EXCLUSIVE!

Rosie & Nicole's Ibiza hols!

Two lovely ladies...
Two loungers...
Too hot for T-shirts!

THE GLORIOUS thing about

apartments in Ibiza with private gardens is that if you're a lovely lady with the full complement of nice boobs and bikini-filling bum, you can muck about with your fragrant friend with little fear of getting caught, or being told to put a jumper on.

So here's Rosie and Nicole enjoying what can only be described as a frolic in a lush, Spanish garden. Proving what we all already expected: when ladies get together in private, they crab like their lives depend on it!

"Damn flies!"
"Yeah, there's one in my tea!"

"When you've watered the flowers, you can strim the herbaceous borders"

"You sure doing this will make the sun come out?"

Freefalling Fido!

Meet Jany, the gung ho German shepherd!

THE GROUP of Air Special Commands,

operating out of Madrid Air Base outside Bogota, Colombia, have a bit of a secret weapon. For when they parachute into a suspected drug lord or terrorist's hideout, one of the men straps Jany, an explosive-detecting German shepherd dog, to his chest before leaping out of their plane and freefalling 1,000-odd feet to their target.

Brilliantly, Jany seems the least stressed of the team and has participated in dozens of successful jumps. And imagine the tail she must get when she gets home!

"Jump? I've just scarfed down an entire bowl of Pedigree Chum!"

"Well, you just couldn't be satisfied with 'Catch the Frisbee', could you?"

Dogs in the military

- The most decorated mutt of the Second World War was Chips, a German shepherd who served in North Africa, Sicily, Italy, France and Germany. With his squad pinned down on a Sicilian beach, Chips assaulted the machine-gun post, causing its surrender.
- During the Vietnam War, around 4,000 dogs saw service. Almost all were euthanised.
- A Belgian Malinois named Cairo was part of 2011's Operation Neptune Spear to hunt down Osama bin Laden, with a brief to track escapees and warn of enemy troop arrival.
- This year's Call Of Duty game: Ghosts, features a playable military dog called Riley.

2014's biggest movies!

And some from 2015! It's news from Comic-Con!

MAKING GAMES expo E3 look as cool as a Mad Men convention, Comic-Con, held last week in San Diego, is the world's biggest geek-fest. And among the reeking fanboys, psychologically questionable cosplayers and genuine movie stars mooching about in masks, film companies slop down a steaming serving of movie news. Here's Nuts' pick...

AVENGERS 2

Joss Whedon announced the baddie for 2015's Avengers 2. It's Ultron, an artificial intelligence made from indestructible adamantium by Ant-Man, Hank Pym. It wants to eradicate all biological life, and self-improves after every defeat.

CAPTAIN AMERICA: THE WINTER SOLDIER

This time Cap's pairing up with Black Widow (Scarlett Johansson) to fight ex-best bud James "Bucky" Barnes who has become The Winter Soldier – an assassin working for the Russians since the Second World War. It's out April 2014.

DAWN OF THE PLANET OF THE APES

Set ten years after the reboot movie, that nice chimp Caesar is now an ass-kicking warlord, teaching his 2,000-strong simian army to fight – and talk – and the battle's going badly for us homo sapiens. Out July 2014.

BATMAN VS SUPERMAN

Man Of Steel director Zack Snyder announced a Batman vs Superman movie, starring current Supe Henry Cavill and based on a 1986 graphic novel by Frank Miller where Batman gets tech-tooled up and takes on the Kryptonian.

THE ZERO THEOREM

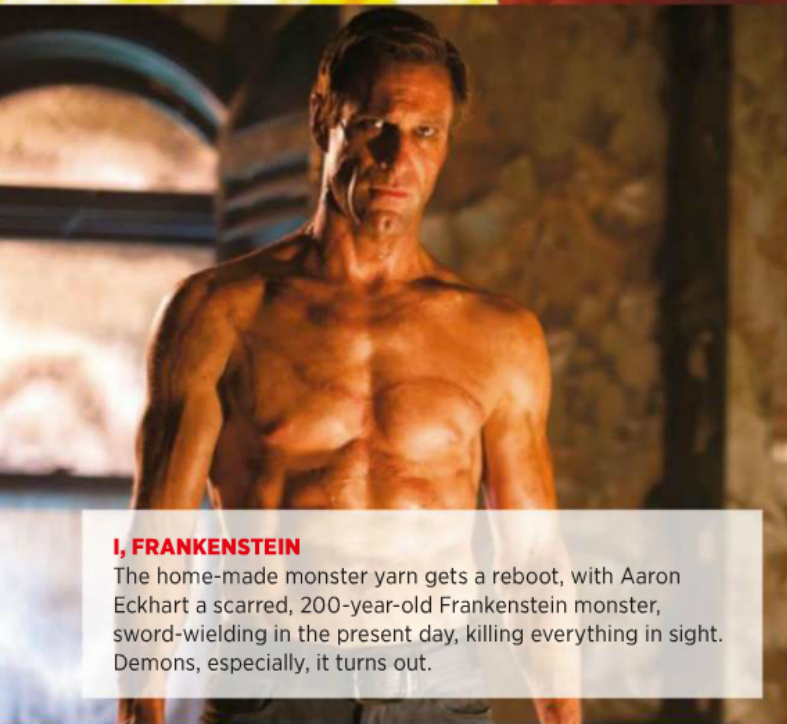

Terry Gilliam's next thriller follows a software engineer (Christoph Waltz) who works for the sinister Mancom corporation and is destined to meet The Zero Theorem, a computer which may have figured out the meaning of life.

EDGE OF TOMORROW

Out next May and formerly known as All You Need Is Kill, this has Tom Cruise in a fully armed exo-suit, fighting aliens alongside Emily Blunt. Only the twist is, he's stuck in the same day forever, like a mighty Groundhog Day.

I, FRANKENSTEIN

The home-made monster yarn gets a reboot, with Aaron Eckhart a scarred, 200-year-old Frankenstein monster, sword-wielding in the present day, killing everything in sight. Demons, especially, it turns out.

SEVENTH SON

Jeff Bridges' latest, out January 2014, sees our man as a bearded witch-hunter taking on Julianne Moore's hag army. A "sizzle reel" showed dragons, trolls and demons and Bridges being awesome. As usual.

WORLD OF WARCRAFT

Game phenomenon WoW is being made into a movie by Source Code director Duncan Jones. Test footage showed an armoured warrior going head-to-head with a massive orc. It starts filming in 2014 and it'll be geek ambrosia.

GODZILLA

Footage was shown from next summer's blockbuster, demonstrating how preposterously huge Godzilla is. A massive monster menaces an airport, towering over it. Then it's dwarfed by Godzilla's foot. A bit big, then?

JOE!

A quick word with Simon Bird and Joe Thomas!

The comedy duo on llamas, funny tweed, Chickens and brand new Inbetweeners!

Hi Simon and Joe! Your new sitcom, Chickens, is set during the First World War. Do you think war's funny?

Simon: I don't think we do. We didn't think, "The First World War was a great period, let's set a comedy then." It was more practical. Firstly, we're men – sort of. We wanted the other main parts to be female so it seemed like a funny idea to set it in that period.

Joe: It's about the men who stayed behind and didn't fight. Only three men are left in a village and all the women hate them. That's the gist. We're not obsessed with history. We were trying to find a situation where you'd get three men in this predicament. If you wanted to do something about the miners' strike, you'd have to have to do it in the '80s. It doesn't mean you're obsessed with the '80s.

Did these stay-at-home "chickens" really exist then?

Joe: At the beginning of the war, conscription was very strict. A few months into the war, a lot of people who were too young, too old or too infirm were kicked out. So it was actually quite hard to get into the First World War army. Flat feet was an excuse to get out of the war.*

Isn't a sitcom set in the war a bit like Blackadder Goes Forth?

Simon: We were more influenced by things like Arrested Development and Peep Show. We also got into [early 2000s Simon Pegg sketch show] Big Train. We couldn't set our characters in another historical setting. That would be too much like Blackadder. But we've got ideas where this could go in another series.

Joe: It's hard to be funny in historical costume. On the first day of filming, I can remember thinking, "Is this too much tweed? Tweed isn't funny."

Your characters take up teaching and embroidery. How did you hone your skills?

Joe: Simon went away for three years to a llama farm in the Himalayas. Now he'll only pull wool from a chief llama to get the highest quality.

Simon: Joe did teach after university.

Joe: I did some tutoring. I'm still available. Maths, history, science... it depends how accurate you like your science. If you like it straight from the imagination, I'm your man.

Chickens piloted on Channel 4 two years ago. How come they didn't want it?

Joe: We did the pilot as part of Channel 4's Comedy Showcase. Then they said they didn't want any more Chickens or any

"Simon went away for three years to a llama farm!"

Joe Thomas

more Comedy Showcases. But we carried on writing, then Sky said they'd do it.

Simon: I think their reason for not commissioning it was that The Inbetweeners was on constant repeat on Channel 4. I'd done Friday Night Dinner and Joe was in Fresh Meat. So they probably didn't want four shows with us in them.

You live together in Chickens. Have you lived together before?

Joe: We lived together after uni, with [Chickens co-writer and star] Jonny Sweet. There were three of us but we had a two-bedroom flat so I said I'd have the living room as my bedroom. I'd come home and they'd be watching TV in my bedroom. I had to hang out in the bathroom instead.

Could Chickens be as successful as The Inbetweeners?

Simon: It's hard to judge. We didn't think The Inbetweeners would get anywhere. It was the first comedy E4 had done. We thought, "It's only E4. Let's not get carried away."

Joe: I didn't think anyone watched it apart from people who somehow knew my mum or dad. I thought, "That doesn't count. I want some total strangers who I don't know."

Simon: We didn't know if it would be recommissioned after the first series. Joe went back to tutoring. I went back to my PhD. James [Buckley] fitted kitchens. Blake [Harrison] went to work at the scare chamber at Madame Tussauds. That's true. The buzz only started after the second series.

*THIS IS HIGHLY INACCURATE - NUTS HISTORY EDIT
INTERVIEW: RICH PELLEY PHOTOS: TINI PRESS

SIMON!

For Millwall fans, they were quite sedate

Joe: That's why there aren't enough jobs in this country. The Inbetweeners were taking them all!

Why write a sitcom if you've already been in a classic?

Simon: I think we've still got a lot to prove. Any comedian wants to put their own sense of humour together.

So is there going to be a second Inbetweeners movie?

Simon: Yes. People say, "Oh, just do another one." They don't realise it takes eight months for the writers to work on the script. I also think we wanted a break. But it's going to happen!

● Chickens begins on Sky1/HD in August.

The whales are spotted in the water

As the divers swim, sardines
rise to the surface

Missed lunch!

Humpback whales almost put divers on the menu

➔ FIRST, YOU see a torrent of hundreds of panicked fish breaking the surface around two chaps in wetsuits casually paddling near Souza Rock on the California coast. A split-second later, the massive, gaping jaws of a pair of 40 tonne humpback whales pierce the water – gloriously synchronised – just feet from one of the now furiously panicking Shawn Stamback and Francis Antigua.

“I had a feeling the whales knew where we were in the water so missed us intentionally – which is pretty lucky, as I was right in the middle of the meatball!” joked Shawn Stamback, the man nearest the whales, who almost certainly lost about half a stone during the incident. Phew!

Two Aston concept cars!

Aston Martin continues its 100th birthday celebrations with a brace of Zagato concepts!

- It's been a couple of weeks and we've not had a new Aston Martin, so here we've got two! As the company's 100th anniversary celebrations continue, Italian coachbuilder Zagato is joining the party with two custom Astons, based on the DBS and DB9.
- Zagato has been making special rebodied versions of existing Aston models for over 50 years, and this pair continue in that vein. The hardtop – Coupé Zagato Centennial – is based on the DBS, while the cabriolet, called the Spyder Zagato, started life as a DB9.

- The coupé isn't your usual DBS, with its bizarre in-board headlights integrated into

WORDS: JONNY SMITH

"And I'm not bald – it's just a big parting"

"Sorry, can't see the resemblance"

THE COUPE!

a gaping front grille. A Zagato tradition is the double-bubble rear roof glass, which the DBS Zag has. And there's a metal strip that starts along each door, then kicks up over the top of the back window.

- An S-shaped swoop is repeated on the side profile of the rear end, continuing across the top of the boot lid as a spoiler lip. Below that, there are teardrop-shaped back lights, then below that a pair of frowning exhaust tips inside a fanged diffuser panel.

- Despite this leftfield bodywork, the giveaway that it's a DBS is the standard cabin and 20in alloys. The engine's a 510bhp 5.9-litre V12, good for 62mph in 4.3 secs and a 190mph top end.

- The drop-top is the DB9 Spyder Zagato Centennial, which wears almost identical styling to the coupé. Being a fabric-roofed car, there's no curvy bubble top, and the Spyder retains its hallmark Aston side intake grilles on the front wings.

- As this is a DB9 Volante, there's a 5,935cc V12 at the front and 510bhp travel through the back wheels. It does 0-62 in 4.6 secs, with a top speed of 183mph.

- There are no plans to make any more – they're both one of one. So they'd cost more than ten regular Astons apiece.

"Pull the other one – you're green with envy!"

About five minutes later, the tiger at the rear licks the buttohole of the tiger in front again. "I said pack it in!" says the first tiger. Again the second tiger apologises.

Five minutes later, it happens again. This time, the tiger in front really loses the plot. "What the fk is it with you?" he roars, claws and teeth flashing ready to pounce.

THE CHAPS GIVE A ONCE-OVER!

IS IT OK TO TINKLE IN

N CHANNEL 4's chuckle-making chat show The Last Leg, hosts Adam Hills,

Josh Widdicombe and Alex Brooker answer life's thornier questions. With a nod to their "#IsItOK" trend, we ask them to get to grips with some of Nuts' own everyday bloke dilemmas...

Is it OK... to support Man United?

Alex: Only if you have some strong family connection. Otherwise, not really.

Adam: I think so. People love Man United all over the place. In North Korea now, there's a Wayne Rooney poster on someone's wall. Probably Kim Jong-un's.

Josh: I'm pretty sure other things are more morally corrupt than this issue. I just can't think of any.

VERDICT: IT'S OK!

Is it OK... to cry at a Disney Pixar movie?

Alex: You're made of stone if you didn't cry at Toy Story.

Adam: Especially when Andy grows up and says goodbye to his toys. It reminds us all of our lost childhood, and... sorry – there's something in my eye.

Josh: The trick is to wear 3D glasses so nobody can see. Even if it's not a 3D film or you're not in a cinema.

VERDICT: IT'S OK!

Is it OK... to dress as a Nazi or equally controversial historical character at a fancy dress party?

Alex: I wouldn't go around town like one. But at a party, I suppose it's OK. Just don't behave like them.

Adam: If you dress as a Nazi, you must spend the entire night affecting a camp accent, drinking pink cocktails with fruit and an umbrella.

Josh: It depends on the theme. Although if you've been invited to a Third Reich fancy dress party, probably best not to go at all.

VERDICT: IT'S OK!

Is it OK... to do a tinkle in public?

Adam: Of course. But be discreet. At least face away from the traffic.

Alex: No way! Never. But I have a fear after peeing against a car in Magaluf when I was 18 and some big Spaniard chased me up the road with a stick. He was that big. I outran him. And I only have one leg.

Josh: It's about as acceptable as using "tinkle" in public, ie not at all acceptable.

VERDICT: NOT OK!

Is it OK... to not mention to your waiter that they haven't added the drinks to your bill?

Alex: I've done that before and just given a decent tip instead. Everyone wins.

Josh: It depends. Yes in a multinational chain. No in a local family restaurant. Unless they're a local family of d*cks.

Adam: It's not your fault the waiter isn't doing his job. If you're drunk but can still spot the error, while a sober waiter misses it, you should have ten per cent deducted from your bill.

VERDICT: IT'S OK!

Is it OK... to not tip a nightclub toilet attendant?

Alex: Yes. I got a rash from some dodgy Issey Miyake aftershave in 2003 and I've been wary of toilet attendants ever since.

Adam: Never. You should always tip. He works where you p*ss. The least you can do is drop a coin in his tray!

Josh: There's nothing worse than realising you have no change, then not washing your hands to avoid the awkwardness of not tipping. I'm with Adam, it's not cool.

VERDICT: NOT OK!

Is it OK... to wear a T-shirt with a swear word on it?

Alex: No. It makes you look a bellend.

Adam: My theory is, if you wouldn't shout it in public, don't have it on a T-shirt.

Josh: Depends which word. Definitely not acceptable if it's "tinkle".

VERDICT: NOT OK!

Is it OK... to make a pass at your friend's hot single mum at a party?

Josh: No. Unless you're sure you won't get caught.

Alex: This sounds like the start of a porno. But no, I probably wouldn't. Only because I'd get rejected.

Adam: I'm appalled you'd even ask me this question. What kind of person do you think I am? Of course it's OK. In fact, it's imperative.

VERDICT: NOT OK!

Is it OK... to eat last night's leftover kebab for breakfast?

Alex: It is, but heated up. Many go cold, but I'm a connoisseur.

Adam: It's been scientifically proven that kebabs are better for you the morning after. That's why they're only sold late at night.

Josh: It's more than OK – it's positively encouraged.

VERDICT: IT'S OK!

Is it OK... to lie about your number of sexual partners?

Alex: Yes. Everyone adds when talking to mates, subtracts when talking to girls. Don't they? Well, I do and I've been dumped twice, so it obviously works. Oh.

Adam: No when talking to your partner. No when talking to a medical specialist. Yes when talking to your mum.

Josh: Yes, but I'd say that with the thousands of women I've slept with.

VERDICT: SOMETIMES!

Is it OK... to wear tight Speedos at the local pool?

Alex: Never. It's not British, is it? I'm not compressing my junk into Lycra.

Josh: There's nowhere this is OK. Not the beach. Not the pool. Nowhere.

Adam: I say Speedos are fine at the pool. They're designed to help you swim faster. If it looks like you're smuggling a budgerigar down your jocks, so be it. Speedos at the beach are not OK. You don't need aerodynamics in the surf. You need comfort and protection. The surf can be rough. One big wave and you'll come out of the water with a testicle either side of your Speedos. Or as we call it in Australia, "fly's eyes". No one wants that.

VERDICT: NOT OK!

Is it OK... to talk to a magazine just to promote your new series?

Adam: Only if you're an avid reader. Thankfully, I have a lifelong subscription to Nuts.

Josh: If that series is The Last Leg, 10pm, Channel 4 on Wednesdays, yes it is.

Alex: Absolutely. And you can see Alex Brooker: My Perfect Body straight after.

VERDICT: WE'LL LET THEM OFF!

● The Last Leg, 10pm, Channel 4/HD on Wednesdays.

“As head of the Los Zetas gang his drug

Nuts explores the life and crimes of Miguel
Treviño Morales, Mexico's most-feared gangster

H

E WAS
the crime boss
hundreds of beheaded bodies by the roadside and had rivals hanged from motorway bridges or burned alive in oil drums. But on 15 July, Miguel Angel Treviño Morales' reign of terror came to an end when he was captured by Mexican Marines near the US border. The 40-year-old leader of the bloodthirsty Los Zetas cartel was stopped with almost £2million in cash and eight guns in the back of his pickup. Now, after being charged with murder, torture and kidnap, Nuts looks back on the life of one of the world's cruellest and most powerful drug kingpins...

THE BEGINNINGS

In true Goodfellas style, the young Morales washed cars and ran errands as a teenager for the Los Tejas gang, and later the Gulf cartels. Around the time, he became known by the nickname Z-40 and was appointed boss of the deadly Los Zetas gang, a powerful crime syndicate that had been founded by former Mexican commandos. Under his watch, the gang expanded from drug dealing into people trafficking, extortion and kidnapping across Mexico.

THE SLAUGHTER

Those who refused to work for Morales as drug mules were slaughtered. In 2010, the bodies of 72 men were found in the town of San Fernando and in 2011, Mexican police found the remains of 192 bodies – all buried in the sand – believed to be migrants who'd tried to resist being press-ganged into working as drug traffickers for the Zeta gang.

THE VIOLENCE

Under Morales, the Los Zetas gang defeated other cartels in bloody shootouts and spread throughout the country, eventually infiltrating towns which had never seen organised crime. Morales' reputation was spreading too, as stories of his murderous methods became legendary. Members of Los Zetas would often drive ice picks through the chests of their victims and leave signs on the corpse warning people not to interfere with their work. Morales' most sadistic method of disposing of his victims was to force them into 55 gallon oil drums and then set them alight. Morales referred to this technique as the "guiso" or "stew-in".

THE RISE TO POWER

"If you get called to a meeting with him, you're not going to come out of that meeting," said one US law-enforcement official in Mexico City. Those who hurt Morales' friends came in for particularly harsh treatment. Morales remained allied with the Gulf cartel until, in 2010, a faction kidnapped his friend Víctor Peña Mendoza, who was beaten and executed for refusing to defect from Los Zetas. Morales ordered revenge kidnappings and the murders of 16 Gulf cartel members – igniting a cartel war. Police suspect up to 70,000 people have been killed as a result.

THE FIGHTBACK

When Mexican President Peña Nieto came to power last year, he swore he'd confront the crime wave head on and launched a new special force known as the National Gendarmerie to battle the cartels. With a current force of just 5,000 men, though, experts believe the force have a tough fight on their hands, and Mexico's streets are still policed in large parts by the military.

THE FUTURE

The arrest of Morales, along with his bodyguard and chief of finance, who were both travelling in the pickup truck with him at the time, has led some experts to speculate that perhaps it won't be long before the most infamous drug lord of them all, Sinaloa cartel head Joaquin "El Chapo" Guzmán will soon meet a similar fate. Others, however, believe that Morales' arrest means the power of "El Chapo" will only increase. "El Chapo is greatly strengthened," said Professor George Grayson, an expert on Los Zetas, who thinks he could take over Morales' empire. If he tries, though, it won't be without more bloodshed. Morales' brother Omar, who is thought to be just as ruthless, looks set to succeed his sibling as leader of the Los Zetas gang. The terror, it would seem, is far from over.

GIRLS OF TV

“People were camping outside our house in Australia!”

Hi Holly! What's new with you?
Hiya! I've been doing loads, actually. Never a dull moment!

We've been filming in Australia, which was fantastic. I'm absolutely knackered now though. Ha-ha!

Did you enjoy the shoot?

Yes, I did! Nuts always seems to do something special. And this is the first time I've been in the mag with my new hair!

And how are your new boobies settling in?

Oh, they're really good, as all your readers will probably appreciate. Thanks for asking!

How was Australia?

Amazing. It's a great place. The weather was grand, and it's probably the best series of Geordie Shore that we've ever done. It was absolutely crazy.

The Aussies aren't exactly known for being tame. Did you manage to shock them?

I don't think so. It isn't easy to shock them. It was mad out there. The show is so popular in Australia – they love it! There were people camping outside the house and paparazzi followed us everywhere.

Was that pretty crazy for you?

It was a bit strange because none of us really see ourselves like that. We're just young people going out and getting drunk, really. But it's bizarre to think that, if anything, Geordie Shore is more popular in Australia than it is in the UK.

Was it nice for you to know that the Sydney Harbour Bridge is modelled on the Tyne Bridge?

I have no idea if that's true. But if it is, that's a nice fact.

What was the most outrageous thing that happened out there?

There were a lot of fights, and probably the biggest drama you've ever seen on the show. Don't blink, or you'll miss ► loads! We're not even sure if we'll all be able to come back and get on with each other. We might just have overdone things this time. It's all just entertainment though, isn't it?

But aren't you all actually bezzie mates?

We are! But if you live in a house with someone for nine weeks, things will get said and things will happen. It's inevitable. Unfortunately, or fortunately, it all happened in Australia.

Did anyone get in trouble?

I don't think there was anyone who didn't get in trouble!

Who's the funniest person in the Geordie Shore house?

Charlotte. If you watch the show, it's pretty obvious why.

Who does the smelliest trumps?

Probably Charlotte again.

Would you fancy starting a career as a pop star?

Possibly, but I don't think it's for me at the moment. I've recorded a few songs but its all been blown out of proportion. I have too much going on right now to worry about that. It was reported that I had a single coming out, but that should never have been printed. Somebody was misinformed!

What's the sexiest bit of underwear you own?

I have a lovely pair of suspenders that I like to wear.

Finally then, people always think being in a big TV show makes you rich, so what car do you drive?

A black and orange Citroen DS3. I have the Racer, not the ordinary one. It's very fast. It's got something like 207 horsepower and can go from 0 to 60 in six seconds. I haven't been done for speeding yet – touch wood!

● Geordie Shore is on Tuesdays on MTV/HD at 10pm. ▶

“We might have overdone things in this series!”

Turn over for loads more sexy telly stars!

Helen Flanagan

Famous for: She sexed-up Corrie, then she stunned us all in the jungle. More recently, she's become known for her saucy selfies and sexy mag shoots.

Greatest moment: We loved her constant battles with tubby darts chap Eric Bristow on I'm A Celebrity. She said he was "a strange creature", he called her "daft as a brush". The real winner was television.

Fun fact: During her time on Corrie, Helen's character was nominated as villain of the year in the soap awards. She looks like butter wouldn't melt.

She says: "I'm really proud of my boobs, and I'm grateful that I've got a voluptuous chest. It has a lot of power!"

Kelly Brook

Famous for: The nation's sweetheart has been brightening up bedroom walls across the country for a while now, but more recently, she's proved she's got the banter to go with the boobs by being Keith Lemon's new Celebrity Juice chum. Bang tidy!

Greatest moment: We're used to tremendous topless pics here at Nuts, but even we were left gobsmacked by Kelly's recent nudey beach escapades.

Fun fact: Kelly's movie Piranha 3D grossed over £55m at the UK box office.

She says: "I have a body of comedic proportions. I've got huge boobs and a huge bum. I've always had that body." ►

Jessica-Jane Clement

Famous for: Joyous JJC has gone from Real Hustle hottie to magnificent magazine babe. When not brightening up our telly screens, she's making the pages of Nuts even sexier.

Greatest moment: Jessica-Jane spread joy this year by stripping off on that Twitter for charity. A noble cause got over £10,000 and the rest of us got a lovely boob treat. Charity's ace.

Fun fact: On her E4 programme The Body Shocking Show, JJC met the lady with the world's biggest boobs.

She says: "I just do what feels sexy and the photographer clicks away!"

Billie Faiers

Famous for: We love seeing Billie bounce around our telly screens on TOWIE. She's the sexy face (and body, of course) of the ITV2 reality staple and a favourite in Nuts.

Greatest moment: Billie paired up with her sexy sister Sam to take part in a very British (and busty) shoot for Nuts. To say it made us feel patriotic is a massive understatement.

Fun fact: She may be the show's fittest babe, but busty Billie has the fewest Twitter followers of all the TOWIE cast. Apart from Big Mick, that is.

She says: "On TOWIE, we have the sexiest girls and the funniest characters!" ►

Jorgie Porter

Famous for: The blonde babe is the sole reason to stay in and watch Hollyoaks rather than go to the gym.

Greatest moment: Our Hollyoaks hottie took being sexy on the telly to the next level when she frolicked in her smalls for Hollyoaks Later. Thankfully, she's been happy to do more of the same for Nuts!

Fun fact: Her soap character Theresa McQueen has murdered someone, officially making her soapland's sexiest killer.

She says: "I would totally snog Megan Fox in a movie!"

Chloe Sims

Famous for: Some would say that TOWIE's biggest boobs are Arg and Joey (not us though, lads!) but we know that accolade goes to Chloe here.

Magnificent boobs, ahoy!

Greatest moment: She's had many a nonsense storyline on TOWIE, but the occasion forever etched in our minds is her sizzling lingerie shoot with fellow Essex fittie Frankie.

Fun fact: Somewhat oddly, Chloe told Nuts she has a bizarre fear of opening presents. Apparently, that's officially known as "doronophobia".

She says: "I've always wanted even bigger boobs!"

Roulette Splendide game!

It's the classic game of chance – as the iconic wheel turns, fortunes can be made or lost with the fall of a silver ball!

➔ ALTHOUGH ROULETTE'S a game of chance, its popularity lies in the player's ability to control the level of risk and reward. You can take a punt on one specific number for a large payout, or bet on several numbers for a greater chance of winning.

STRATEGIES

- The most popular strategy is to double your bets when you lose. But no strategy's foolproof!
- If you're a novice, start with some easy outside bets (red/black or even/odd) and as you get the hang of it, you could place some smaller ones on whatever you like within the board.

TABLE BETS

- Straight Up (Pays 35 to 1): Bet on a number, including 0, by placing the chip on the centre of a number.
- Split Bet (Pays 17 to 1): Bet on two numbers by placing a chip on the line that divides the two.
- Corner Bet (Pays 8 to 1): Bet on four numbers by placing chips at the corner where the four meet.
- Red/Black, Even/Odd, Low/High Bets (Pays 1 to 1): Each of these boxes contains 18 numbers and they all pay out at 1/1. Zero is not included.

RACECOURSE BETS

- Neighbour Bets let you place wagers on any five neighbouring numbers.
- French Bets place wagers across different sections of the wheel. There are three different types:
- Voisins means neighbours of zero. A bet here will place nine wagers.
- Tiers means a third of the wheel. This bet will place six wagers.
- Orphelins covers all numbers not covered by Voisins or Tiers. A bet will include five wagers.

10 RUDE QUESTIONS!

And a real girl to answer them!

Hollie

22 Berkshire

1 Where's the strangest place you've had sex?

"That was in a swimming pool changing room. We had to be very sneaky and had to make sure we were very quiet so that the people getting changed didn't hear us."

2 What's your trademark move in the bedroom?

"I'd have to say it's using my mouth and lips. I have my tongue pierced so that's always a bonus, but I don't want to give away any more naughty secrets!"

3 What really turns you on?

"My biggest turn-on has to be when a guy flashes you a cheeky smile on a night out and you know what's going to happen next. I also love it when a guy's just got out of the shower and has nothing except a towel on."

4 What's your favourite position?

"I'd say my all-time favourite position has to be me on top. You guys get to see everything and it's always really good being in control. It always feels really amazing!"

5 Is it better to give or receive?

"A bit of both – I mean, it's good being in control and having the thrill of knowing you're turning someone on, but it's still really nice to be taken by surprise and given pleasure yourself sometimes."

6 What one thing would you like to try but haven't yet?

"I still haven't got around to having sex in a lift. It's one of my fantasies – either that or sex on the beach. Yes, it's a cliché, but I haven't tried it yet, so it doesn't matter!"

7 Have you ever got it on with another girl?

"Ha-ha! Yes. Me and one of my friends got a little drunk one night and got a bit silly. Before we knew it, one thing had led to another. I'll let your imagination do the rest!"

8 What's your sexiest bedroom outfit?

"I have a sexy nurse's outfit. There's something so sexy about being in control yet still looking after someone, plus the costumes are so hot. Who wouldn't want to be taken care of by a naughty nurse?"

9 Have you ever made a rude video?
“No, I haven’t, but it’s one of those things I’d quite like to try – never say never! I think you have to try everything to see what you like, so who knows?”

10 What’s the rudest thing you’ve ever done?
“I was dared to flash my boobs to a car full of guys on the motorway and I stepped up to the challenge. My girlfriends have never let me live it down!”

CONFESSION OF THE WEEK!

'Our fun on the dancefloor'

MY FRIENDS and I were on a raucous hen weekend in Italy recently. We were at a club one night and it was full of hot Italians, so my bestie and I decided to spice things up a bit. We started dancing really close. I was wearing a short skirt and my friend ran her hands up my thighs. I put my hands on her bum and gave her a cheeky squeeze, kissing her on the neck seductively. I moved my lips towards hers and we stuck out our tongues to kiss each other. Suddenly, we were passionately kissing. Before long, we all got invited back to a house party and soon got up to more naughty fun.

Keeley North London

'We played at a festival'

WE WENT to a festival in Essex a few weekends ago and had an amazing time.

As the music played, my man was hugging me from behind. He started whispering dirty talk into my ear and I was getting hotter and hornier by the second. His hand moved up my top and his fingers brushed past my nipples making them stand to attention. He then gave them a little squeeze and I felt really naughty. I grabbed his hand and slid it down the front of my jeans. Being in public made me feel mischievous. He gently rubbed me as I reached my hand around and gave his package a fondle through his jeans. I told him I wanted him right there and then. You've never seen two people move through a crowd so fast!

Cassie Essex

'He pushed my skirt up'

I'M A waitress and my other half loves the tight skirt and shirt that I wear as a uniform. He came into the pub where I work one afternoon and I decided to tease him. I began by bending over so he could see down my shirt. Then I "accidentally" spilt water over it so he could see my nipples through the material. I could see he was turned on so I whispered to him to follow me. We went into the kitchen, he pushed my skirt up and lifted me on to the dishwasher. He moved my lace knickers to one side and thrust hard in to me. We were so horny that we didn't take very long. I now often get him to pop in to see me at lunchtime!

Holly Suffolk

'Flirting soon led to more'

EVERY WEEK my mum and I would go to a local wine bar for a catch up. One week she was running late, but I'd had a hard day and needed a drink so I decided to wait for her in the bar. As I scanned the room, I saw a guy checking me out who I recognised as a regular. He was rumoured to be gay so it didn't make me feel uncomfortable when he came over to chat. After a few drinks, I realised he was flirting with me. He then surprised me by whispering to meet him in the bathroom. My mum wasn't due to arrive for another 30 minutes so I followed him. In no time at all, we were kissing passionately and much more besides. I ended up being ten minutes late for my mum and I blamed a dodgy takeaway at lunch!

FOOTY'S BACK!

Kammy's Championship special!

Nuts legend Chris Kamara gives us the lowdown on the league's craziest division!

THE 2013-14 Championship season kicks off at the weekend and with so much drama, it's no surprise English football's second tier is the world's fourth most watched league – behind the Premier League, La Liga and Bundesliga. Kammy tells us why it's his favourite!

- Burnley vs Blackburn, 12.15pm Saturday, live on Sky Sports 1/HD

KAMMY'S FIVE TO FOLLOW!

"Hey! Are you two laughing at my hairstyle?"

HORNETS' QUEST!

1 WATFORD

"Watford surprised me last season in doing really well and playing some fabulous football. They've signed a fair few of the loan players they had at the club last season on permanent deals now – Almen Abdi, Joel Ekstrand and Ikechi Anya – plus they've brought in midfielder Lewis McGugan from Nottingham Forest. They'll miss top scorer Matej Vydra, who's back at Udinese, but they'll still score plenty."

It was a very lighthearted three-legged race

2 WIGAN

"It's a clean slate for Wigan now. They have a new manager, new players and have kept hold of many of the good players from last year – even though they've lost striker Arouna Kone to Everton. They look like they might hold on to Callum McManaman and James McCarthy, at least until January. I think that Owen Coyle really wants this job and he'll be on at them to get straight back up."

"Yep, the merest hint of a northwesterly breeze in the air"

3 READING

"Nigel Adkins was on to a hiding to nothing last year - Reading were basically down when he took over. He worked wonders at Southampton, but once they got promoted, I felt he didn't want a lot of the players the club bought. Now he's building a new team. Reading have lots of ammo - Adam Le Fondre, Jimmy Kébé, Royston Drenthe, Pavel Pogrebnyak. I'll be surprised if they don't go close."

"Finally! I thought this number 57 would never arrive!"

4 CHARLTON

"Charlton finished well last season - Chris Powell did a wonderful job. If he can get off to a good start they can be much closer this season. They seemed to just run out of games towards the end of the season despite hitting form. I like a few of their players, and it's always interesting to see if a team can keep good form in the new season. You need goals and consistency, something Charlton missed at times."

"Miss! Miss! Can I go to the bathroom, please?"

HAPPY HARRY?

5 QUEENS PARK RANGERS

"Harry Redknapp went to QPR confident he could keep them up, but the job just unravelled. However, he has a great record of building teams. Signing a leader in Richard Dunne's a good start. He has to get rid of players who think they belong in the Premier League even though they've just been relegated. They can't have any negativity going into the new season or that dressing room might split."

Why the Championship is a must-watch!

LAST-DAY DRAMA!

"In the Championship finale last season, seven teams could have reached the play-offs, two were involved in the automatics, and another seven could have gone down. It was unbelievable!"

COUPON BUSTERS!

"It's the only division where you could see a team go miles clear - like Cardiff did - and then lose at home to the bottom club, Peterborough. Also, who can forget Cardiff throwing away a 4-0 lead in the same fixture a few years ago?"

ATTACKING FOOTBALL!

"Blackpool showed teams getting promoted to the Premier League that they should just have a go. The likes of Swansea and Norwich have never just looked for a draw. They play that way to go up, then keep to it in the top flight."

SURPRISE PACKAGES!

"There's always one team that surprises every season. Last season, Hull took one of the automatic slots when they were long odds. In the past, Burnley, Blackpool and Crystal Palace have all come from nowhere to grab a promotion place."

CHANGES IN FORTUNE!

"Cardiff were labelled chokers under Dave Jones but exploded into form last season. Peterborough lost the first seven games but got ten more points in the last 25 than Leicester, who finished sixth. And Boro were second at Christmas, then only won three more all season!"

Turn the page for the league's best players

KAMMY'S PLAYERS TO WATCH!

1 GEORGE FRIEND MIDDLESBROUGH

"George is a 6ft 2 full-back. He could play centre-half, but his qualities mean he's good bombing forward and putting crosses in. I recommended him to Tony Pulis at Stoke and David Moyes at Everton last season – he's that good!"

2 CHRIS SOLLY CHARLTON

"Chris is another great full-back. He gets forward well, works hard and was Charlton's player of the year last year. Gaffer Chris Powell was a great full-back in his day, so he's the best manager in that division for Solly to learn from."

3 TOM INCE BLACKPOOL

"Everyone expected Tom to be in the Premier League now – he was linked with Liverpool and turned down Cardiff. If you asked many Championship fans last year who was the better player, Zaha or Ince, plenty would say Ince."

4 LIAM BRIDCUTT BRIGHTON

"Brighton had a lot of attacking talent last year but it was Liam who'd sit in and let them play. He reminds me of a young David Batty – he'll rarely go past the halfway line, but he'll do the dirty jobs. He's never intimidated."

5 ROYSTON DRENTHÉ READING

"Reading boss Nigel Adkins got stuck at Saints for not being a big-name manager, but at Reading, he's got in Drenthe, who's played for Real Madrid. Many players struggle dropping into the Championship, but he has real quality."

6 CHARLIE AUSTIN BURNLEY

"I'm sure Charlie would score goals in the Premier League. I'm not saying he'd get 20, but I think he has real talent. He scores goals with both feet and with his head. Also, he scores tap-ins as well as goals from outside the box."

Third Test, thirst test!

It's the Nuts Drinking Game!

TO CELEBRATE England's total dominance over the Aussies – at least in the first two Tests – we've provided our own boozy scorecard for the next battle at Old Trafford this Thursday. Go!

● Third Test, 1-5 August, live on Sky Sports Ashes/HD.

"Lads, Flintoff's getting the beers in!"

What you need to play!
Beer • Vodka • Rum
Whisky • Tequila

1 SHANE'S SHANDY!
Drink one finger... if Aussie opener Shane Watson gets done lbw again. The right-hander loves dumping his elephant leg in front of off-stump – then waving for an in-vain video appeal.

2 BITTER, PLEASE!
Drink one finger... every time the phrases, "embarrassment", "disgrace", "ashamed" or "poor" are used to describe the away team. Double if it's an Aussie doing the ranting!

3 AGAR! LAGER! LAGER!
Drink one finger... whenever Ashton Agar's score of 98 in the first Test is mentioned. We're all aware it was his Test debut, but we're on the third Test now – get over it, Aussies!

4 STUBBLE STUBBIE!
Drink two fingers... every time Michael Clarke is seen rubbing his chin in dismay. The Aussie captain might be "confident" of a series victory but he's practically rubbing his stubble off!

5 BOYCOTT'S BOOZER!
Drink three fingers... if Geoffrey Boycott says something offensive, Nasser Hussain mentions David Gower's butler or Bumble says, "Wallop!" "Full pint!" or "Start the car!"

6 FRAZZLED FANS!
Drink one shot... each time a sunburnt Barmy Army member hovers into view – make it a tequila slammer if he's wearing a Mexican hat. Add a lager chaser for a fat bloke in a dress.

7 GET SHORTY!
Drink one shot... if the commentary goes a bit "oo-er missus!" For example: any mentions of "grass on the wicket", "wrist spinning", "a full toss" or even "ball tampering".

8 END OF THE ROAD!
Finish your drink... if any Aussie tail-ender (number seven onwards) scores more than their openers combined. Also, finish your drink if any Aussie batsman staggers to 100 runs!

9 HAPPY HOUR!
Finish your drink... if the England team do their sprinkler celebration. Then feel free to party along with your pals in celebration of another Ashes series victory. Unless the Aussies have won.

10 SHANE'S LAST SHOT!
Drink one shot... every time Shane Warne appears on screen. Last to shout "You're just a fat ladies' hairdresser" has to down his drink. If Liz Hurley appears, down two fingers.

WHO ARE YA!?

Premier League ahoy? Footy expert Gabriele Marcotti on this week's transfer talk!

£16.4M

NAME: ALVARO NEGREDO NEW CLUB: MAN CITY
SIGNED FROM: SEVILLA

"Failed to make the grade at Real Madrid but has been a consistent threat the past three years at Seville, grabbing 59 goals in 104 La Liga appearances. He boasts a good size, excellent technique, creativity, unselfishness and an eye for goal. His critics say he's inconsistent and he tends not to play well in big games. At 27, Man City represent his best chance to prove them wrong."

£7M

NAME: NACER CHADLI NEW CLUB: SPURS
SIGNED FROM: FC TWENTE

"A tall, strong winger who some have compared to Cristiano Ronaldo. That may be a bit much, but his combination of pace, muscle and the way he cuts in from wide areas to shoot is reminiscent of you-know-who. His 16 goals in all competitions last year were an excellent return for a wide player. The main question is how he'll be able to cope against Premier League defenders."

NAME: YANNICK SAGBO WANTED BY: HULL
CURRENT CLUB: EVIAN

"This muscular forward came through the ranks at Monaco but struggled to make an impact. He's a classic late bloomer who needed a few seasons for his technique to catch up with his athleticism. He only really made a splash after moving to little Evian in 2010 and, even then, his return of 25 goals in three years hasn't been spectacular. At 25, Hull will likely make him or break him."

NAME: BAFETIMBI GOMIS WANTED BY: SPURS, VILLA, NEWCASTLE CURRENT CLUB: LYON

"One of many strikers who has been compared to Didier Drogba but, while that may be true in terms of energy, when it comes to quality he's a few notches below the Ivorian. Still, he's hard-working, unselfish and has reached double figures in each of the last seven seasons. Two years ago, he became only the seventh player in history to notch four goals in a Champions League game."
