This week in the Nuts office!

Nuts NEWS

BB EXCLUSIVE 1!

It's BB's Sallie topless!

The hot housemate shows Nuts her fine set of tats!

➔ THE MAIN fun to be had during any Big Brother opening night is separating the egomaniac narcissist, the flighty whoopsie and, usually, the super-hot honey. Step forward tattooed lovely Sallie Axl, who, fingers crossed, should be keeping the house in saucy moments for weeks to come. We grabbed Sallie before she went house-hunting and took, as you can see, some very nice pictures...

TATTOOED TREAT!

DJ and Ink dolls UK founder, Sallie was the third person to enter the Big Brother house last Thursday.

Turn the page to see even more of Sallie!

“If I went out with Natalee, there’d be scandal!”

Hi Sallie, welcome to Nuts! Where did you come from?
Ha-ha! I've been around a while, doing modelling and DJ-ing. If you haven't seen me before, it's your loss!

Is Sallie Axl your real name?
It's just my modelling name. It started as a nickname when I was a teenager. My friends started calling me it because I used to dress like Axl Rose.

Are you an Axl Rose fan?
Not really. I don't like that he keeps his fans waiting at gigs for so long. Who does he think he is? Justin Bieber?

Tell us a bit about your tattoos...
I have a full old-school sleeve, which is quite masculine. I didn't want it to be all girly. And I have one on my back that says, "Let your tongue finish what your fingers started..."

What's the significance of that?
It was the forfeit I had to do for losing a game of Spoof!

What's your favourite tattoo?
The girl on the back of my leg holding a keg of beer and smoking a fag!

Did you know you look a bit like Nuts fave Arabella Drummond?
Yeah, I get that a lot. I take it as a massive compliment because she's gorgeous!

We hear you're mates with Natalee from The Valleys?
Yes! I love her! She wrote on Twitter that I was her girl crush, so I replied, and now a friendship is blossoming!

What would happen if you and her went out together?
There'd be a lot of drinking, nakedness and scandal. I don't think we'd be allowed in clubs. We'd be banned, ha-ha!

Thanks, Sallie. Finally, what's your big ambition in life?
I want to be an international DJ, and travel the world, spinning my tunes!

This way for another hot Big Brother babe!

BB EXCLUSIVE 2!

And here's BB's Hazel!

Miss O'Sullivan just made reality TV
a whole lot sexier!

SOME SAY that the contestants
in the Big Brother

house are attention-seeking weirdos. We'd find that hard to argue with that, but when they look like Hazel O'Sullivan, all our objections cease.

Let's face it, the mere sight of Dublin girl Hazel makes life worth living. She's the tasty, powdery stuff in the bottom of a bag of salt 'n' vinegar crisps. So what if she had a feud with Georgia Salpa and went out with Irish rugby bloke Fergus McFadden. When she fixes those eyes on you, all resistance is futile!

- Catch Big Brother highlights every night on Channel 5, with live evictions on Fridays.

WORDS: ANTHONY TEASDALE PHOTOS: LILLI FORBERG/LIPSTICK SYNDICATION

WE'RE NUTS OVER HAZEL!

Hazel says of herself that she can be "snappy and irritable". We think we can forgive that!

Her gym kit was certainly unconventional

"You're not going out dressed like that, young lady"

She hadn't quite mastered patting her head while rubbing her tummy

Golf war!

New driver slams VW headfirst into house. Bad move!

NO ONE said learning to drive was easy but when it comes to the future safety of our roads, it might be worth someone telling the driver of this VW Golf to take the bus from now on.

This interesting meeting of car and house was caused when a learner driver in Meisenheim, Germany, had a few too many drinks and decided to go for a spin. While many motors would have come off second best to the sturdy dwelling, both the driver and the German-built Golf escaped relatively unscathed.

Maybe the house was made in Britain!

CAR CALAMITY!

"I'm sorry to have to tell you, Mrs Smith, but you've failed your driving test"

Apple iOS7 drops!

E-giant launches killer new operating system!

➔ THE ANDROID vs Apple war has just got serious, with Apple unveiling iOS7, the seventh version of its operating system. The new-look iOS7 – overseen by Brit design genius Sir Jony Ive – will change the way your iPhone and iPad look, behave and feel. Tempted? You'll have to wait until autumn for it to surface. Your move, Android.

CAMERA

It'll come with Instagram-like filters for a cool retro look.

THE GRAPHICS

A simpler, flatter overall look that ditches "skeuomorphism", the technique of using wood, leather and paper textures in apps.

CONTROL CENTRE

E3 SPECIAL!

The 11 best games of 2014!

New games! New consoles! All sorts!

➔ EVERY YEAR the geeky and nerdy chaps of the world decamp to Los Angeles for E3. It's the world's biggest games expo, where your Sonys, Microsofts and Nintendos flog us their upcoming gaming wares. This year was special, as both Sony and Microsoft have new consoles to tempt us. And shiny, new games-like trinkets to draw us in. Here's Nuts' selection of what you'll be sliding into them, next year.

NUTS MAN SET LOOSE ON E3!

We spared no expense to get Nuts' geek Rory out of the office for a few days.

2 THE ORDER 1886
Third-person shooter/action adventure in which a secret squad of elite knights, toting all manner of futuristic weapons, take on hordes of supernatural enemies in a centuries-old battle that plays out across Victorian London in an alternate history timeline.
WHERE AND WHEN? PS4 • 2014

1 HALO
A new Xbox console inevitably means a new instalment of Halo. The teaser was brief, it was set in a desert, but we saw all-new Master Chief, a big, old, interesting enemy and a stirring, orchestral score. No gameplay whatsoever. But we're still very excited. Obviously.
WHERE AND WHEN? XBOX ONE • 2014

3 THE DIVISION
Squad-based shooter set in a world laid waste by a viral pandemic. You and your chums are tasked with trying to maintain order – with expansive use of guns – in a New York that's been left in total disarray after a flu-like virus spread via bank notes, killing millions.
WHERE AND WHEN? PS4, XBOX ONE • EARLY 2014

PS4 vs Xbox One!

Two console, one winner. Fight!

PS4

XBOX ONE

8-core Jaguar AMD CPU, 500GB, Blu-ray, PlayStation 4 Eye motion-tracking cam, DualShock 4 controller.

8-core AMD CPU, 500GB, Blu-ray, Kinect 2.0 motion-tracking camera, Xbox One controller.

THE CONTROLLER

A redesigned DualShock fits the hand better, plus there's a Vita-style touch screen on the front.

Already the best controller, it's had 40 design changes to make it even better to hold, plus rumbling triggers.

GAMES EXCLUSIVES

Killzone Shadowfall, InFamous: Second Son, The Order 1886, Mad Max.

Forza Motorsport 5, Halo, Dead Rising 3, Titanfall, Killer Instinct.

NEED TO KNOW

Sony will now be charging for online multiplayer through their Playstation network system. But you'll get free games like launch title racer DriveClub.

Security system ties games to you, you may have to pay extra to play pre-owned games, needs to connect to the net every day or it won't play games. At all.

£425

VERDICT

With two very similar systems, it's too close to call. Xbox's games exclusives pip the PS4, but at £72 cheaper and with no "security" silliness, the pendulum's swinging firmly towards Sony's console.

4 DEAD RISING 3

This zombie thriller sees the Xbox flexing its muscles, rendering thousands of zombies on screen to take out, with extreme prejudice. You can now mow undead down with cars, alongside the trademark use of improvised weapons, like the sledgehammer-chainsaw.

WHERE AND WHEN? XBOX ONE • EARLY 2014

5 TITANFALL

Shooter from the guys behind Modern Warfare. You play in squads and pile in against enemies while your own huge mech is prepared. Then climb aboard to deal destruction.

WHERE AND WHEN?
XBOX ONE • 2014

Turn the page for more 2014 games!

6 THE CREW

An always-on, Fast & Furious-style open-world racing game with incredible scope. You can race your way across a virtual entire America and the game doesn't care if you're playing either on your own or in a team. It all works seamlessly. And looks utterly glorious.

WHERE AND WHEN? PS4, XBOX ONE • 2014

7 MAD MAX

Tie-in game with the forthcoming movie reboot has road warrior Max Rockatansky taking on a gang of marauders in a post-apocalyptic Australia who've stolen his beloved Interceptor car. Hopefully, it'll be as blood-drenched and action-packed as the original Mel Gibson movies.

WHERE AND WHEN? PS4 • EARLY 2014

8 SUNSET OVERDRIVE

Frantic monster killer sees some catastrophic event leading to your city becoming overrun with mutants. So you get together with your buds, get tooled up and – using a combination of free-running, extreme violence and OTT weapons – take the fight to the toothy buggers.

WHERE AND WHEN? XBOX ONE • 2014

Plus! This year's games aren't too shoddy!

GTA 5

Three ruffians, one huge world with everything from beaches to mountains, crime capers like no other game. Essential purchase.

September • PS3, Xbox 360

FIFA 14

More realism, better animation and smarter players mean this should be a FIFA to cherish. But does realism = a game that's too hard?

October • all formats

CALL OF DUTY: GHOSTS

Gaming's biggest franchise gets a tweak, with big story credentials, a team you'll want to survive and a dog. An actual dog!

November • all formats

FORZA MOTORSPORT 5

The first big next-gen racing game looks every bit as good as its microchip-sucking credentials would imply. Looks a peach.

Xbox One launch

9 PLANTS VS ZOMBIES: GARDEN WARFARE

Third-person shooter version of the wonderful tower defence game. Now you and three chums team up to defend your garden from a zombie invasion with different classes of plants – from up-close chompers to cactuses armed with sniper rifles. Looks amazing.

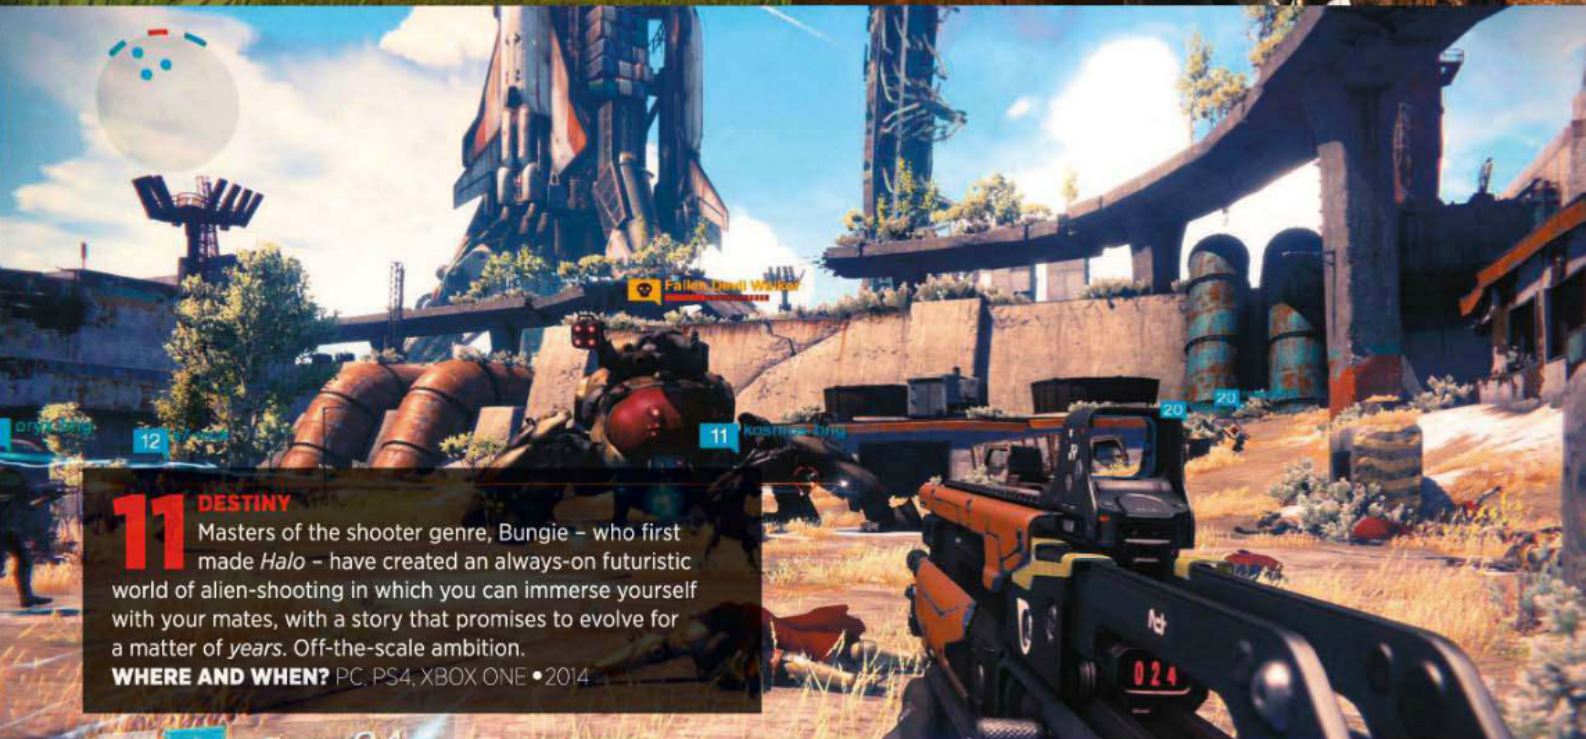

WHERE AND WHEN? PS4, XBOX ONE • EARLY 2014

10 THIEF

Classic stealth-'em-up that hasn't been seen for over a decade hoovers up next-gen sauce in a gorgeous looking stealth game. Master thief Garrett moves through levels like a shadow, killing, picking pockets and hiding like the all-time hide-and-seek champ.

WHERE AND WHEN? PC, PS4, XBOX ONE • 2014

11 DESTINY

Masters of the shooter genre, Bungie – who first made Halo – have created an always-on futuristic world of alien-shooting in which you can immerse yourself with your mates, with a story that promises to evolve for a matter of years. Off-the-scale ambition.

WHERE AND WHEN? PC, PS4, XBOX ONE • 2014

WATCH DOGS

Conspiracy theory thriller as a vigilante uses tech (and fists) to deal justice to Chicago's wrongdoers. November • PS3, PS4, Xbox 360, Xbox One

KILLZONE SHADOWFALL

The PS4's big shooter hope. It's both a showcase for the console's graphical grunt and the future of pew-pews. Worth a pop, then. PS4 launch

BATTLEFIELD 4

The serious shooter is back with a new look, strong squad story and 64 player online matches. November • PS3, PS4, Xbox 360, Xbox One

ASSASSIN'S CREED 4: BLACK FLAG

Piracy, assassinations, whoring and grog. Maybe the most fun game of the year! November • PS3, PS4, Xbox 360, Xbox One

Giving the finger!

Japanese mafia buy prosthetic pinkies!

➔ IN JAPAN, members of the Yakuza can be picked out by their missing fingers, which they lop off to atone for misdemeanours. But for former members, a missing pinkie's a serious obstacle to forging a normal career.

Step in prosthetic limb maker Shintaro Hayashi, who manufactures silicone fingers so gangsters can blend in. At £3,000 each, they're not cheap, but as one ex-Yakuza said: "If you don't have fingers there's no way to get a sales job." Especially selling gloves.

2,000ft Arctic cliff!

SOME FOLKS aren't content with a weekend camping! Well, certainly not these Base jumpers, who trekked to the remote Baffin Island in northern Canada to jump off a 2,000ft cliff. The trio took several flights and endured an eight-hour sled ride to get to the cliff, nicknamed "The Beak". Their jump lasted just 11 seconds, their chutes opened and they hit the icy water below. We hope it was worth it!

The brand new Zonda!

Just won the lottery? Do you like driving at insane speeds? This 789bhp animal is for you!

- You thought the Pagani Zonda had long since been buried in the history books, right? Wrong. The Huayra's hairy-chested uncle is back for an encore – and it's more powerful than ever.
- It takes a certain person to spend two million quid on a gorgeous car that can't be legally driven on the road, but the 240mph Zonda Revolution does that to people.

- This is one of five Revolution editions being released, and it happens to be the only one left unsold. But at around £2.2m, it's not cheap.
- What do you get for your cash? Well, no tax or MOT, sadly. But you do receive a fiddled-with version of the

WORDS: JONNY SMITH

"Strange. I have an urge to eat Smarties while watching The Matrix"

"Oops! Messed up the turn again" track-only Zonda R – a car that set the record-breaking Nürburgring lap time of 6 minutes 47 seconds.

- Justifying its Revolution name ("revolution" in Spanish), this Zonda's 6.0-litre V12 engine delivers an obscene 789bhp and goes from 0-62mph in 2.7 seconds.

- Gear shifts take just 20 milliseconds and there's also a 12-stage traction control system that allows the driver to decide how much sliding they want to attempt.

- The car has undergone vast modding to accommodate carbon air deflectors on the bonnet, twin spoilers and a huge fin on the rear deck.

- That massive rear wing houses a DRS drag reduction system, activated manually from 62mph using a button on the steering wheel.

- F1-style carbon ceramic brakes have been updated, now weighing 15 per cent less than the Zonda R. In fact, the whole car weighs just 1,070kg – 34kg less than the R and 134kg less than the Renault Sport Clio RS hot hatch.

- It serves up a power-to-weight ratio that trumps the world's fastest production car, the 268mph Bugatti Veyron Super Sport. You're looking at 749bhp in a car with possibly the sexiest cockpit in automotive history.

'I'm lying here with this massive open wound!'

Man gets hit by lump of steel and ends up with compartment syndrome!

➔ ONE MORNING, steel erector Gary Bowgen was at work when he heard his mate shout, "Gary, look out!" "I tried to move, but slipped and a lump of steel landed on my leg," says Gary. "It resulted in bruising and swelling, but after two days in hospital I was discharged and told to rest."

After a few days, Gary noticed the pain and swelling were getting worse. He went back to hospital and was told he had compartment syndrome, a condition meaning not enough blood reaches the affected areas.

"Doctors told me I could have lost my leg," Gary tells Nuts.

After a successful op, Gary tells us, "I'm still lying here with this massive open wound, waiting for plastic surgery. I probably won't be returning to my job this side of Christmas."

We hope you've stocked up on DVD box sets, Gary!

CHARLOTTE SPRINGER

“I guess I’m a little bit of a boob perv!”

Hello Charlotte!
You're starting to become a bit of a Nuts regular!
Hello! I know –
it's great, isn't it?

It doesn't feel like two minutes since my last shoot. I spent the day working with loads of hot girls, so what's not to love?

Good point. Did any babe in particular take your fancy?

I can't say – Nuts girls are never lacking in the boob department. I'm a big fan of Beth Humphreys. She's such a babe. I definitely made a few new friends on that shoot!

What about today's frolics?

I've been mostly stripping off and licking lollipops – it was quite a summery type shoot.
I feel like summer's arrived.

You're from Essex – is your life
just like TOWIE?

Well, I don't say "Shut up!"
as much, but I do enjoy the glamorous life of Essex, yes.

Does that mean we'd find you hanging out at the Sugar Hut?
I'd say I'm more of a Faces girl.

Do you only go for Essex blokes?

I do tend to end up with Essex guys but I don't specifically go for them. But I do like their style of dress.

What's your favourite thing about Nuts magazine?

Well, all the girls. Obviously!
They're really hot and they've all got amazing boobs. I guess
I'm a little bit of a boob perv.

If you could shoot with any Nuts girl who would be your fantasy?

Out of everyone, maybe Beth and Lacey Banghard. Really hot brunettes with amazing boobs.

Finally, how could we impress you with just five pounds?

Well, I quite enjoy a Corona... so maybe that and a burger?

At 2013 prices, it might have to be a bag of crisps instead!

Yeah, maybe. As long as they're Walkers.

The Hollywood legend gives us the lowdown on his flesh-eating flick World War Z!

ello Brad! World War Z has been ages in the making, and loads has already been said about it. How would you sell it in your own words?

It's really massive. Global. It's the most intense film you're going to see all summer. I'm happy that everyone else can go and see it and enjoy because it's great fun. It's so intense and I love it for that. People are going to have so much fun sitting through it.

We're chuffed that you filmed loads of it in the UK. How did you enjoy your time here?

I love London – we all do, actually. And you'll see we relied so heavily on the crowds to sell this, to sell this massive global pandemic and the panic that ensues. And they were great. Take a bow!

Recently, we also had The Fast & Furious 6 set here – is Britain the new Hollywood?

Yeah, it's good fun here – we're still working on the tax issue. Ha-ha! But no, it's great filming here because the crews are amazing, the infrastructure's really strong and the support to make films here is just great.

You filmed in other countries, too. Which nationality made the best zombies?

Ha-ha! Budapest was great for it. The people were just awesome. In fact, the

Trying to hail a cab was proving tricky zombies were so good in Budapest that we had to bring them back for our reshoots and use them again. And yes, they did re-enact Michael Jackson's Thriller video and we have that on tape. It's pretty special.

That bit of cheese won't be in the movie, will it?

No, no. But I'm going to show people one day. You know, it was more that we were working long nights there. We were up all night, so you need a little light-heartedness. We had a Halloween party out there and everything.

The soundtrack is epic. Were Muse always your first choice?

From our point of view, when we started making this film a couple of years ago, we were looking for... we discussed trying to find a Tubular Bells sound – which was the iconic theme song to The Exorcist. We wanted to find something that had same kind of feeling. Lo and behold, our friends Muse were reading the book World War Z [by Max Brooks] the same time that they were writing their album The 2nd Law and, lo and behold again, there's a song on there called 2nd Law that is so reminiscent of Tubular Bells, and we found it and wanted it in the film. Muse were big fans of the book and it just worked out beautifully. It's a really nice coming together.

How do you see the world ending? Zombies, or something a little duller?

I'm a little more of an optimist. I think no matter how far we might lose our direction or get caught off guard, that humanity prevails. We come together and I think, actually, that it's more true that the best of humanity comes out.

Hmm... very Independence Day! This flick only takes a bit of the book on board – will there be sequels?

It's set up for many sequels because the book is so dense with information and historical references, and it's an international story. There are so many things we could do with this – if it works. But we need this one to work – which we think it does.

Was it tricky to interpret such a popular book?

Ah, well, that's why I'm so fond of this film, because there are many interpretations that start arising. And I love that it starts that kind of dialogue, but more than anything, it's just the most intense thing you're going to see all summer.

The flesh-eating genre isn't exactly new. What makes your take on it the most kick-ass zombie flick ever?

We wanted to do something original. We wanted to turn it on its head, so we look at it as Max does in the book. He looks at it like a pandemic, like when we first had the SARS outbreak. What if that thing had gotten out of the box and something wasn't contained? So then we started borrowing from science and the laws of nature and this is what we ended up with. And it's absolutely original and it's so intense, it's just the most intense film you'll see all summer. We're really proud of it, we're happy and we can't wait for people to see it because we had so much fun.

Cool! Thanks, Brad. Finally, is it easy doing action scenes for zombie films because the undead are so slow?

Ha-ha! No way. Running with 1,000 extras and making sure no one gets hurt? Really! Ha-ha! It's not an easy task.

● World War Z is in cinemas from Friday 21 June

Nuts meets the man who took on a crazed grizzly bear and lived to tell the tale!

A AMERICAN BIOLOGIST Toby Burke was enjoying an afternoon of bird watching in Alaska's Kenai peninsula when a 180kg grizzly bear – one of the two subspecies of brown bear native to Alaska – crashed the party. He tells Nuts how he escaped the jaws of the magnificent mammal...

Hi Toby. First, how common are bears in Alaska?

Oh, very common. There are 3,000 black bears and maybe 700 brown bears, most of whom inhabit the forested range on the lowlands.

And how often are they known to attack humans?

Very rarely. They normally hunt moose, salmon, halibut or small sharks. They'll also eat what we call "winter kill" – animals that have died in the cold that defrost as the ice melts. It's nature's freezer.

What can you tell us about your encounter in April?

Myself and my family had been watching birds on a beach when we spotted an adult female bear. She was about 180kg. Initially, we weren't alarmed because it was 300 metres away. Typically, bears shy away from humans. We kept an eye on it, but it disappeared. Then it reappeared about 20 metres away from behind a dune.

Were you utterly terrified?

I wasn't too panicked. I'm a biologist in the area and figured as long as we waved and clapped our hands, the bear would run. But instead, it crouched and charged straight towards us. Bears are known to bluff charge – a sort of dummy charge to scare you off. But this bear charged in and didn't stop. I just shouted at my kids, "Don't run, get behind me!"

Why didn't you run?

The car was about 150 metres away, so too far across open

Toby Burke was bird watching when the bear attacked

After the attack, state troopers killed the bear country. Running also triggers the bear's predatory impulse to chase. The bear would have overtaken us very quickly. Also, if you stay as a group you also look like one intimidating animal to a bear.

Did it roar at you like the bears in cartoons always do?

Ha-ha! No. It just made this sort of silent rush upon us. Later, I realised the significance of it making no noise shows it wanted to hunt – if it roared, it would be trying to scare you off. It's clear we were prey.

So at this point you knew a bear was hunting you down?

Yes. It had probably just come out of hibernation but there wasn't a lot to feed on. It was probably hungry and underweight. After it was examined, it was found to be blind in one eye and nearly blind in the other. A healthy bear would avoid people. A sick, desperate bear might take a chance.

Would playing dead work?

No. That only works when the bear's trying to intimidate you because it sees you're no longer a threat. However, this bear wasn't scared – it was acting in a predatory way.

How did you defend yourself?

I jabbed at it with my tripod and managed to lodge the scope on the end in its mouth, but it just chewed that off. That left a sharp shaft, which I used as a spear to aim for its face and mouth. I got it about six or seven times before it bit down on my left arm. Even then, my mind couldn't process the fear. I just thought, "Man, this is what it goes like when it goes bad!"

What's it like having your arm in a bear's mouth?

Because of the adrenaline, I almost didn't feel anything. It was like being in a vice – I could feel it closing and thought it would crush my bones. Also, because of the cold I had four layers, including a heavy jacket, on. With my free arm I was punching it in the face. Like humans, all their vulnerability is near their eyes and face.

What's it like to punch a bear?

Just utterly surreal. I was positioned in a wrestling pose, with my weight spread. The bear's paw hit my side, but it didn't rake me with it or else it would have shredded all my clothes. The attack lasted around a minute – if it had lasted any longer I wouldn't be here. I think the bear ultimately decided I wasn't worth the hassle of eating me. It just turned and ran off.

Then what happened?

We got to the car and called the state troopers. Eventually, two appeared and hunted it in a truck. After they gave chase, we heard some shots and the bear was put to sleep.

How badly hurt were you?

I had some cuts and bruising, but nothing else. I do think, "Why wasn't I hurt more?" My arm's still incredibly sore and I haven't slept well since.

Did you see the bear again after it was taken out?

Yes. The troopers pulled up with its body on a pick-up truck. I went to the back of the truck to where the bear's head was and pulled open its mouth. I wanted to see, from a biologist's perspective, a bit about it. I could see it was old, with battered, worn-down teeth. I don't take much pride in her death. I did enough to scare it off – it was good fortune, not skill. If it wanted to, it would have killed me. I've kept the tripod as a souvenir though!

Brown bear facts!

- Brown bears weigh up to 700kg. Their weight dips and rises before and after hibernation. The biggest brown bears can be 3m tall stood on two feet.
- Alongside the polar bear, the Kodiak bear – a subspecies of brown bear – is the world's largest bear.
- Brown bears are typically incapable of crunching bones.
- Bears rarely stand on two feet, unless they're sniffing the air or seeking to intimidate.
- A hybrid of a polar bear and brown bear was discovered in Canada in 2006.

Nuts Games Deal or No Deal masterclass!

A host of hot tips to help you win big!

YOU MAY think Deal or No Deal is a game for people who believe in "systems". But take it from us – the multi-line slot game certainly isn't!

You can win big from the comfort of your own home for as little as 5p, and if you play on all lines, you could win a progressive jackpot. One recent Nuts Games winner bagged himself a massive £127,089! Head to www.nutsgames.co.uk and start playing NOW!

How to play

- The aim is to get winning symbol combinations from each spin of the reels, with the ultimate target being the progressive jackpot.
- You can select up to 20p on each of the 20 pay lines. That gives you up to 20 chances to win on each play!
- The progressive jackpot can only be won on the Deal or No Deal bonus game, but there are also two other fun bonus games called Banker's Offer and Mystery Box Bonus, where you can also win extra cash!

Number lines

Click the number beside the reels, or the "Bet One" or "Bet Max" button. Choose Bet Max for the chance to play the bonus game and win big!

Bonus game

If you bet on all 20 pay lines and get three Deal or No Deal bonus symbols on any pay line, the bonus game begins – this plays like the TV show, with the progressive jackpot at stake.

Paul won

10 RUDE QUESTIONS!

And a real girl to answer them!

Coco

21 Bury

1 Where's the strangest place you've had sex?

"I have to admit, I was very naughty at the gym recently. All I can say is it was one very fast, hard and intense workout. You can't beat a hot and steamy session with a guy in the gym sauna."

2 What's your trademark move in the bedroom?

"I always love giving a sexy striptease to a man in the bedroom before things really get going. I like to make sure I have his full attention. I like him to have all eyes on me as I give him a naughty little dance!"

3 What really turns you on?

"I love a man with power. I'm turned on by someone who has lots of creativity and imagination in the bedroom. I really like a guy who's extremely confident in his own skin. I love it when they're really naughty in the bedroom and know how to spice things up a bit and be adventurous!"

4 What's your favourite position?

"My absolute favourite thing to do in the bedroom is throw him down, jump on top and take full control. Being a horse rider, I have the skills and experience to give a man the ride of his life."

5 Is it better to give or receive?

"Receive, give, then receive, then receive some more and then give, both at the same time. I like to work as a team!"

6 What one thing would you like to try but haven't yet?

"Having sex with a man in uniform while he's on duty. The risk of getting caught turns me on! I'm deffo one for, 'I've been a very naughty girl, officer.'"

7 Have you ever got it on with another girl?

"No, but it's not for a lack of opportunities. Girls seem to be instantly attracted to my figure and I'm always complimented on my shape, and what starts off as innocent chat often leads to some quite heavy flirting!"

8 What's the rudest thing you've ever done?

"I'd just started a new job and the best thing was putting on the heels, tight dresses, open blouses and hot geeky glasses to get that sexy secretary look. There was one guy I really fancied. One morning, he picked me up from my place en route to a very boring day of training. I knew he had the hots for me so I made a special effort. After some pretty heavy flirting, I couldn't keep my hands off him any longer. He really did have trouble keeping his eyes on the road!"

PHOTOS: NIGEL CRANE

9 What's your fave role-playing costume?
"A policewoman. I like to be the boss and in control because then men will obey me!"

10 Do girls engage in "alone time" as much as boys?
"I have a different toy for every day of the week. Well, a girl gets frustrated too!"

CONFESSION OF THE WEEK!

'I dropped to my knees'

I'M AN air stewardess on long-haul flights to the Far East. On a recent night flight, most of the passengers were asleep. As I made my way through the cabin, I spied a man who seemed to be having a nice dream, but he was pleasuring himself under his blanket! As I watched, I got turned on. He suddenly opened his eyes, in ecstasy, and found me staring back at him. Before I knew it, I was nodding towards the back toilets and he was following me. We snuck in and I dropped to my knees to finish him off. It was my most exciting flight yet!

Ash Dartford

'Pool fantasy came true'

My new man and I have just got back from a saucy week in Marbella. As soon as we got to the hotel, we dumped our bags and went for a few drinks in the bar. I was soon feeling a little tipsy and whispered to my fella that a big fantasy of mine was to have sex in a pool, and told him exactly what I wanted. He grabbed me and we ran to the pool, which was about to close. Most people were already going for dinner but a few were still there and a couple walked past us as he pulled my bikini bottoms to one side and slipped inside me. Within a minute, I could feel my orgasm building under the water. It was the fastest climax I've ever had, and the best possible start to our holiday!

Mary Shropshire

'Our naked moonlit dip'

Me and my best friend were on a girly trip to Spain and, one night, after a party on the beach we decided to have a late dip in the pool. We undressed quickly, tiptoed past reception desk and out to the terrace. We were soon splashing around naked, the moon shining over our wet breasts and peachy bum cheeks. I swam to the side to catch my breath and my friend followed, wrapping her legs around me for support. Suddenly, she was kissing my neck and up against me. I gave a little moan of encouragement so she started to tweak my nipples with her free hand. Unfortunately, we got busted by security, so we took our little party back to our room. We were the talk of the hotel for the rest of the week!

Becky Wolverhampton

'He hoisted up my skirt'

ONE BORING afternoon at work, I was texting one of my exes with some naughty comments. He soon invited me over to his place, so I made my excuses and left the office early. I was feeling very horny and naughty, knowing that I was about to have a hot sex session. When I arrived, he led me straight into the bathroom. Perched on the side of the bath, he hoisted up my skirt and pulled my knickers down before going down on me. It was very spontaneous and I loved him taking control. Begging him for more, I pulled him on to the tiled floor and we were soon having furious sex. His mum came back just as I screamed out mid-orgasm! We're at it every weekend now – usually at mine, just to make sure we don't get disturbed again!

RUGBY SPECIAL!

Phil Vickery's Lions to watch!

The England and Lions legend talks Nuts through his key men for the Australia Tests!

AFTER THREE weeks of warm-up matches, the British & Irish Lions' Test series against Australia gets going. We asked veteran of two Lions tours Phil Vickery to pick out his key men...

● Australia vs Lions, Sky Sp1/HD, 22 June, 11.05am.

MAN OF TALENTS!

Rugby legend and Celebrity Masterchef champ Phil also has his own clothing label. You can follow him on Twitter @phil_vickery

"Uh-oh! This is not the time for the vindaloo comeback!"

STUART HOGG SCOTLAND

"The Scots have struggled, although their Six Nations campaign earlier in the year was better. I'd have Hogg at full-back, possibly the only Scotsman to make the starting line-up though because I'm not sure that lock Richie Gray is really all that, to be honest with you. But Hogg at full-back is very pacy, and from a Scottish perspective, it would obviously be great to see him in there."

"Note to self: the dressing room door swings"

TOM YOUNGS ENGLAND

"In terms of the England contingent, you'd have to go for Leicester Tigers man Tom as hooker. In the upcoming Tests against Australia he's going to be playing on fast pitches, really good tracks. He's very nimble - he used to play in the centre before he was advised to switch positions, so you can be sure that he's got good footwork. I think he's going to really excel in that environment."

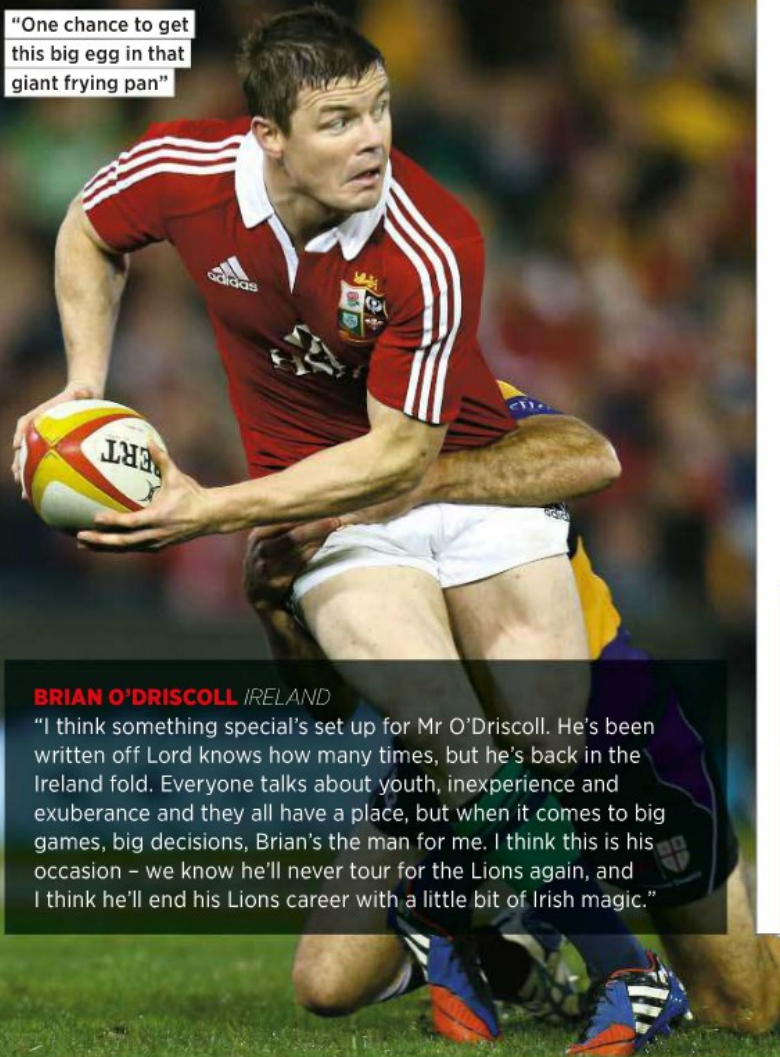

"It's OK, lads - I've got this bloke with the daft blue rinse!"

JUSTIN TIPURIC WALES

"My God, you could pick any number of the Welsh lads. But openside flanker Tipuric was my man of the tournament playing for Wales in the Six Nations. I think he'll really step up Down Under. I bet he's on cloud nine out there right now, and if he performs at the level he performed in the Six Nations, especially as he did in the final game against England, how can you keep him out of the starting 15? He'd be the first name on my list."

"One chance to get this big egg in that giant frying pan"

BRIAN O'DRISCOLL IRELAND

"I think something special's set up for Mr O'Driscoll. He's been written off Lord knows how many times, but he's back in the Ireland fold. Everyone talks about youth, inexperience and exuberance and they all have a place, but when it comes to big games, big decisions, Brian's the man for me. I think this is his occasion - we know he'll never tour for the Lions again, and I think he'll end his Lions career with a little bit of Irish magic."

Vickery's best of the rest!

Phil on the other Lions who could star in Oz...

"Lions tours are unique - they're like half a season compressed into four or five weeks. So much happens, so many games. If you get on a good run, your position in the squad can change almost overnight. This time, I think Adam Jones in the front row is a dead cert to start. I'd have Alun Wyn Jones in the second row, although they may look to Paul O'Connell for his experience. I'd go for an almost exclusively Welsh back row, which means Dan Lydiate, Sam Warburton, Toby Faletau. Or maybe Irishman Jamie Heaslip as the number 8. On the wings, I'd have to go all-Welsh again and play George North and Alex Cuthbert. Lions selection is about combinations - old and new, young and experienced. Because it's fking tough playing the Australians! People think Australia are weak right now but they'll have analysed everything. The Aussies are brilliant at figuring sides out. Brawn, passion, power - the Lions will need all of that, but they'll need brains, too."

ALUN WYN JONES

DAN LYDIATE

SAM WARBURTON

GEORGE NORTH

ALEX CUTHBERT

Vickery's verdict!

"I think the Lions have as good a chance of a series win as they've ever had, but Australia are a tenacious bunch!"

The Murray Wimbledon predictor!

What if Andy wins... or loses?

➔ WIMBLEDON STARTS on Monday, which means we can all get excited about the possibility that Andy Murray might win it – or he might fail gloriously yet again. Nuts uses its crystal tennis ball to predict what will happen if he wins – and the horrors that will unfold if he doesn't!

● Wimbledon will be live on the BBC between 24 June and 7 July.

"One sharp uppercut and I'll get the default glum look back!"

10

THINGS THAT WILL HAPPEN IF MURRAY WINS

1 The English press refer to him as "British tennis hero Andy Murray" for the next year.

2 London Mayor Boris Johnson is photographed enjoying a game of tennis. At some point he'll pretend it's a guitar. The bell-end.

3 Murray wins the BBC Sports Personality Of The Year award with 97 per cent of the public vote.

4 There's an immediate clamour to give Murray a knighthood, and possibly even have him installed as an extra Prince.

5 The government immediately introduce tennis to the national curriculum, replacing less useful subjects. Like French.

6 The Daily Star newspaper celebrates Murray's victory with the headline "Jordan: 'I'd Bed Andy!'"

7 Fifteen million TV viewers finally receive an answer to the question, "What does Murray look like when he smiles?"

8 Barbers around the country report a sudden upsurge of requests for "the Murray". Or "a half-finished perm", to give it its technical name.

9 The whole nation becomes obsessed with tennis. Four weeks later, the new Premier League season begins. As a result, the whole nation forgets who Andy Murray is.

10 Tennis whites become highly fashionable items of dress, leading to a late-summer rise of girls in little skirts, tight T-shirts and ankle socks. This, more than any other factor, is the main reason we want Murray to win Wimbledon.

"Damn it! I forgot to Sky+ Taggart!"

10

THINGS THAT WILL HAPPEN IF MURRAY LOSES

1 The English press refer to him as "Scottish tennis failure Andy Murray" for the next year.

2 The day of the men's singles final is declared a day of national mourning, extended to a week if whoever beats him happens to be Australian or French.

3 Andy finishes third in the BBC Sports Personality Of The Year behind Alastair Cook, after England's 5-0 whitewash against Australia in the Ashes, and Phil "The Power" Taylor.

4 The whole nation becomes fixated with Laura Robson instead, because she's really lovely and posh and cute.

5 The government gives fresh thought to making Scotland independent.

6 Andy's younger brother Jamie smirks silently to self and does tiny fist-pump inside his pocket.

7 Rafael Nadal, Novak Djokovic or Roger Federer win Wimbledon instead. Obviously.

8 Earth immediately stops turning on its axis. Fire and brimstone rain from the skies, the seas boil and are turned red with the blood of innocents. Perpetual night falls upon the planet and mankind is laid waste with plagues, famines and madness. And then Jamie wins the mixed doubles and everything's fine again.

9 A potentially lucrative endorsement deal for Murray with Irn-Bru is scuppered.

10 The whole nation stops caring about tennis with immediate effect for almost exactly another 50 weeks.

KAMMY!

He's the voice of the fans – and he's only in Nuts!

"I just can't stop whistling that new Daft Punk song"

Jose didn't put a foot wrong!

New Chelsea boss speaks sense, and in better English than me!

JOSE MOURINHO

breezed his first press conference of his second reign as Chelsea boss. He just swaggered in, oozing confidence – and it never fails to amaze me that his English is better than mine. The detail he puts into all his answers is just scary, and let's not forget that he speaks about another ten languages too!

It wasn't the brash Mourinho who first took over at Chelsea in 2004 – for many of us, that first press conference was an introduction to Jose. This time, he didn't have to be a loud-mouthed newcomer giving the press a load of blarney and big talk.

I suspect he knows he's returning at the perfect time – Sir Alex has gone, Arsenal still need to bring in some new players, Man City manager-in-waiting Manuel Pellegrini will need time to get used to the league, and Spurs need new players.

Jose knows that he's inheriting a squad that needs very few changes – perhaps just a new centre-half and a striker. I expect him to get the backing of Abramovich as well – we'll be seeing him around a lot more, and probably smiling!

"And here's one you can wear at Beady Eye gigs!"

I don't know City's new £30m man!

MANCHESTER CITY have splashed out the best part of 30 million quid on Fernandinho, a 28-year-old Brazilian with just five international caps. I don't know too much about the lad, but you shouldn't forget that Manuel Pellegrini is well known for being smart in the transfer market. You'd be wise to back his judgment.

Man City and Pellegrini are going to need to be experimental next season, and this is where I think Mourinho and Chelsea have an advantage over them – some signings will settle, others may take six months, and City fans can't always wait six months. But we could get to Christmas, look at the table and think, "Well, it looks like the boss knew exactly what he was doing!"

Fernandinho may not be very well known, but neither was Michu!

Just what were the England Under-21s playing at in Israel?

I DON'T entirely understand how England's Under-21 Euro finals went so very badly. When the senior team played the first 45 minutes against Brazil in the Maracana, they played typical English tactics and got battered. In the second half, they got the ball down, played, passed and almost battered them!

So I don't understand why the Under-21 team, who wiped the floor with everyone in qualifying by passing the ball, decided to play the English way again in the tournament in Israel.

Displays like this set English football back, then the critics start demanding things like foreign coaches, and how are you supposed to argue with them?

I'm sure boss Stuart Pearce didn't want his team playing long ball, but he has to be held responsible. Everyone was quick to point out the players who were missing, but that team that played Israel should have been good enough to beat them. Norway had four key players missing and you didn't hear them complaining.

"Wow, a stag beetle!
Or Lucanus Cervus,
to give it its Latin name"

ASK KAMMY!

"Do England need to worry about the fact that they don't really have any international-standard strikers right now?"

PHIL via Twitter

I'm not sure you can say that. Wayne Rooney's respected by fans throughout the world. England have the players, they just need to change the way they play.

"If all the Premier League managers had a massive punch-up, who would emerge the winner?"

DOM via Twitter

Well, Moyes's got that aggression and steel, and Martin Jol and Mark Hughes would be in the mix. But I reckon Ian Holloway. He's like One Punch Mickey in Snatch – you'll never put him down for good!

"Could you combat diving by forcing players to play in swimming trunks for the rest of the game?"

DAN via Twitter

As it happens, I've just been invited to go on Splash, the diving show, but filming's on a Saturday so I can't do it! I wanted to do some tribute dives for the worst offenders!

"With the new TV deal, should football clubs lower the price of tickets for away fans?"

RED TONY via Twitter

Yes, and for the home fans. Let's make it affordable to the average person again. It works in Germany – let's make it work for us.

We're ready to start again!

BELIEVE IT or not, in about two weeks, the 2013/14 season gets under way, as the champions of Armenia, Faroe Islands, San Marino and Andorra face each other in the first qualifying round of the Champions League. That may seem like small fry to us, but one of the winners could end up against Celtic in the next round!

It's amazing, isn't it? We've only just finished the last internationals and we're off again! It makes me think of Newcastle boss Alan Pardew and all the stick he had to take last season for not making the Europa League a priority, but people forget how early Newcastle's European campaign started.

Personally, I think a summer break should be just that – a break – but I guess UEFA rules are UEFA rules.

Me? I'm off on holiday next week – next summer, I'm pretty sure that I'll be working throughout it. In Brazil, mind.

WHO ARE YA!?

Premier League ahoy? Footy expert Gabriele Marcotti on this week's transfer talk!

NAME: THIAGO ALCANTARA • CURRENT CLUB: BARCELONA
WANTED BY: MANCHESTER UNITED

"He was meant to be the heir apparent to Xavi, but that was before Cesc Fabregas returned home to the Camp Nou. He's known for slick, creative passing rather than bombing up and down the wing. The reason he could be on the market is that he needs a new contract and, with Barcelona's cluttered midfield, it's tough to get playing time, so he had something of a lacklustre campaign last year as a result. Still, you can count on one hand the number of clubs where he wouldn't be an automatic starter."

NAME: FERNANDINHO • SIGNED FROM: SHAKHTAR DONESTK
NEW CLUB: MANCHESTER CITY

"The £30m man was one of the first top Brazilians to bypass the traditional old-world powers for the emerging moneybags in Eastern Europe, joining Shakhtar way back in 2005. The fact that he stuck around for eight seasons when he could clearly have played in the Premier League or La Liga tells you a lot about his character. At 28, he's now in the prime of his career. He's the brains of the Shakhtar midfield who gave the likes of Juventus and Chelsea such a hard time. Great vision, great range of passing and also a penchant for big goals."

NAME: JULIAN DRAXLER • CURRENT CLUB: SCHALKE 04
WANTED BY: CHELSEA

"In January 2011, Draxler became the second-youngest player ever to start a Bundesliga game. He won't turn 20 until September, and Schalke have locked him down to a long-term contract (expires 2018). Versatile, athletic and blessed with good size (he's 6ft 2), the club have used him in different roles. Long-term, he sees himself as an attacking midfielder and he has the strength and flair to beat players. The incessant hype that has followed him might get to be too much, but thus far he has shown the maturity to handle it all."

NAME: LUIS ALBERTO • CURRENT CLUB: SEVILLA
WANTED BY: LIVERPOOL

"A tall, elegant striker who is more of an attacking midfielder type than a target man, though he has filled both roles. He came through the ranks at Sevilla but was loaned out to Barcelona B last year which, no doubt, helped round out his skill set. Some call him 'The Prince' for the ease and elegance with which he moves around the pitch – he's compared to Paris St Germain's Javier Pastore. The knock on him is that he often looks better than he performs but, at 20 years of age, he simply isn't a fully formed player yet."
