WHAT THE FUCK

WTF 1

Black Men in U.S. Prisons Could Fill The Prisons

of 9 Countries Combined When President Barack Obama said that "more young Black men languish in prison than attend colleges and universities in America."

* at the NAACP Democratic Candidate Forum several years ago, that information moved many listeners emotionally.

Studies have since debunked that statistic, but this in no way means that the number of Black men who are incarcerated is not staggering.

According to U. S. Census estimates, there are around 18,508,926 Black males in the United States.

According to The Bureau of Justice Statistics

"National Prisoner Statistics Program in 2013, out of that population—which includes both children and elderly males—an astonishing 745,000 are incarcerated, either in federal or local jails.

But even more astonishing is how the United States ranks against other nations. India, for example, boasts a population of 1.2 billion people—around four times that of the United States—and has only about 380,000 inmates in all its jails.

To take it further, there are more Black men incarcerated in the United States today than the total prison populations of India, Argentina, Canada, Israel, Lebanon,

Finland, Germany, France and England combined.

Political motivations may have a hand in this,

according to Nicole Porter's article,

"Politics of Black Lives Matter."

Between 1965 and 1990,

a period during which overall and violent crime rates tripled in Germany, Finland, and the United States,

German politicians chose to hold the imprisonment rate flat,

Finnish politicians chose to substantially reduce theirs

, and American politicians

generally enacted policies that sent more people to prison, along with lengthened prison terms.

These incarceration rates are also grossly out of proportion to the ratio of incarcerated women in America.

While there is a total of almost 161,000,000

women in America of all races,

the entire women's prison population is only around 200,000, according to the Sentencing Project.

To put that in starker perspective, while Black men are only about a tenth the size of the entire American female population, they are nearly 4 times more likely to be incarcerated.

Although President Obama's original assertion about

Black men in prison

may be outdated, it does not change the overarching epidemic of black male incarceration in America.

While 1.4 million Black men attend colleges,

745,000 are locked up (and many more on probation or parole).

That ratio needs to change,

or in the words of President Obama,

"We have more work to do..."

WTF2

When Mark Smith found out that he was about to be a father, his excitement was beyond words. When he eventually found out he was having a boy, he was even happier.

He thought of baseball games, football games, fishing, camping, all the things that a father does when raising his son. His wife however never seemed as excited as him, but he just figured it was the nervous jitters of a new mom.

Let's fast-forward through the next nine months. Smith's wife, Janice Smith, alerted her husband that her water had broke and it was finally time.

He grabbed a bag that had been packed for the last week, put his wife in the car, and headed to the hospital. After an intense 12 hours of labor his son, who they had prepared to name Jordan, came into the world. Unfortunately Mark Smith's excitement for the birth of his firstborn son turned into confusion as they handed him an African-American baby.

A nurse reported the events that occurred to a friend at the local news affiliate. And word seemed to spread like wild fire.

"What is this? What happened? Honey our son is black!" said Smith. Janice tried to look confused herself. She continued to say "I don't know."

I feel sick, I can't answer these questions for you right now.

I just had a baby". Mark Smith responded, "Yes honey, a black baby."

Reports state that after one hour in recovery,

Janice finally remembered what happened.

"Mark, I think I know what happened.

Do you remember that one day last summer when I went down to the pool?

I went into the Jacuzzi to relax my aching muscles.

As I was getting in, there was a black man that was getting out of the pool.

He had a strange look on his face, you know, kind of guilty. I think he did something in the pool and that's how I got pregnant.

You know I don't know any black people. That's the only way it could have happened."

Regardless of Janice Smith "facts", her husband could not accept her story. They are currently awaiting their divorce, no DNA test was needed.

WTF3

Chicago mother arrested for raping a man at gunpoint

Ciera Ross, a mother of two, has been arrested and charged with raping a man.

According to CBS Chicago, Ross and a friend were driving on the North Side of Chicago when they saw a man walking down the street in late July.

Ross, 25, stopped and asked the 33-year-old man if he wanted a ride.

The man took the offer, but Ross' true intentions became evident when she pulled a gun on the man.

She forced the man to go to the backseat and told him to have sex with her friend.

The man pleaded for the women to stop after they made him fondle the woman's breasts and butt.

Ross then ordered the man to take his clothes off and her friend began to assault him sexually.

The women also took $200 and credit cards from the man.

The male victim was able to escape when he saw a taxi cab and ran from the car naked.

The cab driver allowed the man to use his cellphone to take a picture of Ross' license plate.

Chicago police arrested Ross on Sept. 3 and the victim identified her as the assailant.

Ross has been arrested for prostitution in the past, but she recently held a position at Denny's as a waitress.

She was charged with rape and armed robbery and held on a $75,000 bond.

Her friend has yet to be charged.
