Puerto Rican Princess

Joseline Hernandez is definitely the talk of the reality TV sphere. A Miami native, Hernandez is a Latin rapper and singer discovered by Stevie J—her costar on "Love & Hip-Hop: Atlanta" and current love interest. Joseline's "take no sh*t from anyone" attitude coupled with her seductive Latin accent is what has the selfproclaimed Puerto Rican Princess buzzin'. However, it was her batido that brought all the boys to the yard. Armed with the aforementioned assets, the former exotic dancer and personal trainer, is ready to take the music industry by storm. Hernandez has a goal and will not be stopped until she gets to the top—with or without "Stebie."

ERICA DIXON

The Next Chapter

Motherhood, relationships, drama, reality television, the mediathey're all crucial elements that dominate the daily life of "Love & Hip-Hop: Atlanta" cast member, Erica Dixon. Dixon, the Atlanta-born, and Hempstead, NY-raised reality star worked the majority of her early career at a doctor's office while raising hers and rapper Lil Scrappy's daughter, Émani. Dixon wanted to shine as a model/actor and joined the cast of "Love & Hip-Hop: Atlanta" where she finally broke through and established herself as one of the realest cast members—not shying away from her thoughts towards the other members, while standing by her rock-hard moral beliefs and faith.

As of recent,
Erica called it off with Scrappy—seemingly for good—and has even began dating again. Her new beau is model O'Shea Russell.
The two met over Memorial Day Weekend, and have been inseparable since. There's no telling if she and her longtime on again/off again relationship with Scrappy will see another go 'round, but one thing is for sure, Ms. Dixon is not sitting around waiting for that ride.

RECREATING KAYLINI

hen the lovely Kaylin Garcia made her television debut on season three of "Love & Hip Hop," the Puerto Rican/Black/Thai bombshell turned heads. With her loyalty firm in her then boyfriend rapper Joe Budden, the country saw her fight a losing battle for her relationship. Even though the filming has stopped, her spotlight is now shining brighter than ever. Black Men Magazine catches up with Ms. Garcia to discuss her come up, why reality television isn't real and how she is getting back to Kaylin.

Black Men Magazine: Who is Kaylin Garcia outside of "Love & Hip-Hop"?

Kaylin Garcia: Well, Kaylin Garcia is from Homestead, Florida – born and raised. I'm 21 and my birthday is November 10th. I came up in the industry doing music videos specifically Trina's "Long Heels Red Bottoms," The Dream's "Roc," and Mystikal's "Original." I only did a couple of music videos because I never wanted that as a career. Bills had to get paid and people got to get fed. It was just a grind.

What was your relationship with Joe Budden before "Love & Hip Hop"?

My relationship with Joe was amazing. I would probably say the only thing that broke us up was the show. Besides the show my relationship with Joe was amazing. He was an amazing person, man, lover – it was good while it lasted.

How was the experience of filming the show?

At first, I didn't agree with doing the show when I first found out he was doing "Love & Hip Hop." I didn't want to be part of it, I didn't know what shenanigans they were going to put me through, and I didn't know if they were going to put me in a pit full of snakes. I ended up being on it because I am a supportive girlfriend so anything he was doing I wanted to support it.

It was dreadful – every time I had to film I didn't want to just because the way the story line was going. It was like I'm on camera, but I know they are making me out to look like a fool. It wasn't a good experience, but it was an experience that I definitely learned from. I don't regret doing the show because I learned a lot myself and loyalty.

How has been life like after "Love & Hip Hop"?

Well, I'm not with Joe anymore. I'm on my own. I work; I travel and do everything that I want to do. I lost myself for a minute. I went through a very traumatic, emotional and very public experience. I'm working on myself and recreating who Kaylin is.

I'm [also] a recording artist now so I will be coming out with music. It's allowing me to reintroduce myself. I also have my own line of hookah sticks called Kaylin's Kaleidoscope for the females that love flavor and want to look cute while smoking. I'm also working on a Thai themed bikini line called S&K.

How was it being painted for the photo shoot?

It was super dope – but it was different for me. I've never had body paint on me before. It's painful to take off because it sticks to your body. I was happy with it though.

What do you look for in a guy?

To be the honest, I was in a relationship for a year that I just got out of and I still don't understand how game works. I have no game. I don't even know what I want right now. So right now, I'm focusing on me and then I can find out what I want in a man. But, Drake is a perfect candidate though [laughs].

How can one of our readers catch your attention in person?

He doesn't have to do anything to catch my attention. I just like smart men, so if he is intelligent that's a plus. I'm a simple person; we can cook some ribs on the grill and smoke some hookah and have a good time.

eet the woman behind the scenes of one of the most sought after celebrity fashion shows on television to date, taking charge since season 2011 of BET's "Rip The Runway." Talent coordinator Monique Barrett has teamed with their production and assisted in taking the show to a new level.

Brooklyn, NY, born and raised, Monique started as a production assistant for music videos, which lead to higher end production jobs such as Assistant To the Director for CBS's "Amazing Grace." The job would later evolve to working as a talent coordinator for the Fuse TV show "Lay It Down" featuring Cee Lo Green, the Grammy's, The Rolling Stone's Pay Per View Special, "In Performance at the U.S. Presidential White House," BET "Comic View ATL," The Emmy Awards, The NAACP Image Awards, BET Hip Hop Awards, BET Award's and finally "Rip The Runway."

Monique has worked with some of the best talent coordinators, such as Chantelle Placido and talent booker, Debra Byrd. When asked how she accomplished such a successful career she replied, "It's about building a good rapport with people."

Fitness

Monique has a history in track and field, cross country, and discus shot put and has participated in marathons. She transitioned from runway modeling to pursuing fitness branding. Added to her busy entertainment schedule is her passion for health and fitness. Her current fitness activities include, running, spinning, hiking, Yoga, cross fit, weight training, swimming and rollerblading.

Inspired by a former wheel chair competitor who is paralyzed from the waist down, yet won every competition that he has been in, Monique is in full pursuit of her passion for fitness. She currently trains in preparation for such figure competitions as the International Federation of Body Building and Fitness (www.ifbb.com) and the National Physique Committee (www.npcnewsonline.com).

Other fitness personalities whom inspire Monique include body sculptors such as Alicia Marie (instagram.com/aliciamariebody) and Mankofit (Instagram.com/mankofit and Twitter.com/mankofit).

Fitness Advice

In transforming your physique, Monique says you first have to find a routine that works for you. You have to apply your diet to your work out and measure your intake of fats, proteins, vegetables, carbs and fibers. The preferred protein is whey because it breaks down easiest to feed your muscle. Protein is essential to muscle development as it is what muscle is mainly composed of. Her workouts include running, conditioning, some weights and resistance training. She is interested in adding swimming, surfing and MMA to her routines.

Members Club Owner

embers Club apparel line owner, Suga J, is an industry veteran. Once part of the late '90s rap group, Harlem World, he was able to acquire his industry contacts, and used them to support his brand. His wife, Ms. Nessa, owns her own line, RichGirlz, and also became a fashion staple in the entertainment industry, lending her styles to a number of stars from the VH1 series "Love & Hip-Hop."

Members Club Clothing is a high-end clothing line, exclusively sold online. Launched in September of 2012, the line gained a long-list of clientele within a matter of months. Members Club became a go-to label for celebrities from the worlds of music, television, modeling and sports.

"Right now we have the Super Bowl champs from the Baltimore Ravens, Brian McKinney, wearing it, super Grammy award winner, Rico Love, is actually wearing it, and Joe Budden from 'Love & Hip-Hop.' We have Floyd Mayweather. We have Fabolous supporting us. So, we have a great list of clientele and we're definitely blessed and thankful for it," stated Suga J in a previous interview with Black Men magazine.

Offering an array of garments, including silk t-shirts, silk and leather pants, jackets, tank tops, and many other items, Members Club is highly coveted for it's unique and exclusive designs. "We only have a few pieces made in each design, and after that design, we offer a new print. So, you'll never see the same print for over a month," Suga J explained, adding, "Everybody wants something that they can't get, and when you can't get it, it's more exclusive and more in demand."

For more information, check out MembersClubClothing.com.

AVARD VINNING DIRECTOR

anadian born Julien Christian Lutz—better known as Little X, X or Director X—is best known for his amazing work in music video direction. He also has his own clothing line Born and raised in Toronto, Ontario, X is of Trinidadian and Swiss descent.

X attended both Mayfield Secondary School and North Park Secondary School in Brampton, Ontario. A protégé of famed music video and film director, Hype Williams, X has been noted for his high-budget, visually distinctive music videos for popular music singles, including videos for The Wanted, R. Kelly, Usher, Kanye West, Jay-Z, Korn, David Guetta, Nelly Furtado, Sean Paul, Justin Bieber, Drake and Nicki Minaj. His trademark is tweaking the letterbox format—instead of just using black bars on the top and bottom of the frame to frame the image, many videos by X actually feature the bars opening vertically to reveal the video and closing vertically at the end, like a letter box.

Some of the videos he's worked on that you may have watched recently include, Drake's "Started from the Bottom," 2 Chainz's "No Lie," Rick Ross' "Diced Pineapples" and Justin Beiber's "Boyfriend." Some older works include, Total's "Sittin' Home," Redman's "I'll Bee Dat," DMX's "What's My Name?," Aaliyah's "Come Back in One Piece," Sisqo's "Thong Song (remix)," Fabolous and Nate Dogg's "Can't Deny It," and many, many more.

Marcus Blassingame

TSD (Talent Scout Development)

SD Agency is a management firm owned by CEO, Marcus Blassingame, who through image development, media exposure, publicity, marketing and expert industry experience, provides a vehicle which creates opportunity for brands, talent and product to unite and utilize the combination of all to expand the possibilities of successful careers in advertisement, promotion, marketing and entertainment.

As talent managers, or brand managers, TSD Agency guides the professional career of talents such as VH1's "Basketball Wives LA" star, Draya Michele. We oversee the day-to-day business affairs of the talent, advise and counsel talent concerning professional matters, long-term plans and personal decisions, which may affect their career. TSD's plan with Draya was to combat all the negative media suggested by the show, gossip sites and news with positive reinforcement of powerful, fashionable imagery, charitable works and the power of social media.

"I personally styled all of Draya's most powerful images, then marketed her EPK to the entertainment industry," stated Blassingame, adding, "Draya is now a business owner, advertising model, TV personality, and a force to be reckoned with."

TSD's booking department actually books events and shows for the talent represented. To date TSD has booked mostly every reality TV star from VH1's "Love & Hip Hop" to Oxygen's "Bad Girls Club."

Blassingame sometimes has also held the title of Executive Editor or Editor in Chief, where he's produced covers and content for a number of print magazines. He is generally responsible for the content of the publication and executing the ideas of the publisher with expertise and creative vision, which ultimately improves on the idea—making it more visually vibrant, interesting and marketable. The magazine titles Blassingame has worked on include Black Men, Today's Black Woman Style Report, Urban Ink, Hype Hair and Trace magazines.

Blassingame also used several resources in the media business to help his life-long soul mate and Lion's Tale Productions owner, Sharri Jones, fulfill her dream of producing movies. With the help of directors Melvin James and Trey Haley (Tri Destined Films) Lion's Tale released a short film titled While The Cat's Away, which was accepted to the Cannes Film Festival. Being that Blassingame is a black belt in Senshi Tori Jujutsu and practices MMA, look out for the next project that he says will be an action film inspired by his martial arts background. With over 15 years of experience in producing celebrity imagery for the likes of Alicia Keys, Trey Songz and Nicki Minaj, TSD's image production branch is able to direct and produce a professional portfolios, head shots, magazine covers, book covers or advertisements. "We have an arsenal or professional wardrobe stylists, costume designers, photographers, make up artists and hair stylists to help increase and maximize the brilliance of your project," Blassingame boasted.
