do X Factor USA and X Factor Australia. Would you ever like to be a judge on X Factor Scotland?

No, I don't think I could ever be a judge on a music show. I can't hear music as well as the experts. I can hear them when they're good, but I don't hear the bum notes. It all sounds good to me. You have to be a real expert on listening music to be a judge.

Peter Jones invested £75,000 in indie band Hamfatter in 2008. Er, whatever happened to them? Will you be learning from his mistakes?

His band got to number 72 in the charts and broke up. Peter's so ridden with jealousy, he won't speak to me.

If someone came onto Dragons' Den with a working time machine, how much would you be prepared to invest?

A time machine? If it worked, I'd invest everything.

Would you use it for good, like going back and stopping the Second World War, or for evil?

I was going to say I'd see which horse won the race, go back and put all my money on it!

The Sugababes had had one band member change too many

"I sing like a squeezed cat!"
Duncan Bannatyne

Foxes and badgers live in dens. Dragons live in lairs. You've got it all wrong! How come?

Dragons' Den originally started in Japan so we couldn't change the name. They changed the name to Shark Tank in America. I don't know how you get from Dragons' Den to Shark Tank, but there you go.

Thanks, Duncan! Finally, when you're playing poker, how many people deliberately fold just so they can say, "I'm oooout"?

Um. None. But they should!

● The new series of Dragons' Den begins on BBC Two/HD later in the year. One In A Million by Reconnected is out now. Watch the video at reconnectedofficial.com

It's a two-headed shark!

Jaws 2 bowls up in the Gulf of Mexico!

IN THESE serious news pages in the past, we've featured two-headed turtles, snakes, lambs and even a two-faced cat, but never a two-headed shark. It's something that has troubled us more than is seemly, until now, when a Gulf of Mexico fisherman delivered us this bull shark with double the usual number of bonces, handily including an X-ray by way of corroboration.

It didn't live, obviously, but it will almost certainly be born again in a rubbish Syfy movie coming to cable TV soon, starring Belinda Carlisle and Carlton from The Fresh Prince Of Bel Air.

SLICED ARM!

'The next thing I knew, I was falling through the air!'

Nuts reader falls off ladder and almost cuts off his arm!

➔ ONE LAZY Sunday afternoon, Adam Renmant, a landscape gardener from Surrey, was helping his uncle trim a hedge. He was on a ladder, 20 feet up, when disaster struck. "The ladder slipped off the branch it was leaning on," Adam told Nuts. "I lost my balance, and the next thing I knew, I was tumbling through the air!"

As he landed, his hedge cutter dropped on his arm, which the blade severed.

"My cousin came rushing over and asked me if I was OK.

I said, 'Yes!' Then I saw the mess on my arm and told him to call an ambulance."

In hospital, Adam was operated on the next day and needed four layers of stitches.

He has since become an industrial welder. Better luck with that, mate!

She's so set in her ways!

My missus is really reluctant to try anything new in bed. I've spoken to her about it, but when it comes to getting down to it, she won't try anything out of the ordinary. Is there anything I can do to get her to try new things? I'm so bored!

PATRICK Maidstone

You must seduce her. Begin by taking her on dates. Introduce public thigh-stroking. Suggest she wears a skirt for date two. Caress her in the cinema. These tricks will bring fun and thrills to the relationship.

LETTER OF THE WEEK!

Ex is still on my mind!

I'm still obsessed with my ex, even though we broke up two years ago and there's no chance of us getting back together. The problem is that it's affecting every new relationship I try to start up. How do I move on?

ANON via email

Delete your friendship on Facebook, block her on WhatsApp, throw any evidence of her number away and take a holiday. That's what the rest of us do! Who wants someone who won't love them back? You need to break out of your normal routine. Travel's the best cure.

What's the first thing that jumps to mind? For me, doctors and nurses. I don't think it matters what you do. The importance lies in coming up with a mutually enjoyable scenario together. This way you can both commit to it and there will be trust because you discussed and created the scene as a couple. Maybe buy a sex toy together for starters.

Should I come clean to her?

A girl I've been getting intimate with keeps hinting that she wants to know how many girls I've been with. I don't know whether to be honest with her. I think I've slept with a lot, but does that make me look sleazy? Should I lie to her?

BEN Sheffield

She's not going to believe you either way. Take control. Ask her what the benefit of knowing such a private detail would be. If she really wants to know, she'll have to make a decision from the quality of sex you deliver to her.

- If you've got something to ask Danni, just email her at thelesbian@nutsmagazine.co.uk or write to her at the usual Nuts address on p64.

I’ll happily oblige!”

Hello Rosie! What madness have you been up to of late?

There was a ridiculous incident where I was mistaken for Katy Perry! This picture ended up going viral. I kept seeing it with comments like, "Look at this photo of Katy Perry!" Then a national newspaper picked it up. Katy Perry would never pose like that – it was a rude picture!

So does a career as a looky-likey beckon?

Ha-ha! I'm not sure why anyone would want a Katy Perry lookalike, but if they do, I'll be happy to oblige. We could start a Nuts agency. Rhian Sugden's obviously Pamela Anderson in disguise, which is cool because everyone loves Pammy. But be your own person, I say.

Tell us about your pizza challenge for charity.

It was amazing. Officially, I ate 12 slices, but I reckon I tackled way more than that. India Reynolds was the winner. She's an expert pizza eater!

We're excited about The Hangover Part III coming out this year. Are Nuts girls wilder than the chaps in the film?

The Nuts girls were definitely much worse when we were in Vegas! For starters, we went for a week, not just a weekend. But we didn't end up with a tiger or a stolen baby.

Have you done any new music videos recently?

Not for ages. I try to avoid them, to be honest, because they try to make me dance and I'm a terrible dancer, especially when they stick me in a row of professionals!

What was the coolest one you've done?

I did one for Bryan Ferry once. Basically, we all had to stumble around a nightclub in heels, pretending to be drunk, and I'm pretty good at that! ►

ROSIE JONES

“A man could cook me into bed if he did it well enough!”

Tell us a really shocking secret about yourself.

I would if I could, but I think you already know everything about me, especially if you follow me on Twitter. I'm quite open on there.

What's the weirdest thing you've encountered on Twitter?

There's a guy who always asks for pictures of people's feet. Ha-ha! I think I might Google a photo of a really bad case of athlete's foot and send it to him. Apart from that, people are generally very nice.

What's the one thing that could make you fancy a bloke more?

I think a man who can cook is attractive. You know how some girls say a bloke can laugh you into bed? Maybe I'd let him cook me into bed if he did it well enough.

Which famous bloke gets your blood pumping?

Paul Walker from The Fast And The Furious. He's the love of my life. But he has to shave his head if he's going to be my husband. I'd love to do a raunchy film with him!

What motor are you tearing around in these days?

I have a red Fiat 500. I look like Noddy! I don't know why, but the insurance seems to be really high for glamour models. People must think glamour models can't drive!

If you could take one sexy Nuts babe on a road trip, who would it be and where would you go?

Can I take Emma Glover on Route 66 in America? We can do a shoot on the way.

Sold! Finally then, if we put you in charge of Nuts for the day, what changes would you make?

I'd add some more of those gruesome pictures you have on the Don't Look! page where you show people's arms coming off and stuff – I like a bit of gore. More gruesomeness and more girls, please! And maybe some recipes if there's room at the back.

50 MEGA MOVIE SECRETS!

FANTASTIC FACTS FROM YOUR FAVOURITE FLICKS!

1 According to Quentin Tarantino, the Jamie Foxx and Kerry Washington characters in Django Unchained are meant to be the great, great, great grandparents of John Shaft from the Shaft films. Washington's character is called Broomhilda Von Shaft.

2 A grand total of 532 cars were trashed during filming of the Transformers sequel Dark Of The Moon.

3 In Cowboys & Aliens, in the scene where the sheriff rips down a “wanted” poster, you can see a mug shot of the film’s director Jon Favreau.

4 In Zero Dark Thirty, Joel Edgerton plays Patrick, the leader of Seal Team Six, which kills Osama bin Laden. One of the other Seals is played by his real-life brother Nash, an Australian stuntman and director.

5 Daybreakers star Ethan Hawke filmed scenes for the 2012 Total Recall remake, but his role didn't make the film's final cut.

6 Vincent Vega's car in Pulp Fiction belonged to director Quentin Tarantino in real life and was nicked during filming.

7 James McAvoy shaved his head for X-Men: First Class to look like a young version of Patrick Stewart's Charles Xavier, but had to have extensions when the director wanted his character with hair.

8 The camcorder used by James Franco in 127 Hours was the actual one Aron Ralston used when he was trapped in the canyon.

9 In the graveyard scene in Seven Psychopaths, the Jack of Diamonds killer hides behind a stone with the name "Rourke" on it. It's a dig at Mickey Rourke, who dropped out of the film after an argument with the director.

10 In Mission: Impossible – Ghost Protocol, Ethan Hunt keys 07362 to open a secret compartment – 3 July 1962 is Tom Cruise's birthday.

11 In America, the TV edit of cult classic The Big Lebowski saw the line, "This is what happens when you fk a stranger in the ass!" change to "This is what happens when you find a stranger in the Alps!"

12 Neil's dance routine in The Inbetweeners Movie was shot in Infernos nightclub in Clapham, south London.

13 Stephen Fry – Mycroft in A Game Of Thrones – chose Sherlock Holmes as his subject on Celebrity Mastermind.

14 In The Hangover Part II, the tattoo artist scene was to feature Mel Gibson, but he was dropped after protests about alleged anti-semitic comments.

15 To get the Vulcan salute just right in Star Trek, Zachary Quinto (Spock) glued his fingers together.

16 A Good Day To Die Hard was delivered to cinemas labelled "Simon Says", a nod to Jeremy Irons' character in Die Hard: With A Vengeance.

17 When James Bond is shot in Skyfall, it's the first time since 1965's Thunderball.

18 The F-word is used 126 times during In Bruges – an average of 1.18 per minute.

19 Pitch Black was filmed at the same location as Mad Max Beyond Thunderdome.

20 In The Avengers, Robert Downey Jr (Tony Stark) wears a Black Sabbath T-shirt, a nod to their hit, Iron Man. ►

21 Ray Winstone turned down the role of Hatchet Harry in Lock, Stock And Two Smoking Barrels.

22 All the road signs in the motorway chase scene in The Matrix Reloaded are cheats for the Enter The Matrix game.

23 In Scott Pilgrim vs The World, Scott's band is called Sex Bob-omb, a reference to the evil character in Super Mario Bros 2. You can see his image on the band's kick drum.

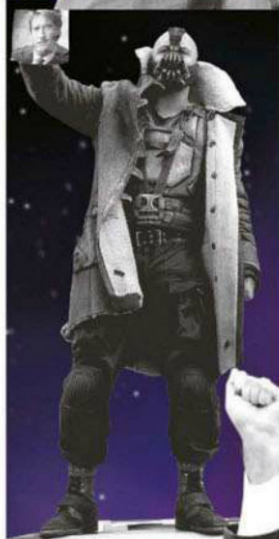

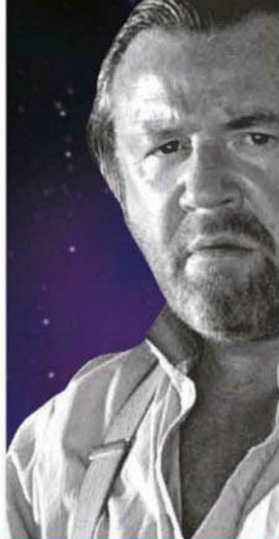

24 Director Ridley Scott asked experts at the University of London to create a whole new alien language for Prometheus.

25 In Rise Of The Planet Of The Apes, Caesar is shown standing on a Nissan Maxima on the Golden Gate Bridge. In the next shot, it's a VW Jetta.

26 In The Dark Knight Rises, Tom Hardy wore three-inch lifts in his shoes to make Bane taller than all his co-stars.

27 All the actors who played the doomed marines in Aliens spent two weeks training with the SAS before filming.

28 In Anchorman, the Mexican restaurant Veronica visits is called "Escupimos en su Alimento". Translated from Spanish, it means "We spit in your food".

29 The Wrath Of The Titans was the third in the series to feature an ex-Bond girl.

30 It was so cold filming some of the scenes in Centurion that Noel Clarke (Macros) was treated for frostbite.

31 Mark Strong's Mafia boss character in Kick-Ass is called Frank D'Amico, a nod to mobster Anthony "Fat Tony" D'Amico in The Simpsons.

32 In The Empire Strikes Back, you can see a potato and a shoe among the debris during the asteroid field sequences.

33 Martin Freeman was only able to take the role of Bilbo Baggins in The Hobbit: An Unexpected Journey when the director rearranged the entire shooting schedule for him.

34 Tom Hardy broke a finger, a toe, and suffered broken ribs while filming Warrior.

35 Daniel Day-Lewis won an Oscar for his role in Lincoln. In 2002, his Bill The Butcher character in Gangs Of New York is seen throwing a knife at a picture of Lincoln.

36 The champion robot in Real Steel is called Zeus, a nod to Carl Weathers' character Apollo Creed in Rocky. In Greek mythology, Zeus is Apollo's father.

37 Although all the wrenches in the training scene from Dodgeball were made from plastic, Justin Long (Justin Redman) still suffered a cut forehead.

38 The makers of The Expendables 2 built a bridge over a Bulgarian river especially for the film. After shooting they announced the railway crossing over the River Osam would stay in place as a gift to the country.

39 In Safe House, Denzel Washington was waterboarded for real for the torture scenes.

40 The premiere of Nicolas Cage action flick The Rock was screened in the actual prison recreation yard of Alcatraz – the setting for the film.

41 Resident Evil: Retribution – the fifth film in the horror-sci-fi franchise – is the first not to feature zombie dogs.

42 The aliens in Predators are shorter than the original one. Kevin Peter Hall (7ft 3) played the Predator in the first two films, while the alien actors in the sequel average just 6ft 6.

43 As part of his research for his role as an LA police officer in End Of Watch, Jake Gyllenhaal witnessed a real murder while doing a 12-hour shift with LA policemen.

44 Andrew Kevin Walker, the writer behind Se7en, makes a cameo appearance in the film as a corpse.

45 Contraband director Baltasar Kormákur played Mark Wahlberg's character in the Icelandic version of the film.

46 In Gangster Squad, Ryan Gosling's character jokes the only famous Mickey he knows is Mickey Mouse. Gosling began his career on Disney's The All New Mickey Mouse Club.

47 In the original edit of 21 Jump Street, the drama teacher talks about doing cocaine with Whitney Houston's niece. It was dubbed "Doing cocaine with Willie Nelson's horse," after the singer's death.

48 The scene in Heat where Robert De Niro's gang make their escape after the bank robbery has been shown to US Marines as an example of the proper way to retreat under fire.

49 Tron: Legacy took just 64 days to film, but it took more than a year to add all the additional special effects before it was ready for release.

50 In The Dark Knight Rises, in a scene set in a Gotham City airport, an EasyJet plane is clearly visible parked on the runway.

DIRECTOR

DANNY BOYLE!

The Brit-flick legend
on his freaky new film, being hypnotised and getting Her Maj to act!

Hi Danny! Your new film, Trance, is a bit far out! Hello! Well, movies are like a trance. They're these weird things. We come to these dark spaces with strangers, there's a flickering light, you're shocked, repelled, you laugh, you cry, you fall in love, you start to believe. Then in this movie, you start to be unable to differentiate between illusion and reality, even though the whole thing's an illusion because it's a movie.

There's loads about hypnosis and the power of suggestion in the movie. Do you believe in all that? You mean like Derren Brown? I love his work but I always thought, "They're probably actors." Then I thought, "It's strange you don't find some actor years later saying, 'Oh, it's all bollocks – I was paid £200 to pretend...'" I think hypnosis only works on the five to ten per cent of people who are suggestible and who want to change and disappear inside somebody. They're called virtuosos and they're the people who Derren Brown picks. So although what you see in the film is ethically very dubious and morally indefensible, it's clinically possible. So there you go.

Did you always want James McAvoy to be your main man in this? I originally thought he might be a bit young, but he auditioned and he was fantastic. It starts off like a classic McAvoy movie anyway – he's warm, he's trusting, he's got a Scottish accent. Then he turns into a psychotic and loses touch with reality. But he's still someone who makes you feel for him.

Did you have a go at being hypnotised on set? I didn't have a go. I can't relax enough to do it so I never went in the chair. But we did have a go with Vincent [Cassel] and James in rehearsal and it all got a bit sleepy, but nothing exciting emerged.

Does that mean you tried to get the Trainspotting cast high, then? Ha-ha! No. They did stay off the booze because they were all trying to lose weight for the film, but as we got towards the end they went back on the booze. There's a scene in the park where they shoot a dog with an air rifle. We turned up at the park that morning and there were all these rumours that Ewan [McGregor] and Jonny [Lee Miller] were still in a club. They turned up absolutely hammered, but they're such wonderful actors, they made something of it. So if you watch that scene you can see that they're completely out of it. It suits the scene as they do their Sean Connery impersonations.

Amazing! Trance is awesome, but how can our readers persuade their girlfriends to watch it? Actually, one theory is that women find psychological thrillers, where there's a mystery and a puzzle, easier to go with than men. Men are control freaks and we try to organise things. We go, "That wouldn't happen." Psychological thrillers appeal more to women if you can get them in the cinema. Of course, they don't go because there's violence or whatever. So all you have to do it to tell them that Trance is a lady's movie.

How did you balance making this at the same time as directing the Olympics opening ceremony? Thursday and Friday, happy clappy. Saturday to Wednesday, the dark, psychotic stuff! I think it helped both projects. The other job was a family-friendly, overwhelmingly positive national celebration. It was nice to do something with the darker side of people's imagination at the same time.

Were you tempted to use hypnosis to "persuade" anyone to take part in the Olympics who might otherwise have said no? Ha! Well, you like to think you have a hypnotic effect on people but it's a bit of an illusion to think you can persuade people to do anything. You can't!

Did you pick up any acting tips from Her Maj, bring it on set the next day and go, "Oi, McAvoy, this is how the Queen does it?" Ha! Not quite. It was weird, that. When we wrote to the Palace, we were imagining they'd either say OK to a double if we did someone really respectful like Helen Mirren, or they'd say no. We were originally going to bring her on the tube, which was the second idea. "Let's get her on the Central Line – that will be fun." They wrote back and said, "We're delighted about the idea and she'd like to play herself." It was 1 April, so we thought it was a joke. The only thing we insisted on was that it was a secret. She didn't tell anyone in her family so it was a surprise for them too.

Nice one, Danny! Finally then, do you reckon all your flicks have the same underlying theme? The last three films I've done have all been about memories. In Slumdog Millionaire, memory was a good fortune to Dev Patel. In 127 Hours, where he cuts his arm off, memories save him. This is more about how memories can wreak havoc and destruction. But all the films I've made are the same film, I have to admit that. They're all about a character – usually a bloke – who faces insurmountable odds and overcomes them. If you think about it, Slumdog Millionaire, the guy in 127 Hours, they're the same film. Don't tell anyone! X

● Trance is in cinemas now.

LUCY PINDER

Lucy Pinder!

Breathtakingly booby brilliance!

“Sophie Howard always shocks me – she’s up for anything!”

Hi Lucy! You look great today! How are you?

Thank you! I'm feeling great too, and I've been preparing for this shoot by moisturising my boobs.

Do your boobs love the high life?

Not really. Maybe they should get more attention, although they get enough TLC lavished on them, so they don't need any more! Apart from the odd bit of cocoa butter...

Have you insured them?

I've thought about it but I'm not sure how to go about it. Maybe Nuts should put the word out that I'm looking for a specialist insurance company. If J-Lo can get her bum insured and Tom Jones can get his chest hair insured, why can't my boobs get the same treatment? Nuts should pay the premiums, though.

Deal! Did you enjoy Sophie Howard's triumphant return?

It's great! She looked gorgeous. I feel that after seeing that shoot, all is right in the world!

What's the rudest story she's ever told you?

I can't even repeat the rudest story The Howard has ever told me. She's shocked me many times, and I'm not that easily shocked! You know someone is a bit special when they have "The" in front of their name – like The Hoff.

When are you two going to blow our minds and do a big, sexy shoot together?

I wouldn't have to say a lot to persuade her – she's pretty much up for anything.

Have you been offered any crazy telly projects recently?

I don't really get offered many crazy ones. Just the same old "celebrities make fools of themselves on national telly" ones. I'd love to do Strictly Come Dancing or something. Just because I can't dance and I'd love to learn. ►

“Nuts has the best girls – I fancy all of them!”

Would you do a show based on the everyday life of your boobs?

Definitely not! I value my privacy too much. I don't think there's anything massively glamorous about my life. It would be a pretty boring storyline. Ha-ha!

As Queen of Nuts, do you get to keep all the saucy undies?

Ha-ha! Not really, no. One of my friends asked me this recently. They thought I must have Britain's biggest sexy underwear collection, but we don't get to keep anything!

What's the most extravagant purchase you've made lately?

I've been very good but I did buy myself a new handbag. I can't even tell you how much it cost. That was my last splurge, I promise. But there are some things a girl just needs. A nice handbag, nice shoes, nice car...

If you could do a rude movie scene with any celeb in the world, who would it be?

If it was with another girl, Megan Fox. If it was with a guy, Henry Cavill. You can't get much more athletic than Superman!

When was the last time you went to watch your beloved Saints play?

I haven't been for ages now. Hopefully, I'll get down there soon to lend my support and help them stay in the Premier League. I don't think they'll need my help, though. They have enough quality in the side. They'll be OK.

What do you think of new manager Mauricio Pochettino?

I have a theory about him. I have a sneaking suspicion that he can speak perfect English, and all the translator stuff is just a ruse to make things difficult for the media!

So what's your favourite album of all time?

Michael Jackson's Off The Wall! It still sounds amazing. Every track is a classic. I could listen to it on repeat forever. ▶

“I wish I was lying on a beach getting bronzed!”

“Every man looks more attractive with stubble!”

Would you fancy a bloke more if he could play a musical instrument?

I don't know if it can make someone more attractive, but it would certainly make a difference if he could play the instrument really, really well. Talent is always impressive!

So what's guaranteed to make a bloke more attractive for you?

Stubble! I'm glad you asked me that question because all men need to know this. Clean-shaven is not a good look, so every man should have some sort of facial fuzz going on. Face furniture, I call it. Every man looks more attractive with a bit of stubble. Fact!

What would you have improved about last month's budget?

The roads! The roads in this country are absolutely terrible. There are potholes everywhere where I live!

Have any of the new Nuts babes in particular caught your eye?

Geena Mullins. She's gorgeous! You always ask which girls I fancy, and it's impossible. There are so many, I couldn't possibly choose between them. Holly Peers, Rosie Jones, Rhian Sugden... Nuts definitely has the best girls!

What would you be doing right now if you weren't a model?

Well, my original plan was to be an English teacher, so I guess I'd probably be doing that somewhere. But I'm having too much fun doing this at the moment. Ha-ha!

What are your predictions for the rest of 2013?

It's simple. 2013 is going to be the best year ever! I just want to go somewhere sunny, because we haven't had a good summer for years. I want to be lying on a beach somewhere getting bronzed.

Thanks for the chat, Lucy! Finally, everyone loves Nuts the magazine but what are your favourite nuts to snack on?
Ooh, I do love an almond! ❌

“My favourite new Nuts babe is Geena Mullins – she’s gorgeous!”

A man's face is visible through vertical red bars, which resemble prison bars. The background features the stars and stripes of the American flag. The man has a serious expression and is looking slightly to the right.

'I SURVIVED AMERICA'S TOUGHEST PRISON'

The Brit who spent five years in a US hellhole...

SHAUN ATTWOOD went from a small Cheshire town to being a key figure in Arizona's drug-fuelled rave scene. He ended up in America's hellish Maricopa County Jail for over five years. Now reformed, he tells Nuts about what life's like in the infamous clink.

Hi Shaun. How did you get on the wrong side of the law?

I moved to America from a small town in England. I got a job as a stockbroker in Arizona and was eventually making half a million dollars a year. It was then I got into organising rave parties and distributing drugs.

How involved with that scene did you get?

There was a huge amount of drugs and a lot of very shady people involved in the scene. I'd occasionally get on the wrong side of them. One night, a Mafia hit squad was sent out to kidnap me in a club. Amazingly, my friend got into a fight that same evening, so we had to leave the club early. If that hadn't happened, there was a strong chance I'd have been held and tortured.

How did you get caught?

I didn't realise that narcotics officers had been watching me. They had witness statements and they'd been tapping my phone, so they had evidence linking me to the distribution of drugs. A Swat team charged into my house one morning and arrested me. That was it.

Were you treated differently by the authorities because you were British?

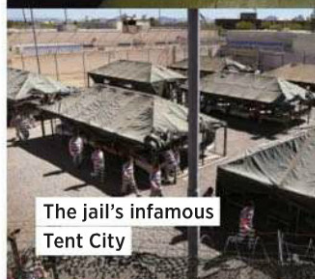

They nicknamed me English Shaun, which I didn't like. I felt it was used against me. I felt the way I was portrayed in court made me sound like a cross between Tony Soprano and a vampire!

Gang culture is rife in Maricopa

Inmates are made to wear pink underwear

What was your first night in Maricopa County Jail like?

I was taken to a processing centre. People were in all kinds of states there – drunk, high on crystal meth, psychotic because they were off their meds... whatever. There were fights breaking out and blood everywhere.

What was your cell like?

It was intended for one but there were three of us there. My first encounter with one of the guys was when he told me he had a padlock in a sock and he was going to use it on me to smash me in my sleep. This was the only time I sought outside help to get me moved to a different cell.

How did other prisoners take to having a Brit in there?

They'd ask me if I knew the Queen or the Beatles or the Spice Girls. There were so many gangs, so I used to just say I was in the English gang which had a membership of one. Ha-ha!

What real gangs were there?

The white gang was the Aryan Brotherhood. The black gang was the Mau Mau. There was the Mexican Mafia and the New Mexican Mafia. The idea was to have the gangs working in harmony so the trafficking of drugs could continue. If there were riots, the place would be locked down and business would suffer. Though there were still riots.

INSIDE 'HELL'

- The Maricopa County Jail system is hell. Made up of eight facilities housing over 10,500 inmates, equal to around one eighth of the entire UK prison population.

- The complex contains the notorious Tent City. Inmates live in army surplus tents and conditions are grim.

Amazingly, tours are available to the public.

- Inmates are forced to wear black-and-white striped uniforms and pink underpants – originally introduced to combat theft of white undies, but kept to humiliate lags.

- Prisoners are charged for every meal – a policy initiated by infamous Sheriff Joe Arpaio.

TOUGHEST US JAIL

Were you ever caught up in any jail riots?

Yes. I was caught in one where it all kicked off and the guards came in letting off pepper spray. There were men toppling down stairwells and you could hear the impact of skulls being smashed against walls and toilet seats. But even when they had pepper spray in their eyes, these guys just kept on going at each other.

What was your worst encounter in there?

I got beaten up pretty badly once. It was done deliberately on visiting day so that I looked like sh*t when my family were there to see me. I'm not a fighter but I tried to punch this guy. It was like hitting a bag of cement.

The jail was under the control of a bloke who calls himself "America's Toughest Sheriff". How bad was he?

You mean Sheriff Joe Arpaio. He's a complete d*ck. He's turned his prison into sick entertainment for outsiders. He has mug shots of the prisoners on the jail website and you can vote for which one you think is the ugliest. He makes the prisoners go into chain gangs and makes people wear pink underwear. It's incredible to think the things he does seem to be working within the law.

What have you learnt from your time in Maricopa?

I've learnt that it's important not to be too greedy. Before the drugs I had a great life in the States, and it was ruined.

How do you use your experiences to help others?

I'm giving over 100 talks a year. I'm working a lot with schools. I want people to know what prison can do to a person and to make it clear that there's no such thing as an easy stretch. ✕

Wheeler Dealers: Trading Up

DISCOVERY/HD • 9pm

Nice bloke Mike Brewer is travelling the world with $3k in his pocket. The idea is to buy a rubbish motor and, as he travels, trade up and end up with a supercar. In this one, Mike pops back home to the UK to flog a Hindustan Ambassador. Good luck with that!

Elementary

SKY LIVING/HD • 9pm

The Sherlock Holmes stories continue to be transplanted to modern-day New York. Here, our hero investigates the case of a man who believes the incurable disease destroying his mind was given to him deliberately. Meanwhile, Watson (Lucy Liu) visits a dry-cleaning store suspected of laundering more than dirty clothes.

The Cleveland Show

E4/HD • 10pm

More laughs as the family move to California, where Cleveland pursues his dream of becoming a Major League Baseball scout. It's not long before things, predictably, take a turn for the worse, though. We wouldn't have it any other way!

Breaking Magic

DISCOVERY/HD • 8pm

More magic tricks are performed then broken down and explained. Tonight, Wayne Houchin explodes a bottle with his mind, Billy Kidd proves her psychic powers, then Ben Hanlin predicts some drink orders. We do that last one every time we're at a bar and forget a round. The difference? Ben does it accurately. The show-off.

Mad Men

NEW SERIES!

SKY ATLANTIC/HD • 10pm

There's a lot to be said for this slick saga set in the murky world of '60s advertising, but it really is one of the most stylish and smart telly shows of the last few years. If you're new to it, and like your grey matter tested, be sure to bag series 1-5 on DVD first. Otherwise, enjoy what's set to be a sublime penultimate series.

CONFESSION OF THE WEEK!

'My hen do surprise'

A FEW weeks ago, I was on a hen do that involved a boozy lunch out then a trip back to the hen's house, where there was a sexy female stripper act. We were soon in the garden doing silly strip routines. One girl had an amazing body and huge boobs. After some flirting, she asked me to follow her to the bathroom. There, she cupped my breasts in her hands and squeezed my nipples, then she put her hands down my jeans, got to her knees and licked me until we ended up doing it on the floor. I can't wait for the wedding now!

Louisa via email

'My frisky ferry ride'

LAST WEEKEND, me and a couple of girlfriends took the ferry to France. As we sailed out of the port, I spotted a young, sexy bloke leaning against the rail on the top deck, and was immediately turned on. I leaned against the railings nearby and soon caught his attention and asked if I could follow him to his car. I saw the excitement in his eyes and within minutes we were snogging and he had his hands down my top, caressing my hard nipples. The car steamed up quickly and I soon had my hands on his crown jewels. I slid my lips over his manhood and moved him in and out of my mouth. He could barely contain his groans – it made the journey go much quicker!

Sara Kent

'Chatroom naughtiness'

MY SISTER told me about a website where you can chat to hot guys from around the world, so I decided to try it. A few blokes caught my eye but I decided to try a dark-haired Spanish guy who was lying semi-naked in his front room. We started chatting and I was immediately at ease and feeling fruity. The chat was hot and steamy and he spoke pretty good English. I'd stripped to a pair of tiny pants, shaking my hair so that it fell over my pert breasts. I soon saw how horny he was as he moved the camera down to expose an impressive hard-on. I sat back a little and showed him how I pleased myself. He climaxed soon after and it wasn't long before I was shuddering too. I now plan to work my way around the globe!

Amanda Sussex

'Our fun at the party'

I WAS at a friend's family party and her brother spent most of the night flirting with me. After a few drinks, the conversation became more personal and he asked if we could continue it in private. I followed him to his bedroom and he locked the door. He leaned in for a kiss and I didn't hold back. Before I knew it, he was sliding his hand up my dress and he could feel how wet I was. He moaned with delight as my hand found the hard bulge in his jeans. We kept on kissing and I was so horny, I couldn't wait to release his stiffy. I went down, unzipped him and gave him the best head he'd ever had. He then bent me over the bed, pulled down my soaking wet panties and entered me from behind. Now I can't wait to go to my friend's house again!

10 RUDE QUESTIONS!

And a real girl to answer them!

Harley

19 Birmingham

1 Where's the strangest place you've had sex?

"I once had great sex on a dining room table. I dug my nails into it so hard, I left marks. Oops!"

2 What's your trademark move in the bedroom?

"One thing that I do before sex is spray perfume on the back of my neck. It's important to smell nice, and I like a guy to kiss me there. It drives me wild!"

3 What really turns you on?

"Compliments can be a huge turn-on. If a guy tells me I look hot or that what I'm doing to him during sex turns him on, that does the trick for me."

4 What's your favourite position?

"I prefer the guy to take control and be on top. But it doesn't really matter what position I'm in – as long as he's in control."

5 Is it better to give or to receive?

"Tough question! When you're doing rude things, it can be a turn-on to do both at the same time. I think you have to give a little to receive yourself."

6 What one thing would you really like to try?

"I want to join the mile-high club! I'm turned on by the thought of sex on a plane."

7 Have you ever got it on with another girl?

"Apart from the odd cheeky kiss and fumble, I've never done anything with a girl – although I've had loads of offers. Never say never!"

8 What's your role-playing costume of choice?

"I've never really been into role-play, although I always make sure I wear hot underwear. I like to undress in front of the guy and give him a long, lingering look at my lingerie. That always gets us both really horny."

9 Have you ever made a sex tape?

"I've sent a naughty video of myself to a guy before but I've never done a full-on sex tape. I think I'd be too busy worrying if I looked OK!"

10 What's the rudest thing you've done?

DERBY SPECIAL!

Giggs: 'We hate to lose!'

Ryan on City, Fergie and staying hungry!

➔ Hi Ryan! So, we're going to see you in a United shirt for another season!

I just felt I could continue to contribute. I wouldn't have re-signed if I didn't. There was no emotion in the decision from either side. It was a footballing decision.

What would you say is the secret of your longevity?

Playing for a club like Manchester United has helped. I've been given the finest care for many years. I also know my own body really well. As I got older, I appreciated that I couldn't play every single game.

Did you ever believe you would rack up 1,000 games?

Of course not! When you're a youngster you set yourself goals. First, get into the team, then stay there. I'm lucky to have played at a club like United for so long but it's not something I dwell on. When I retire, I'll probably look back more.

The league title is within United's grasp. What's changed this season?

No one wanted to experience disappointment again. Sitting in the dressing room after the final game was horrendous. To lose on goal difference was cruel, so everyone was hurting. That will have stayed with the players over the summer. It's been one hell of a motivation.

Is there anything else?

We've got players back from injury and everyone's in good form. The team's progressing with young players improving and experienced ones keeping their performance levels high.

What about the manager?

He hates losing and last season will have hurt. He wants to set the record straight.

Was it especially painful to lose the title to your neighbours?

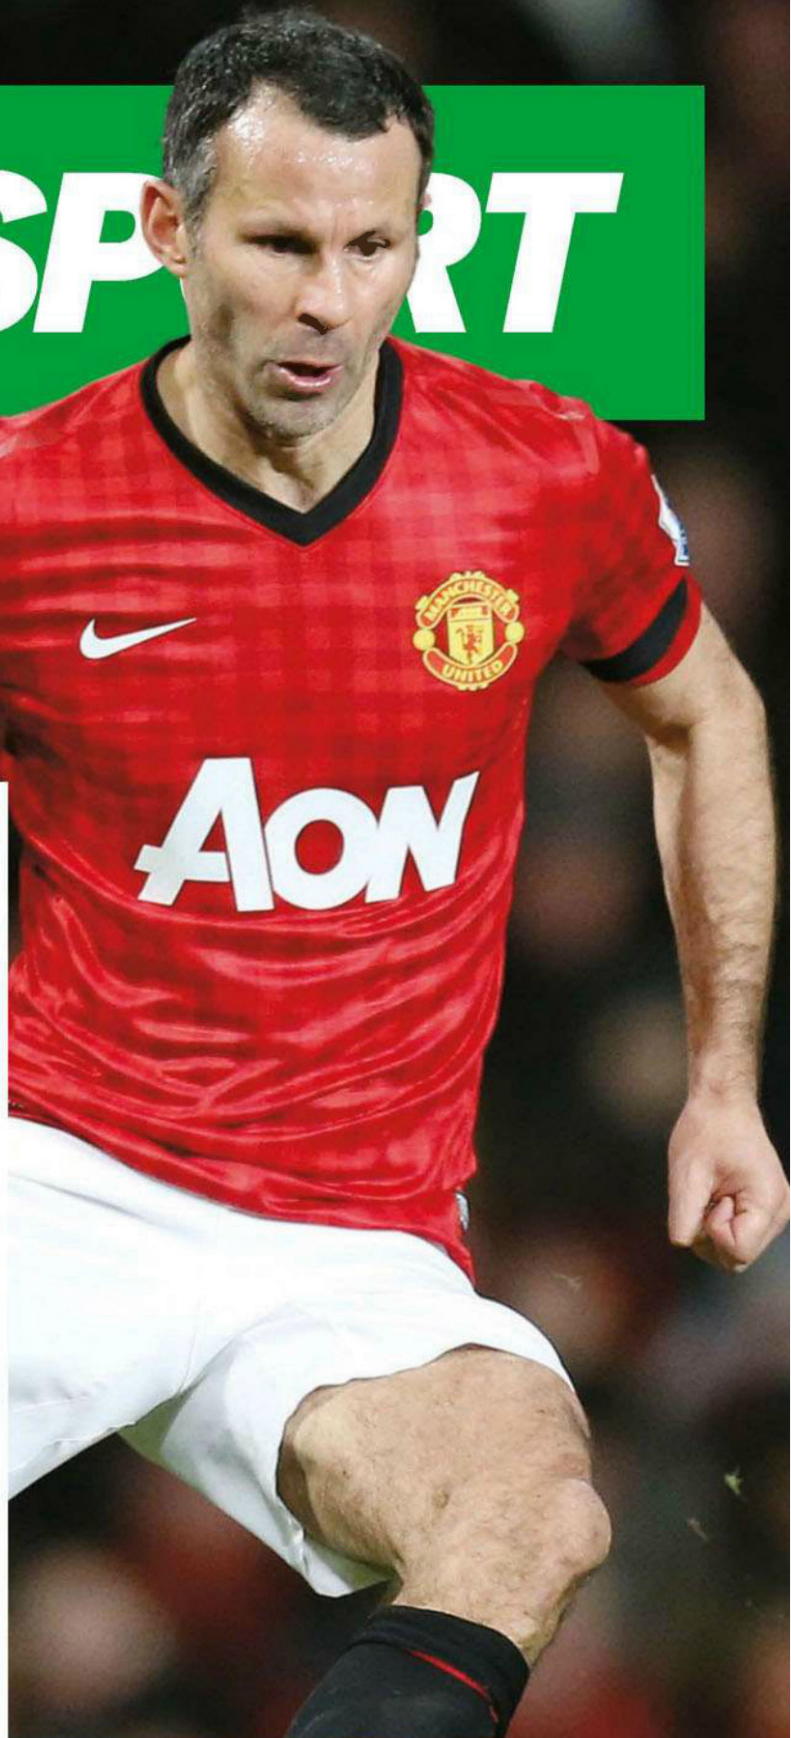

It wasn't ideal but the reaction would have been the same if it was Chelsea or Arsenal.

Can you still get yourself up for big games like the derby?

Of course – as you get older you enjoy things more. You see how lucky you are to be playing in these big games because you know there may not be many more.

You've scored in every Premier League campaign. Think you can continue that record?

I hope so! It's not about me scoring though. I'll just do whatever I can to help the lads achieve their ambitions. A goal or two would be nice though!

"Scholesy's a whiz with a sewing machine – he'll fix your shorts"

Tevez: 'Title race isn't over!'

Carlos on the fans and his spat with Mancini!

Hi Carlos! What would winning the Manchester derby mean to the team?

Every game is important. This is a special occasion for our fans, but it's part of the bigger goal – the league campaign.

But surely the race is over!

Nothing's over until the numbers say we can't win.

What's the team spirit like?

It is good, always. We have many players with great experience and ability and there's individual excellence. But at the same time there's the understanding that the team is the biggest thing.

So, there are no competing personalities?

We're a team. Only those close to the club and the squad know what we're like. Everyone's united in the desire to win every game. It's natural that people say things but I pay no attention.

At one point last season you seemed destined to leave...

There were problems but these are finished. I wish only to look forward. I'm happy, the manager's happy, I hope the fans are happy. There are no problems now.

Do you regret it?

Things were not good but I prefer to look forward. I'm in a better position, which is all that matters. I feel happy on and off the pitch.

What's changed for you?

Winning the Premier League helped. Having a trophy after so many years for the club was fantastic. You could feel what it meant to all the people around the place. History was created and I was part of that. No one can take that away. And now I have my family around me. My children are here and this means everything.

Are you over your much-publicised home sickness?

I still have family back home in Argentina who I miss, but things are OK. Yes, playing football makes me happy and it's given me so much, yet my family is everything – this is the key to my happiness. If my family isn't content, my football goes wrong. Thankfully, I can say both things are working well.

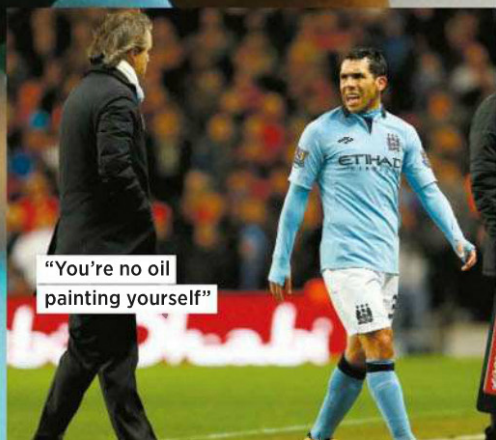

Are you a different guy to the one we saw a year ago?

I'm older and know more things. Football has given me everything and I've always wanted to win, to play every game, to be successful. Today, maybe, I can see other things. When we lost, I would be in a very bad mood. Or if I wasn't in the starting team, I'd be angry, but now I just go home and see my girls and there's a different perspective.

Your popularity among the City fans has endured...

I love the City supporters and owe them a lot. Even when things were bad they made me feel that I was special. I'll always thank them for this. I hope our relationship will continue for many seasons.

● Man United vs Man City is on Sky Sports 1/HD on Monday 8 April at 8pm.

"You're no oil painting yourself"

The world's craziest horse race!

1996 Grand National champ Mick Fitzgerald on what it's like to compete in the big race!

Hi Mick! Can you describe what it's like in the weighing room before the race?

You could say we're similar to gladiators – it's a case of last man standing. We're all looking out for each other, but it's every man for himself – a tough business.

What does it feel like when you're on the start line?

You want to get a good place, but more importantly you'll have identified horses you don't want to be anywhere near. If you fall it's one thing, but if you get brought down by a bad jumper it's your own fault.

You won the 1996 Grand National with Rough Quest. Tell us about it.

It was only my second ride in the race. It may have been naivety, but I just felt that I was going to do it.

Did you worry about the prospect of having to jump fences like Becher's Brook?

You give them the respect they deserve or they'll bite you. An unfortunate part of it is that horses lose their lives. That's a horrible part of the sport, because without them we're nothing.

What emotions did you go through on the last straight?

I had a remit to hit the front right at the end as the horse I rode didn't like being in front. Just to complete the course is a feat in itself. At fence 28, I thought, "Wow, I'm going to finish this!" Then I realised I could win.

What did winning feel like?

It was absolute euphoria, but I didn't realise the scale of it until I won. When I'm introduced anywhere, it's as a Grand National winner.

You had a bad fall in the 2008 Grand National...

The horse fired me like a spear into the ground. I couldn't feel my arms or my legs. I said, "Please don't let this happen." Luckily, I soon started to get some feeling back and after some operations, I recovered.

How would you sum the Grand National up?

If I was trying to promote horse racing to young lads, I'd say get yourself over to Liverpool for the Grand National meeting. It's three days of brilliant racing.

Any tips on how to pick a Grand National winner?

Go for a horse that's been around the course before. Also, see how they've done at Cheltenham Festival – that's a great indicator of recent form.

● Channel 4 Racing's Grand National coverage runs from 4-6 April.

INTERVIEW: ANTHONY TEASDALE. PHOTOS: REX FEATURES/PA, SHUTTERSTOCK, ACTION IMAGES

CHAMPION JOCKEY!

Mick Fitzgerald won the Grand National in 1996 on Rough Quest. He also won the Gold Cup in 2005.

THE BIG ONE!

Why the National's so dangerous!

- Modern steeplechases have an average of four equine fatalities per 1,000 horses. The Grand National averages nearly double that number.
- The horses, which can be as tall as 5ft 8, thunder along the almost five-mile course at speeds of up to 40mph. Oh, and they weigh around a tonne!
- The course's most notorious jumps include Becher's Brook, which stands at 4ft 10 with a drop of 6ft 9 on the landing side, and The Chair, which stands at 5ft 2 preceded by a 6ft-wide ditch. The Chair caused the race's only human fatality – Joe Wynne in 1862.
- Hundreds of jockeys have been injured over the years. A jockey is more likely to come off his horse than finish the race. In 2010, only 14 horses finished out of a field of 43!

KAMMY!

He's the voice of the fans – and he's only in Nuts!

"Why did no one tell me it was out?"

Roy got it wrong in Montenegro!

Hodgson should have made England changes in Podgorica!

➔ ENGLAND HAVE done it again! During the draw in Montenegro, they fell into the old habit of not keeping the ball. If it was Spain, they wouldn't have let the opposition near the ball in the second half, but England always give it away and put themselves under pressure.

If Roy Hodgson was a pundit on that game, he'd say the same thing. The players didn't spread out at the back to receive the ball from the goalie. Instead, Joe Hart kicked the ball and they lost possession.

When Roy was manager of Fulham, he'd make changes in the personnel when he saw things were going wrong. By not making changes, people are thinking, "Does he not see what we see?"

I'm a natural optimist and saw enough in that first 45 minutes to show that England can qualify for the World Cup, but it's time now for Roy and his assistants to work out the reason why it went wrong.

"Hurry up, snow – I want to build an igloo!"

Gordon's nightmare Scotland start!

GORDON'S STRACHAN'S not got off to a great start as Scotland manager. The Serbia game was difficult as they're a settled side with good players, but the Wales match was the one he had to win.

With the Wales game, he'd probably point out he lost Steven Fletcher before half-time, but Wales were battering them before he went off.

However, he has to be given time. He may need to have a complete overhaul and try to foster a spirit of togetherness where the side become like the Scotland of old – biting and scrapping for every ball.

He'll be under no illusions though – the honeymoon's over, but I think he has the capabilities to do a decent job.

Southend have sacked Paul Sturrock but asked him to walk the team out at Wembley. Couldn't they have waited a couple of weeks?

Nigel Adkins is back!

WE ALL felt for Nigel Adkins when he lost the manager's job at Southampton, just as we did for Brian McDermott when he was given the boot at Reading, but it's dog-eat-dog – you know if you do well you'll keep your job, if you don't, you'll get the sack.

While some journalists are saying managers shouldn't jump into another man's job, it's always been that way in football. They all know the rules, and the truth is there are no rules. One day you're top dog, the next you're out of work.

Still, Adkins was well paid when he was at Southampton and he's got another Premier League job. Good luck to him.

Pearson: 'Randy's great, but I'll still beat up his son!'

Brit UFC star Ross Pearson on facing Couture Jr!

Hi Ross! Tell us about your next opponent...

I'm fighting Ryan Couture on 6 April. Everyone knows who his dad is [former UFC heavyweight champ Randy Couture] and that's brought a lot of attention, but he's a highly rated fighter in his own right. He's coming over from Strikeforce with a point to prove, but I'm not an easy fight for anybody.

Will he use the same Greco-Roman style as Randy?

I'm sure he's picked up some tips from his dad, but I don't think so. Randy was a great fighter, but the sport's moved on. To be successful now, you have to be a true martial artist and can't afford to restrict yourself to one style.

Why did the UFC choose you as Couture's first opponent?

I think they want to test him early and see how good he is. UFC's full of the world's best fighters. There's no such thing as an easy fight.

What kind of fight are you expecting against Couture?

It's going to be a battle. I know he has a good chin and he can dig deep. But I'm going to take it to him and pile on the pressure. He won't be able to keep up with me.

Have you ever met Randy?

Yes, we were on the same bill at UFC 105 in Manchester and we trained at some of the same places. I have nothing against him, he's a great guy. But I'm still going to beat up his son!

When you fight guys you know personally, does a bit of you hold back?

No! We might try to help each other out in the gym, but when we step inside the Octagon, it's on. You can't hold back, because the guy you're fighting is out to stop you putting food on the table.

How do you think you've evolved as a fighter?

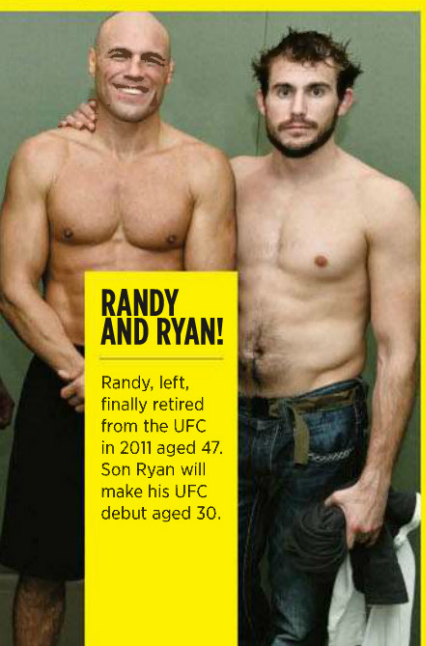

My background's striking-based, but I'm learning all the time. I'm more than handy against the cage or on the ground. I'm confident I can fight anywhere it takes place. I've dedicated my life to this sport and I'm ready to go out there and prove it.

Pub ammo on... The Grand National

- Beginning in 1839, the first five Grand Nationals included one jump that was a stone wall. It's where the water jump is now.
- Red Rum was the most successful horse to ever run the Grand National, winning three times and finishing second twice.
- The total prize money for the 2013 race is £975,000.
- John Smith's sponsors the race for the last time in 2013. Rumours that Findus is the new sponsor are unfounded.
- The Grand National will be held on Saturday 6 April.
