As the Editor of SMOOTH for 3 ½ years, I was blessed with the opportunity to work with wonderful new talent on the precipice of success, much as I do now. Actress Angell Conwell and glamour models extraordinaire Summer Walker and Sarah Nichole were amongst the best I came across. I have known these talented young ladies for as long as I have been in this business and it is my distinct pleasure to be still working with them. Angell, who is a dear personal friend is a delightful on-screen talent that has inspired many a crush with her roles in "The Wash", "Baby Boy" and "Soul Plane", amongst others. Her diverse acting skills will no doubt have her entertaining the masses for years to come. Sarah has to be one of the more naturally beautiful, confident and quintessential "New Yorkers" I know. And I just love Summer Walker, but who doesn't?

The story of my first shoot with Summer, is undoubtedly my favorite to tell. As the last in a group of girls to shoot that day, Summer took the time to help around set, cleaning up and getting beverages, etc for the crew and other models. Dressed, as she was, baggy clothes and no makeup, everyone including the other talent took her for an intern or just one of the crew, paying her no mind whatsoever. Summer then disappeared for what I can imagine the others must of thought was a run to the store or to do something that production assistants do. When she strolled on to the set to take her turn in front of the camera in a two-piece that revealed the ridiculous body that her baggy clothes camouflaged, the hate flowed like the river Nile. The crew was pleasantly surprised, and let's just say the other models were no longer happy. It was at that moment a beautiful star was born.

That is what I love the most about my job, Introducing new talent, and the list is long and impressive. From Esther Baxter to Laura Doré, and from Vida Guerra to Jesikah Maximus, I have been lucky enough to give many stars of the glamour world their big break and in many instance their very first major magazine cover. However, what I enjoy the most other than seeing these women shoot onto the scene and continue to shine is being in a position to work with them after they have become famous. SHOW is about introducing stars, and giving them the platform to demonstrate why they are the best at what they do. We hope to continue bringing you the best and the brightest and in Angell, Summer, Sarah and Brenda Lynn, it really doesn't get any better.

Enjoy the SHOW!

Let me introduce myself for those of you who do not know me, I'm Nikita Esco, most of my friends call me Nikki. I'm an import model and a go go dancer. I'm half Chinese, half French and Polish. My mother was born in Taipei, Taiwan, and my father was born in Chicago. My parents meet in Spain and fell in love after a whirlwind romance. I was born in the small Navy town of Bremerton, WA where my father retired.

I spent most of my teenage life in Emerald City Seattle where 2 inches of rain is considered a light shower. It wasn't until I turned 21 that I finally traded that rain for some sunshine in Los Angeles, CA.

I've never been shy; I always loved to be in front of the camera. With my 5'3" frame I found out the hard way that the modeling world was very limited to me. That was until I attended a Hot Import Nights car show in Seattle where I entered the Import Tuner Magazine model search and placed as a finalist for the city of Seattle. That was my lucky break in 2005 and I then became the official spokes model for the USA Drag Show tour "Battle of the Imports". Soon after I was asked to be part of the Hot Import Nights tour as an official go go dancer.

I've graced the covers of Superstreet and Dsport Magazines, and I've been featured several times in Import Tuner, Show, LowRider girls, and various other car magazines. I love the import scene: the cars, drag racing, drifting, motor bikes, cruisers, crotch rockets, rice burners, domestic muscle cars, and especially all of the fans.

Not only has the import world been something that I've loved, but it has opened doors into the nightlife scene for me in which some of the hottest clubs in every city across the US have invited me to go go dance. I'm an official Maxim Magazine go go dancer for their Coors Lite tour, which is held every year in LA, San Diego, and Las Vegas. I've also been a go go dancer for Heineken Beer for 3 years where I have performed at special events and conventions. I've just recently signed a 12 episode contract with TheAdultspot.com A website that covers everything entertaining for us adults. My episodes will be aired on cable network channel 58 in Los Angeles keep checking the site for updates.

I love dancing for huge companies at massive venues, my favorite part about being doing what I do is I get to travel all over the world to various nightclubs, conventions and events. It's such a rush when I get to mix in with new crowds, in new cities, and meet new amazing people. I always tell people I dance to express, not impress. Dancing is my passion, which I'm living, and I love my job. I can't wait to come to your city and meet all of you.

Angell crawled backwards as a baby.

Angell misses her Monday through Sunday undies she used to wear in elementary school.

Angell has a pitbull that she never gets to see, ever.

Angell wishes it wasn't such a fashion faux pas to wear granny panties.

Angell loves the smell of gasoline.

Angell has no tonsils or adnoids.

Angell has not eaten pork or red meat since 2003.

Look familiar? If you own a television, you've seen actress Angell Conwell. Acting has been her only profession, beginning at age 11. She hit the big screen at 17 in John Singleton's "Baby Boy", followed by Lions Gate's "The Wash" and soon after, MGM's controversial comedy "Soul Plane". Her versatility has been displayed on dozens of television shows on networks across the board, including "NYPD Blue" and Disney's "That's So Raven". Yes, the combination of beauty and talent is rare, but Angell is the product of this equation. From the looks of her resume, the roles that she's portrayed ranges from night and day. Thus, confirming that comeliness and natural endowment not only come as a package, but separates the real from the illusion. A lot of so called celebrities these days have been packaged and placed like products, forcing themselves on the audience instead of having an authentic appeal. Clearly this 26 year old stunner has paid her dues, even SAG can tell you that, but what does she really desire for her career, and more so, for herself? Time to get personal with this down south valley girl.

I'm a 23 yr. old Australian, born and raised in the outback. I spent my high school years living in a beautiful coastal town called Byron Bay, and now I'm spending my 20's traveling and living the city life!

Ahh, not a great deal has changed since my last appearance in the White issue! I've made the move from a small coastal town to the city of Melbourne! It's definitely a contrast to my hometown, but I guess that's what makes it so interesting! There's so much culture in Melbourne and so many places to discover and explore. My favorite place to date is a beautiful rooftop bar called 'The Supper Club'. The first night I discovered this place they played Ray Charles and Nat King Cole for the duration of the night. I was in heaven! I also love the anonymity that comes with moving to the city.

However I do miss the beauty of Byron Bay. I flew back for a week over the Christmas holiday and spent a day surfing with friends at a beautiful secluded beach just south of Byron Bay. We had to trek through a rainforest to get to this beach, but when we stepped onto the sand it was like a scene from a movie. And to top it off, we swam with a massive pod of wild dolphins. I always get told that I'm crazy for leaving Byron Bay!

I'm now in my final years of my law degree, which is exciting, but there's also a sense of uncertainty. Moving to the city has really exposed me to more competition and success than I was exposed to in Byron Bay; which is great as it acts as an incentive to do well, but also makes you question your competence. However I tend to be a bit of an over-achiever when it comes to my studies, so I'm sure I'll be fine.

On a lighter note, I now have a beautiful five month old puppy called Coco! She's a black Mini Foxy X Short-Haired Pomeranian with two white paws; possibly the most adorable dog you'll ever see! I didn't really have any intention to buy a puppy, but as soon as I saw her I fell in love with her. She was the runt of the pack, and after I came back after 4 days and she was the only one remaining I figured it was a 'sign' to take her home (haha!). Anyway, I hope you enjoy the spread, and maybe you'll see me in another issue soon!

Say hello again to Brenda Lynn. Brenda is a 5' 1" Puerto Rican beauty who is now appearing in SHOW for the third time. This voluptuous vixen has taken the industry by storm since her debut. Brenda has appeared in numerous hit music videos as well as being Miss Howard Stern TV 2008. Born in NJ, she has been modeling seriously for almost four years now and hopefully we will be seeing more and more of her for years to come. She is a rare all natural stunning beauty with a unique look that can quiet a crowd with her mere presence. She took the time to answer a few questions for us after the photo shoot because we know you are interested in the article, not just the pictures.... Here is what she had to say...

When did you start modeling?

I started 4 years or so years ago now taking pictures with photographers and trying to get them out there any way I could. My first break in modeling was appearing in Show Magazine's Latina Lovers Edition. That opened a lot of opportunities for me. I had a large following online but was not getting the phone calls until this appearance. Soon after, I was being asked to appear in music videos and was featured in other magazines. It was a great experience and one I am extremely appreciative for.

What do you want people to think when they see your photos?

It depends on what I am posing for. For the most part I would just like people to really look at them and try to appreciate them as a work of art. To me this is an art form, as well as a career path, and a way of expressing ones self in a variety of ways. But no matter how someone looks at the pictures, I hope they like them.

Do you have the temper that Puerto Rican girls are rumored to have?

I don't know if it is a temper as much as it is deep passion. I put passion into the things I care about most; sometimes it is love and sometimes it is hate. When it's used for fighting, that passion may come across as a temper, but when I'm being a lover, that passion comes across as something you can only dream about.

Where will we be seeing you next?

I actually just did a collaboration with Primitive which is a skate/shoe/clothing store in Encino, Ca. You will be seeing me on some of their products. As of right now that is, it but who knows where I will be in the future. One place you will always be able to find me is Facebook!

What are you doing when you are not behind the camera?

I am still residing in Jersey, going to school fulltime and pursuing my other dreams that I had set aside. I'm definitely staying busy and focused and not ever settling for less... I think it's the Latina in me. Xo Brenda Lynn.
