Ah, a fresh Octomom story!

Nadya Suleman plead not guilty for welfare fraud.

Apparently while she was out making public appearances and filming her masturbation film, she received $16K in food stamps and other public assistance.

She completely failed to report any of the monies that she was receiving from her new notoriety.

If she pays back the cash the charges will be dropped to a misdemeanor, if not she faces 6 years behind bars.

Kelly has gone totally GLAM!

TFM ran a small piece on Kelly Osbourne a couple of years back when she first began her transition from chubby reality star teen to picking up a sex symbol starter kit.

At the 2014 Golden Globes home girl tossed out the starter kit in exchange for a few “how to” photos. Great job Kelly!

It's a known fact that when a woman has a baby, it changes her body! With most women it's a temporary transformation in breast size, however in Kim Kardashian's case she just might have added a few inches to her hips and a fuller derrière! If the relationship last I'm sure Kanye will have fun making baby No. 2!

STORY OF THE MONTH

Sorry, this ain't gossip!

I'm throwing this in because there are a lot of people out there that really need our prayers and since this is without question the story of the month. 1.3 million Americans lost their unemployment insurance when Congress decided that despite their million dollar salaries and free (fill in the blank) they just couldn't find the cash to continue to assist millions of Americans pay their bills and keep food on the table. Brace yourself for the blowback!

RoboCop

In RoboCop, the year is 2028 and multinational conglomerate OmniCorp is at the center of robot technology. Overseas, their drones have been used by the military for years – and it's meant billions for OmniCorp's bottom line. Now OmniCorp wants to bring their controversial technology to the home front, and they see a golden opportunity to do it. When Alex Murphy – a loving husband, father and good cop doing his best to stem the tide of crime and corruption in Detroit – is critically injured in the line of duty, OmniCorp sees their chance for a part-man, part-robot police officer.

IN THEATRES NOW

Devils Due

After a mysterious, lost night on their honeymoon, a newlywed couple finds themselves dealing with an earlier-than-planned pregnancy. While recording everything for posterity, the husband begins to notice odd behavior in his wife that they initially write off to nerves, but, as the months pass, it becomes evident that the dark changes to her body and mind have a much more sinister origin.

Ride Along

When a tough undercover officer's (Ice Cube) future brother-in-law (Kevin Hart) joins him on an overnight shift, the wisecracking trainee gets accidentally embroiled in the seasoned cop's latest case.

Now, in order to prove that he is worthy of his future bride, he must survive the most insane night of his life.

G.B.F.

Story centers on the social warfare that erupts when two gay high school boys realize they must become GBFs to the most popular girls in school to improve their social status.

We are the Millers

Low level marijuana drug dealer David Clark is robbed of his money and stash, some of which he owes to his supplier. His boss, wealthy drug lord Brad Gurdlinger forces David to smuggle marijuana from Mexico in order to clear his debt. Realizing that one man attempting to get through customs is too suspicious, he hires a stripper stage-named Rose, a runaway teenage girl and his 18 year-old neighbor Kenny to pose as a bogus family called the "Millers".

I did not see this one coming. There was a point in the movie where I actually spit out my soda in laughter.

It made $237 million at the box office and in talking with friends, they enjoyed it too.

Great film!

Superman is back! It's low action in the beginning as we are taught the origins of the super hero and has a little too much action in the end but still a resurgence in the Superman brand!

Admissions

You would think that if you put Tina Fey and Paul Rudd together, it will equal movie magic. This film is one of those oh so scary all the funny parts are in the preview films...SKIP IT!

Album of the Month

This collection features the complete history of The Beatles. There are 11 albums featured which is highlighted by a 1964 spoken word recording with band interviews.

When the band first came out they were on an independent label so their initial releases we're getting the number of plays that they would later get once, they signed with Capital.

The first Beatles album hit American stores January 20, 1964. After their chart topping success, Capital released six Beatles albums in the span of three years. The iTunes collection will cost a cool $119.99 but if you have the scratch, it's money well spent.

What the hell happened to the Broncos? I saw a report that the NFL was investigating the Super Bowl because there was a suspicion that the game had been rigged. Without question, the story was a fake but there are many questions after the BIG GAME that remain unanswered. First, how was the #1 Offense in the NFL held to 8 points. Second, how did this well oiled offensive machine break down from the first play? This was too bad for it to be legit.

20 Mona Mae

Don't let the number fool you, Mona Mae is a TFM Diva and without question one of the publisher's favorite models of all time. From This Magic Moment Photos!

It has been mentioned in the magazine before - back in 2009 - that one of the fantastic factors of Mona Mae's portfolio is her authenticity.

If you look at personal photos of Mona, she looks just as awesome in those pics as she does all glammed up in a see-thru bra, black panties and white stockings...that's what every publisher is looking for.

11 Alexa

Photographer Jack Watson

Top Floor's first and only run in with censorship.

Here's the story...Alexa was our cover model and as we always do, we ran the cover on Facebook. The photo (left) was one that we considered to be safe to feature on the site where they feature clips of kids beating the shit out of each other on a daily basis without incident. Yet, we feature a woman, topless with her hands covering her breast...and all hell broke loose. The image was reported and we received comments about how kids used the site. It was the most ridiculous bunch of bullshit ever.

10 Sara

Photographer Jack Watson

Jack is a great photographer but when he first sent these photos, I thought "Oh my God, I'm not really sure what I'm going to do with these."

Then like a Prince album, the beauty grew on me and as I started to test the photos...people thought they were some of the sexiest photos that we've ever featured.

They are very raw!

You can't see it here, because we've toned down things a bit, but her front side in full, untrimmed and magnificent. It was as if Jack just happened to stumbled across her in these woods.

9 Mari

Photographer Veronica King

Top Floor Magazine's first Spokes-model, Mari was everywhere and on everything.

We had a product line featuring Mari's photo!

Back in the day, you could buy a Mari clock, mouse pad, t-shirt etc;

8 Nyomi

Photographer Jack Watson

When Jack first sent these photos, I was so naïve.

What we had was these beautiful African-American woman with an incredible body and blazing brown eyes named Nyomi.

It wasn't until more than a year later that I realized completely by accident that Jack had sent me photos of adult film star Nyomi Banxxx.

In fact, we featured her in the same year that she took home the hardware for Best MILF performer at the 2009 Urban X awards.

Nyomi is one of the few adult film stars to be featured in TEM.

Angel has appeared on the cover of Top Floor Magazine as a sexy school girl, Catwoman and for her latest cover...she was an amazing zombie.

The young lady that began as a model for Eddie and then his muse recently became his wife.

Congrats to the happy couple and we're looking forward to featuring more of Angel Lee in the future!

4 Caitlin

Photographer Jack Watson

Another model with a collection of TEM covers in her large portfolio.

Caitlin was TEM's Model of the Year 2011.

3 Kamille

Photographer Dwayne Larkin/Soberdadrunk Davis

You may remember Kamille from last months Get 2 Know article or the full page from the Model of the Month that we dedicated to her.

What can I say, I'm just really impressed with her photos.

I mention this in the last issue but when a model is willing to shave her head for a cause like breast cancer, there is little that can top that.

She is also the only model to crack on my mother in an interview...and I didn't edit it out.

2 Nickell

Still Top Floor Magazine royalty!

Nickell was the reason we created the Diva status.

Nickell has been featured on a number of covers including one of TFM's top selling covers in September of 2009, second only to the issue dedicated to Michael Jackson after his death.

You are NOT going to believe this story!

While I was working, putting together this section of the magazine, Nickell contacted us on Facebook.

After three years, Top Floor Magazine's ORIGINAL Diva is set to make her comeback.

Welcome Back!

1 Shelby

Photographer Shannon Gililand

2013 Model of the Year

Shelby has been by our side since 2009. Her dedication to Top Floor Magazine goes well beyond the photos that we've had the pleasure of featuring.

She has worked tirelessly to promote the publication and in 2014 she was named our Director of Social Media.

In addition, she is only the second model to be named an official Spokesmodel for TFM.

She's currently working to recruit a new team of models that will continue to move the mag forward.

CHRISTIE CREAMED

The closure caused major traffic problems in the city of Fort Lee which connects to New York City via the bridge.

The mayor of Fort Lee refused to endorse Christie for his run for re-election. After Christie's 22 point victory, Christie's deputy chief of staff Bridget Kelly sent an email to the Port Authority telling them "time for some traffic problems in Fort Lee."

The matter is being investigated by several parties to try to determine whether or not this was political payback for Fort Lee's mayor Mark Sokolich's lack of endorsement.

Chris Christie was at one time leading in the polls to become the GOP's next presidential nominee...that chance might be gone. I say might because there is no telling who the GOP will throw in there for the most powerful office in the world. When you look at the GOP's field of potentials, it reads like a playlist on your iPod, despite the fact that they vowed to change their tune after the Romney loss it's still the same song different day.

Back to Christie...

I want to say that I have always thought that he was an asshole. I've watched clip after clip of this guy being a completely dick to his constituents.

That said, I don't think that I will have to worry about Chris Christie becoming the leader of the free world anytime soon.

Christie is already the focal point of two New Jersey scandals and that list seems to be growing day by day.

In September of last year, the New Jersey port authority closed down two lanes of the George Washington bridge - the most traveled bridge in the world - for a "traffic study".

The Port Authority just happens to be filled with a large group of Christie appointees.

In fact, as soon as Christie took office he set about staffing the Port Authority with his supporters. The governor even got an old high school buddy in as an interstate capital projects director at $150K a year.

The entire ordeal was reported in the Bergen Record in 2012 but had no effect on the administration.

At this point, after jokingly stating that he was one of the workers placing the cones, the tough talking governor is eating humble pie in an attempt to convince the public that he had no knowledge of what was going on within his administration.

He has also fired the folks who were publically revealed in having a hand in the controversy by the media including his deputy chief of staff Bridget Kelly.

To date, no one has heard anything from Bridget Kelly but she has hired an attorney after her former attorney Walter Timpona stepped down.

If that we're enough to get a governor impeached, the Christie administration is now being accused of withholding Hurricane Sandy relief funds from the city of Hoboken for political reasons.

The city of 52,000 has about 11% registered republicans and when Hoboken mayor Dawn Zimmer asked for $130 million, she received $300,000 in relief funds.

Zimmer claims that the Lt. Governor Kim Guadagno told her in a Shop Rite parking lot that the relief funds would be held up if Zimmer didn't expedite a development project that Governor Christie had an interest in promoting.

The lawyer for The Rockefeller Group, who is in charge of the $2 million project, is a friend of Christie's. The group also has a history of donating to New Jersey politicians.

Zimmer also claims that the Lt Governor told her in no uncertain terms that if she ever went public with that statement, she would deny it...which she did.

Guadagno said the allegations were "particularly offensive" because she thought her and Zimmer were friends.

To prove her point, Zimmer has met with federal investigators and provided emails and diary entries to back up her statement.

To add more fuel to the fire...The Rockefeller Group is represented by Wolff & Samson PC, the law firm of the chair of the Port Authority, David Samson. Samson is one of Christie's advisors AND former Christie aide Lori Grafia is now a lobbyist for the Rockefeller Group.

The question that remains is whether or not Christie had any knowledge of the bridge or Sandy scandal.

Is it really feasible that he didn't?

I can guarantee you that on DAY ONE of the bridge scandal, the local news had to provide the people with a traffic report.

Then this...

Sept. 9, 2013: Two of three access lanes to the George Washington Bridge are closed, causing traffic chaos, especially in Fort Lee, at the mouth of the bridge in New Jersey.

Sept. 10, 2013: Fort Lee Mayor Mark Sokolich texts Bill Baroni, the deputy executive director of the Port Authority, about the traffic problem. "Help please. It's maddening." He says kids can't get to school.

Sept. 10, 2013: The Fort Lee EMS coordinator, Paul Favia, writes a letter to the mayor stating "this new traffic pattern is causing unnecessary delays for emergency services to arrive on scene for medical emergencies." He cites several examples of EMS crews being delayed to 911 calls, including a 91-year-old woman who later died.

Let's think of the governor as the father of the state. It's Christie's job to know exactly what's going on in his state and if there is a major problem, it's his job to fix it.

When the first reports of traffic problems on the busiest bridge hit the local news, where was Chris Christie...Africa? No. On September 10, 2013 he was at the Riletta Twyne Cream School in Camden, NJ. So...even if he didn't initiate it, any governor worth a damn should have known it was happening while it was happening. Especially after EMS in HIS state were being delayed and people were dying...instead, in December he shrugged it off and made a joke of it.

If Chris Christie used public resources for a political vendetta, that's a crime and if the investigation finds that he had no knowledge of it, then he's unfit for office. Either way he should be impeached.

NANCY

New World Order II

My fellow Americans...

Inspired by the POTUS's State of the Union, I would like to stimulate your minds with some food for thought when it comes to bringing back America (as it needs to be brought back) and salvaging the middle class.

I would like to start with Giving America a Raise/Unemployment Insurance.

There has been this line of thought that the unemployed people in this country are just uninspired dead beats that are looking for a hand out from the government.

Having been on that side of the fence, I can tell you that there is nothing further from the truth but I can certainly agree with the stigma associated with the long time unemployed.

In fact, I can recall a time in my life when a close friend lost his job and sat on his ass all-day collecting an unemployment check.

I thought "What a lazy SOB, I'm sure he could find a job if he just look".

It wasn't until I lost my job that I understood the true dynamics of unemployment.

When I first joined the group of "lazy, uninspired" Americans, I thought "No big deal, I'll have another job in a week".

I set up my family's budget with the thought that it would take a week to find and start a new job, maybe three weeks before I got another paycheck.

Two and half weeks, twenty applications and a steadily decreasing bank account later, I had to do the unthinkable...apply for unemployment!

I didn't receive ONE phone call from ANY of the applications that I had submitted...not ONE!

I was surprised by the fact that many of the entry level jobs during the recession were now asking for a bachelor's degree.

It's amazing how selective a company will be when the job market becomes flooded with applicants.

I was one of the fortunate ones because my prior position had a very nice salary, so when it came to the weekly percentage I was receiving, I was at the top of the unemployment check chain.

Forty applications...no calls!

The old school, hit the pavement and find a job method of job search was out the window. Which means, even when I got dressed in my Sunday's best to make that all important first impression and went door to door, I was quickly turned away with one simple phrase "Have you filled out our online application?"

Who the hell can afford the internet? I'm barely paying my mortgage! I skipped a meal to put the gas in the car to get here...are you kidding?

OK, let's regroup!

I have to decide if I'm going to keep the internet or travel five miles to the library on a daily basis to submit applications.

Let's keep the internet.

Nine months...my days are beginning to resemble one long week, I'm going stir crazy! Morning trips to the store become performances where I star as a man with a job. I rush through the store to give the impression that I had to fit this trip into my busy day...I have places to be! The truth is I could have crawled through the store on my hands and knees, did the back stroke or shopped with a blind fold trying to guess whether or not I could find the items I needed because I had the time. I had all the time in the world. I could have walked the mile to and from the store, picking up one item at a time because that's all I had...time.

Sixty applications and a year later...

My mother in law has moved in with us to pay the mortgage. My wife and I have moved out of our bedroom and set up our love nest in the basement of our home.

My mother in law works third shift, leaving the upper level of our home empty at night. Our young children, fearing for the lives, decide to make the move with us. My entire family is sleeping in the basement, one room log cabin style.

Our home is a split level, meaning there are no doors to the basement. No doors equals no privacy! I don't think I even need to go into the details of having two kids sleeping with you or how the lack of something as simple as a door can impact a marriage.

365 days and every bill is behind!

Our phone rings every 15-20 minutes!

We finally get tired of fielding every single collection call, allowing them to go to voicemail.

The phone rings so often that we change our voicemail from four rings to two and if we forget to play the voicemails regularly, they will be full by dinner time which will cause the phone to ring eight, nine, ten times or until the collector finally decides to hang up.

Then Congress starts to fuck with us!

Luckily, if you want to call it that, my wife and I were unemployed at the end of George W. Bush and the beginning of the Barack Obama administration.

At the time, Congress still had some compassion.

Every single time an extension went to the floor for a vote, I sat on the edge of my seat listening to every news story, every radio program, hoping and praying that the legislative body of which I had absolutely no control over, would find it in their hearts to keep that check coming until I could find a job.

It was during this time that I became disgusted with the entire legislative process.

I was being accused of being lazy, a term that I have always hated. I was being told by our leaders that all I need to do was pull myself up by my boot straps at a time when I couldn't buy shoes.

It was also at this time that paranoia set in.

As our bills got further and further behind, every noise became a threat. Every car that drove by became someone coming to turn something off. The first thing that I did every single morning was check to see whether or not our car was still in the driveway.

If I heard anything outside, I would run to the window to make sure the electric, water or gas company hadn't come for their pound of flesh.

Some of the battles that I had during the time I was unemployed was truly epic.

The water company came to shut us off early one morning on the same day that we got our unemployment check. I pleaded with the asshole to just give me enough time to pay the bill. I stood in my front yard with cell phone and debit card in hand, making the payment as I watch the fucker take his tools from his truck and turn off our water. I was standing no more than four feet away from him as he went about his business and he didn't make it to the end of our street before I had made the payment...I listened to the confirmation number as he turned the corner.

The gas company was a hoot!

They turned off our gas and we did without hot water for a week. We all had to boil two pots of water to take a bath. The kids got two pots and bathed together and my wife and I bathed separately. At the end of the week, when we got our next unemployment check we called to pay the gas bill...ah, just one more day.

What many might not know is that if your gas is turned off before they turn it back on they check to make sure that you don't have any leaks...great idea! It doesn't matter if you had a leak before they turned it off but damn it you better not have one when they come to turn it back on.

When they came to turn our gas back on...we had a leak!

It was nearly two months before we saved the money to get the leak fixed...we had to prioritize.

At the time, it was more important to keep the lights on, food on the table and a few dollars in case the kids needed something. We looked at boiling water to wash dishes and bathe as a small inconvenience.

Of course, it wasn't until later that we realized that the constant boiling of water for our daily needs would lead to an overabundance of condensation on nearly every wall in our house. Condensation that would eventually turn to mold...but I'll come back to that.

When we got the leak fixed we called the gas company to come turn our gas on. It was an exciting day! No one in the house had taken a shower for almost two months and I was really looking forward to just turning on the water and stepping in without having to wait 30 minutes to take a bath.

A guy shows up from the gas company, he checks the leak...all good! He goes outside to turn us back on and seconds later he returns to the door. It seems that our bushes on the side of the house are, for some reason, denying him access to our gas meter. The same bushes that WHOEVER had no problem navigating to turn us off.

It's not like the bushes had sprung up in the last two months!

I grabbed our trimmers, ran outside and began to chop away at those bushes without any discrimination. It didn't matter that they had been carefully manicured to keep our house looking somewhat respectable, I was chopping those fuckers down...I needed to take a shower and this asshole was the key to flowing warm water bliss.

About two minutes in to my attack on our shrubbery the motherfucker had the audacity to imply that he didn't have the time to wait for me to trim our bushes.

As the sweat was pouring off me as I asked him to just give me a second. Any attempts to leave those bushes looking decent went out the window as I cleared a nice hole for this pansy ass to reach in with his tool in, make a few turns and return hot water to our household.

The abuse from the electric was verbal. To their credit, they are more apt to go out of their way to work with people who are struggling to make their payment. They offer a variety of programs, including a budget option that allows their customers to make a payment that is more suitable to what they can afford.

My only nightmare moment came in the form of an employee that, during a particularly difficult time, chose to remind me that “We all still have to pay our bills.”

Thanks, I had no idea!

To make matters worse, our subprime mortgage ballooned! Yes, to add to all the other challenges our mortgage went up to $1065 a month, a rate that was uncomfortable for my mother in law to pay and she worked for the State.

I haven't even mentioned health care.

Believe it or not, unemployment insurance provides a check but not benefits.

Both of our kids were on a very short leash. Our fear was something would happen to them that would cause a trip to the emergency room thereby sending us further into the deep, dark tunnel of debt.

While my wife and I COMPLETELY ignored all of our small illnesses, we didn't hesitate to make sure the children were taken care of.

However as with everything else, we all had our major problems, here are some of the highlights...

- Youngest was bitten by a dog. The small bite with the skin barely broken caused a discoloration in her hand that slowly made its way up her arm - trip to the emergency room.
- My wife lost her balance, causing her to turn her ankle - trip to the emergency room.

- Oldest had an outbreak of bumps and discoloration on her legs, arms and mouth - two trips to the emergency room and a trip to the doctor. Diagnosed with impetigo. We later learned that the medicine we were treating it with initially was making it worse.

- While cutting down a huge tree branch that became lodged in a tree I decided to pull the branch out. The branch rushed to the ground and before I could get out of the way, the other end bounced up and smacked me in the chin - trip to the emergency room. Eight stitches!

The fortunate and unfortunate reality of the emergency room is they can't refuse treatment to anyone.

While we were all treated for our illnesses or, in my case, stupidity the end result was thousands of dollars in medical bills.

During this entire ordeal, friends and family were relatively supportive. Not financially supportive but supportive. The only thorn in my side came in the form of a single question..."How's the job search going?"

The look on their faces as I explained that I hadn't found a job despite the fact that I had put in countless applications was priceless.

There was a time when the same thoughts that were surely crossing their minds had crossed my own..."surely McDonalds is hiring".

So I tried to stay a step ahead of them, explaining the amount of money that I was getting from unemployment was X and no matter how comfy/cozy it would make all of us, I can't just except any position...it's simple math.

If I took a job at WalMart, I would take a $340 a month pay cut.

If I took a job minimum wage job, that would mean a pay cut of $460.

I was already damn near in tears every time I walked into a grocery store...I'll be damn if I was about to throw more money out the door so I could hold my head high and pay taxes.

Which brings me to Give America a Raise!

The GOP has a teenie, tiny, sliver of the argument right when it comes to unemployment. I want to phrase this correctly so please bare with me... While unemployment insurance provides Americans an opportunity to get back on their feet, it also prevents some individuals from re-entering the workforce.

As with my situation, I can only assume that there are many Americans that are simply doing the math until the clock runs out and their hand is forced.

However, if these so called "entry level" jobs paid a livable wage there would be more American tax paying, goods buying, economy building citizens.

Roughly 16% of Americans (48 million) - I'm using these estimated number because it has been determined that the reported 15% is off by at least a percentage point - live at or below the poverty level.

Using the 15% poverty rate, there are 26 countries that have a lower poverty rate than the richest country in the world.

- China 13.4%
- Canada 9.4%
- Thailand 8.1%
- Switzerland 6.9%
- France 6.2%
- Ireland 5.5%
- Taiwan (where a lot of our goods are made) 1.16%

So what is Taiwan doing that we aren't? They are a democracy which is ranked highly in freedom of press, education, health care and economic freedom.

The Taiwan economy is dominated by small and medium sized businesses instead of large corporations...hmmm.

Taiwan's educational budget is approximately $608 billion vs. $20 billion for the US.

The Wrap Up

There is nothing easy about living on any type of public assistance.

In the society that we live in where we are judged by the type of car we drive, the clothes that we wear, where we live and how much bling that we're flashing. I can't imagine how any politician would think that there is a huge group of the population that doesn't want to work.

Here's what's so sick and sad!

Yes, there are many among us that have no desire to work and no that's not a contradiction to what I just wrote and here's why...

Those among us who aren't willing to work...don't!

They are the people who sell their bodies, drugs, rob, steal, con, beg and borrow!

The people in our society that TRULY don't want to work aren't eligible for unemployment insurance because they tend to lean toward a life of crime and/or easy money.

Thanks to Ronald Reagan and his "welfare queens", the American people have blurred the lines between people who need assistance and people who are stealing from and abusing the system. There are too many people who see them as the same person...and they're not!

Receiving unemployment is NO CAKE WALK!

For the millions of Americans that depend on that assistance to get back on their feet, it can truly mean the difference between life and death.

Those folks that you complain about that get a welfare check with a Cadillac in the driveway...they are breaking the law. I don't care if that welfare queen has 20 babies, the amount that the government provides per child will be barely enough to feed them.

There was a time when we all assumed that politicians lie...newsflash, they still do! As Americans we need to make more informed judgments and stop demonizing those truly in need.

Honey West Presents

Valentine Interview

As our readers may remember, I recently interviewed the publisher of Top Floor magazine and asked him some very sexy and personal questions. He agreed to answer the questions only if I agreed to also! Uh oh! Since I'm a chick who always keeps my promises (well, almost always hee hee), here are my answers to the same sexy questions I asked him. . And since this is TF's annual Valentine's issue, I thought it was the most appropriate time to reveal ALL the super secret sexy facts about myself that I'm sure our readers are just dying to know. Right? So let's get to it!

DD: What's your wildest sexual fantasy?

HW: Hmmm, that's a difficult question..... I have so many! This might sound weird, but having sex with Dracula is one of my favorites...

And not just the bite on the neck, but total submissive, wild lovemaking with the King Of The Undead! Ever since I was a kid, I always loved horror movies, especially the "old school" stuff, and Dracula was the sexiest guy I could possibly imagine because he had it all going on...he was dominating, mysterious, and his persona wasn't just about sex - he could magically transport his female "victims" to a strange realm to exist as his vampire slaves forever in his castle. Woo hoo! My fantasies have matured a bit over the years, and so far, I haven't met Dracula, (damn!) But who knows, maybe someday I'll get lucky and run into him at a Halloween party lol..... In the meantime until the real thing comes along, I have to settle for a guy who's willing to wear a kinky black cape and fangs lol...

DD: What's the hottest porn scene you've ever watched? And I mean THE hottest, the one your mind goes to repeatedly when you want to really get turned on?

HW: This is a very easy question. The hottest scene I've watched was one I saw when I used to write porn reviews. It features hunky male porn star Derrick Pierce who, in my opinion, is the hottest man alive. The scene is called "Sex For Grades" and it's him and hottie Lexi Belle as a naughty schoolgirl. I gotta admit, I do luv schoolgirl scenes!

He's so great because in the opening scene, he's casually sitting behind his "teacher's desk", looking sultry and somewhat menacing, and you know it's gonna turn into some major hot action. And it does! He forces (entices?) Lexi to do various naughty things to him so that he can award her with a "gold star"...the goal is for her to accumulate five gold stars and be his top student.....of sex, that is! Lol.... I just loved the overall feel of this particular scene because the two of them have such chemistry, along with his domination of her. It's not violent or abusive - he plays it very lowkey, sensual and calculating. My first thought when I saw him was, "Holy Shit!" and I haven't changed my mind since! A+ for Sex For Grades!

DD: What's your fave song/music for lovemaking...

HW: I love classic, old school rock, my favorite group from that era is The Doors, so it would probably be anything in their repertoire.... probably "Light My Fire" for obvious reasons, it's so erotic, gets me in the mood every time, and Jim Morrison, their lead singer, has to be the hottest front man in all of rock history.. I'm not too impressed by the music that's out there today. Some of it is okay, but I tend to go back again and again to classic rock. "Light My Fire" is so timeless, it has all the elements that set the stage for a very intense session - the lyrics, the mood, the ambiance of the whole song....

DD: Do you enjoy talking "dirty" to get your man in the mood, and if so, what's your absolutely favorite "dirty" word(s)? Don't hold back...be honest!

HW: Oh, hell yes! I love dirty talk lol..... intimate partners should absolutely feel free to say "taboo" words if that's what they're into...if people can't do it with their lover, their sexual partner, and drop the social pretenses, who can they do it with? However, I don't get turned on by a continuous stream of words like "fuck" or "pussy", that's boring in the extreme. Maybe I've watched too much porn over the years lol....I'm a bit jaded when it comes to sexual words. The word "cock" does nothing for me. But there's certain words, like "bottom", the vintage dirty "peep show" talk, that can really turn me on. For me, that's a lot "dirtier" and more of a turn on than hardcore words we all hear so often in today's "free" sexual world that are now so overused that they've lost their shock value. People are de-sensitized at this point. Often, less is more. It has to be tailored to the individual. But dirty words are a major turn on as long as it's not the "same old same old". And as the saying goes, if it's not dirty, you're not doing it right!

DD: Shaved, unshaved, or do you have a preference?

HW: Shaved, although it depends on mood and situation. I grew up in an era when shaving "down there" was unheard of, it simply wasn't done. Not that long ago, if a chick shaved off all her pubic hair, she'd be perceived as a really abnormal, freakish weirdo. So, things have changed a lot over the years, a huge shift in attitudes and behavior. Porn from the 70's with all the major bush is actually rather hot to watch. and there's porn sites devoted to natural hairy chicks, but I don't think people are going to ever fully go back to that look. Shaved definitely has its benefits, but there's room for all preferences. I think any woman who hasn't tried shaving, should at least be open to it, because it's so smooth and nice. It can also be a pain in the butt to maintain! Everything has a trade off!

DD: Most embarrassing thing that's ever happened to you in a sexual situation?

HW: haha, probably farting at an inappropriate moment! Or is that TMI? Lol....

DD: What was your "first time" like?

HW: Well, let's put it this way: it wasn't like the movies or the romance novels, that's for sure. I found out that being happy sexually can take a long time and it's a journey over years before things start to make sense and happen in a way that's pleasurable for both partners. Any chick who thinks her first time is gonna be instantly orgasmic or fireworks exploding or violins playing, all perfect and satisfying, is fooling herself. And unfortunately I fell into that category of thinking it would be like that. A lot depends on who you're with, the love, the care and the patience of the guy. It doesn't have to be a major romantic connection, but it helps from the caring standpoint. So, it was a major learning experience, to put it mildly. If I thought the "first time" was the way it would be forever, I'd have given up immediately and stayed celibate! But luckily things did improve lol....

DD: You've interviewed a lot of very hot porn/adult stars. If you could have a threeway, which two would you pick to fulfill your freakiest sexual scenario?

HW: I'd pick Derrick Pierce because he's absolutely the sexiest, most gorgeous guy in the adult world, bar none.

He's the perfect blend of dominating and sensuous, combined with a sense of humor and a stunningly handsome face and ripped bod. To round out the threeway, I'd choose porn star Kylie Ireland.

Not only is she a super kinky fun chick, and a beautiful redhead with an amazing body, she's similar to Derrick because she's witty, generous, and adventurous. She'd be open to trying almost anything! Plus, she'd make me laugh, which is always a prerequisite for anything sexual, because without laughter and fun, finding that mental connection, it's not gonna create that ultimate buzz that makes it all worth it. These two would make just sitting around having a cup of coffee a threeway explosion of fun. Sexually, my head would spin to have a threeway with these legends! I'm quite sure I couldn't keep pace with them, but I probably wouldn't try.... maybe I'd just lie back and let them violate me haha....Or, I could enjoy watching Derrick and Kylie go at it. No matter what happened, I'd think I'd died and gone to heaven!

DD: What are your three favorite parts of a man's body?

HW: Eyes, hands, and hair. As they say, the eyes are the window to the soul, and I love guys with "bedroom eyes" beckoning me to come closer. Long eyelashes are also a big turn on. Maybe I just like pretty dudes lol.... I used to be very attracted to guys with brown eyes and still am, but honestly, the color can be anything, as long as there's a deep, intriguing or challenging vibe coming from his eyes. I love hands because some guys just have beautiful hands -that you KNOW instinctively are gonna feel strong yet caressing. I love hair..... I miss the days of long hair on guys. True, there's some stunning baldies out there (like Derrick Pierce!), but a part of me wants to see a return to the long, silky hair from the 60's. Maybe Fabio is my kind of guy lol....great to run my fingers through!

DD If you were ever lucky enough to meet Hugh Hefner at the Playboy mansion, what one question would you ask him?

HW: Just like you, I'm a big admirer of Hef, he blazed a lot of trails and started it all. Well, I'd probably ask him if my cleavage would qualify me for Playmate Of The Year!

....just kiddin....

Or I might ask what REALLY happens in that grotto.hmmmm? Seriously, I'd probably ask him who his favorite Playmate of all time is., in particular I'd ask him about Dorothy Stratton (Playmate of the year 1980) and how her tragic life/death affected him.. There's so much mystery and sadness surrounding her. But unfortunately, I think he'd freak out and be closed mouthed about her, which would probably mean he'd stop talking to me and I'd lose my golden opportunity to hear the juicy insider stuff! With Hef, I'd play my cards close to the vest, (or breast? lol), and choose my words carefully to keep him talking because I think he's a fairly private guy.

So, Mr. Publisher, I hope you're satisfied now that I've fulfilled my part of the bargain and answered the same Top Ten Sexiest Questions that I (naughtily) forced you to answer! And I've learned my lesson... it's not easy being on the receiving end, so from now on, I'll stick to being the interviewer rather than the interviewee! Happy Valentine's, lovers! Have a sweet day! XXXXOOOO!

Crazy like a Fox

Reporting the news without ANY Facts

The Five - When confronted with the question of whether or not Eric Bolling would take the advice of 97 doctors who told him that a lump on his lung was something to worry about or the three that told him it was nothing to worry about. Bolling said "It really matter to me if the 97 doctors were getting paid to tell me there was a lump on my lung and it was bad." THIS STORY IS A FACT! It simply amazes me that people still watch Fox News.

Los Angeles, CA - A source close to Vida Guerra claims the model/television personality is really concerned that her ass is getting smaller.

After months of working out, Guerra's derriere has gone from a wonderfully nice and voluminous 37" to a mere 36". According to the source, she's incredibly upset.

Despite being incredibly fit for a 39 year old woman, the inch that Guerra lost from her hips has thrown her into a deep depression. Most recently she released a Christmas twerking video to help her snap out of it. We hope she recovers soon!

Washington, DC - A source close to Governor Chris Christie recently revealed that there was no way that the governor could have known about the lane closures that left traffic coming out of a small New Jersey town. It turns out that Christie had gone on a five day eating binge at an undisclosed location where he could not be reached by family or staff. When he emerged...all hell had broke loose in his office. The only question remaining is whether or not Christie ordered the closure before he went away...we'll keep you posted as this story develops.

Boston, MA - "It's not that cold outside." That's all seventeen year old Kurt Brock said to cause an all out argument with his parents during a January winter storm. According to our sources, Kurt wanted to wear shorts, Vans and a t-shirt to class and when questioned by his mother he screamed the above statement and stormed past her. Moments later, his father Timothy Brock ordered the unruly teen out into the cold wearing nothing but his undershorts. After fifteen long minutes Timothy shot this photo and told Kurt to go back inside and put on a "goddamn sweater and slacks."

Experience as a model: All my life!

Is Modeling a career / hobby?

I was originally a kid model and did a handful of commercials and then as I got older I sort of lost interest and in college I picked it back up again as a way to pay bills and instantly fall right back in love with it!

As we all know though modeling doesn't last forever so it's more a part-time career and my education and full time job are the bigger priority.

Location:

Red Bank, NJ

Where did you grow up?

Little Silver, NJ

How did you get into modeling?

Easy...my mom was a beauty pageant winner and by the age of 3 I was striking poses and itching to be in front of the camera. My first job was a dog food commercial with my mom and our family dog, I was 4.

What have you learned NOT to do since you've been in the business?

The modeling business is flaky which is why I have learned to make the priority on the longevity of a more traditional career and focusing on my education.

Where do you want to go with your modeling?

I love to travel, the more places I can visit while I'm modeling the more successful I consider myself to be at following my dreams.

If you could have any job in the world other than modeling what would it be?

My dream job is to work in Marketing for the NFL...GO GIANTS!

Where do you see yourself in 10 years?

I live my life day by day so who knows...but I'm sure it's right where I'm meant to be!

Are you a good dancer?

I can't learn a choreographed dance for the life of me but freestyle dancing I think I'm decent.

What type of music are you into?

I listen to it all! Well everything except country...sorry I just can't it's just so cheesy!

What was the last song you listened to?

It was Bruno Mars, "If I Your Man"

Would you ever spice things up by dancing for your man?

Of course! My man deserves whatever I can give!

What's the wildest thing you've ever done?

I'm known for last minute trips...pack my bags and let's go!

What's the wildest thing you ever seen?

What haven't I seen...I spend 60% of my time in NYC you do the math

So, when it comes to the opposite sex how important are looks?

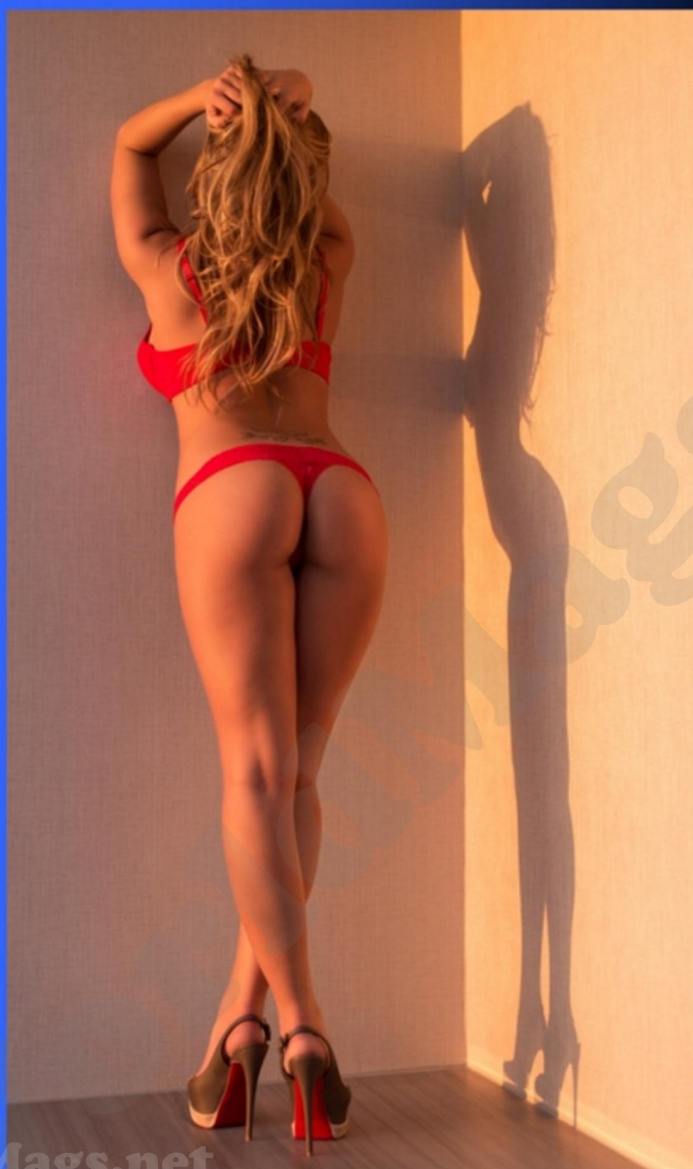

Looks are important because that's where the attraction begins but if after getting to know you, you can't hold an intelligent conversation or make me laugh...I'll show you the door.

What type of man do you like?

I LOVE a confident man!

Are you the romantic laid back type or are you a wild child?

A little bit of both...I can be wild and crazy and untamable at times but on the other end I can be an easygoing chill girl when the time calls for it.

Turn ons:

Confidence...confidence...oh and confidence...good sense of humor and adventurous, doesn't hurt if you can cook too

Turn offs:

Jealousy...green doesn't look good on anyone!

What do you do for fun when you're not modeling?

Snowboarding in the winter or hanging at the beach in the summer riding my skateboard on the boardwalk.

Are you a designer label or whatever looks good type of girl?

A little bit of both...I love my designer shoes and purses but have no issue buying a $25 dress and rocking it to the max!

Wal-Mart or Macy's?

Macy's

Thong, Granny Panties or nothing at all?

Thong or nothing at all...do girls still wear granny panties?

I'm sure some still do...lol!

Sex or Shopping?

Definitely sex!

Who would you like to give a shout out to?

The list would be too long because I have been fortunate enough to come in contact with some really amazing and talented people so in general I'd like to thank my friends, family, fellow models, photographers, and anyone else I may have missed!

Special thank you to Top Floor, Dan Gregory Photography, and TommyB Photo for making this awesome feature happen!

Thanks for the shout out, the pleasure was all ours!

Award-winning photographer Jack Watson has crafted a unique book dedicated to female glamour images created in black and white to honor the famous Hollywood stills photographers of the 1920's and 30's. With the help of a large collection of stunning glamour models who have been featured globally in many print, web, and video media including Playboy Enterprises™, Watson shows you how he creates sensuous, seductive glamour black and white images out of virtually any color glamour photograph. Dispelling the myth that not all color images make good black and white images, this book illustrates how virtually any glamour photo can be used to create the look of the Hollywood masters.

Jack Watson's Complete Guide to Creating Black and White Female Glamour Images includes a CD with every photo in the book. All of the black and white photos started out as color digital files. They have been provided in their original color form for your unrestricted non-commercial use. This book is for those who have some basic Photoshop skills and want to broaden their horizons and experiment with additional plug-ins and software such as Nik Color Efex Pro Complete, Nik Silver Efex Pro, Topaz Adjust, and Topaz BW Effects. It's also for anyone who just loves looking at beautiful black and white female glamour images.

While most of the images in the book are "sexy" in nature, a number of examples show how sexy is not always the naked truth, but quite the contrary. Clothed or nude, the female form is a thing of beauty. At the very least, this book will make you rethink what is truly glamorous. Creating black and white glamour photos will help you see with your brain and feel with your heart. Remember it's not what you see in a photograph that moves you; it's what you don't see. So, boot up your computer, open your favorite photo software, and put the CD in the drive, and create some magic.
