She Works Hard for the Money

Often men will approach me acting as though they are interested in doing business with me when they clearly have ulterior motives. The most common (and most innocent) example of how men work the business angle is when I tell them I teach Pilates one-on-one. I can't tell you how many guys will say they want to take Pilates when they first meet me, when they are really hoping to get a date. I used to offer a complimentary thirty-minute session to prospective clients, until I realized that most of the men who were taking advantage of this offer were simply wasting my time. After their thirty minutes were up, they would not purchase a package and would ask me out to dinner instead. My answer would unequivocally be, "No!" These men honestly would have had a better chance with me had they been upfront about their intentions.

A man once approached me at a club telling me he could help me build my Pilates business. He had connections to the cast of a popular primetime evening show and offered to help market me as a "Pilates instructor to the stars." I agreed to meet him for dinner, but as he drew the curtains around the table and poured me a glass of red wine, I realized this was not a business meeting. Later when I refused to kiss this guy, he accused me of using him. Excuse me—Who had offered to help? I was only guilty of being too naïve thinking that his help didn't come with strings attached. If he had wanted a date, he should have just asked if he could take me to dinner. I may or may not have said yes, but at least neither one of us would have felt taken advantage of.

The best example of a man not being clear with his intentions occurred a few years ago when a modeling agency sent me on a job interview for a personal assistant position. I thought it was odd that someone would call a modeling agency for a PA, but I trusted the agency that sent me out on the interview. I suppose, given the choice, any man would prefer to have an assistant who is easy on the eyes. Once at the job interview, I asked what my daily tasks would be. My prospective employer told me that there would be some clerical work, but when we are slow, we would take hikes, get manicures, and go shopping together. Now that sounded like my kind of job! But of course, I'm smart enough to know that this position did not seem legit. This man then proceeded to tell me that he would take me to dinner at some of the best restaurants in town as well as on trips to Vegas and Miami. When he asked me how I felt if he "put a giant necklace on me," I mustered the courage to ask him whether he was looking for an assistant or a girlfriend. He assured me that he was indeed looking for an assistant, but that we would be spending a lot of time together, and I just might end up liking him. Needless to say, I declined that job and resented losing three hours of my life at that "job interview."

I'm sure this kind of thing happens all the time with the models and actresses here in Los Angeles, and it's very unfortunate because a lot of us girls are out there working really hard to pay the bills. When guys like these offer us opportunities, we want to be open to the possibility; however, when we discover that many of these men have ulterior motives, we feel upset because they've not only wasted our time, but also messed with our money. Then we really don't want to go out with them.

If you're a guy who has used this tactic in the past, I really hope you start to become clear about your intentions from now on. If a date is what you want, ask for a date! She might say yes, and if she says no, then you are saving yourself a great deal of frustration. Now, of course, you're always welcome to help a girl out, but if you want more than a business relationship, please either let her know so she doesn't feel duped, or don't get mad if she rejects your advances later on. A woman always wants to be taken seriously in her profession, so she might not want to mix business with pleasure, and her time is just as precious as yours. A true gent is impeccable with his word and will never offer to help if he doesn't intend to follow through, regardless of what he's getting—or not getting—out of the situation.

XOXO,
Amy

The Fate of Country Music

I have been reading a lot of articles, blogs, and such about the current state of country music. The hardcore country music lovers, who still believe there are only two types of music, country AND western, have taken up issue with what is being penned, 'Bro-Country'. This is the music of country superstars like Luke Bryan, Jason Aldean and Florida Georgia Line and these critics are screaming these guys are, "destroying country music".

With this in mind, I thought I would share my perspective on this matter. Being in the music business for over 30 years I have seen a lot of changes on the music scene. I also have come to understand the business and what makes it tick. There's a harsh reality that a lot of fans seem to overlook, "Music is a business and Sales drives the music". The record companies are in the business of making money more than they are in the business of making good (or bad) music. The music is simply a means to an end, profit.

Let's take Florida Georgia Line and their huge 2013 mega hit "Cruise". This song smashed record after record from sales to weeks atop the Billboard Country charts. Many country music fans took serious issue with the remix of this that featured a rap by Nelly. That version of the song helped propel the song to be a huge hit among both the country fans as well as the pop fans. This was good marketing and good business. There really was nowhere during the summer of 2013 that you could not hear that song being played. Furthermore, it took the band from a little known group to superstardom.

Florida Georgia Line

This is no different from times in the past when country artists created a pop version of their music or made a more "pop" sound and crossed over from the country to mainstream music listeners. Take Charlie Daniels and the Oak Ridge Boys in the 80's. No one can tell me Elvira was a "country" song. It was really a lot like "Cruise" just minus Nelly. Like the Florida Georgia line hit, you could hear Elvira on every radio station and every cassette player in America for a summer. I saw the Oak Ridge Boys in concert the summer of 81 and I think they did 13 encores of that song.

Let's take some more recent examples like Garth Brooks and Taylor Swift. The first two Garth albums could be considered country, but after that, he strayed to appeal to a more mainstream audience. In fact, in 1994, he performed with the rock gods KISS. In all reality, is there much of a difference between singing with the masked men or Nelly?

Then there is Taylor Swift. I have never understood how she could ever be classified as a country artist. She is about as country as Nelly is. Yet, Luke Bryan is hated because he sings "Bro Country" and Taylor Swift is the princess of the country music world. It makes no sense to me.

Luke Bryan and Jason Aldean are no different than Travis Tritt was in the 90's. His form of country was more Southern Rock than it was country. Guess what? People complained he wasn't country enough.

Luke Bryan

As long as there will be music there will be the critics of the "new stuff". Hank Williams, Patsy Cline and George Jones are no longer around to make "true" country music. There needs to be new music and with that it will evolve no matter what the genre. It is just a harsh reality that creates revenue for the record labels. If an artist does not sell records, it does not keep their record contract. With no contract, no one will hear their music. The object is to sell record, become famous and sell out concerts. The "Bro's" are very successful at doing that. They are selling a lot of records and making a lot of women hot and bothered at the thought of those guys singing. I'd say it is a win-win for everyone at the time.

How did you get your start in modeling?

I got started about 6 years ago, I was young and had a photographer contact a friend and I and asked us to do a shoot and I was nervous and iffy at first and the moment I stepped behind the camera I knew it was for me and ever sense I have persuade it.

What do you like best about being a model?

It's fun trying new things and meeting new photographers and making beautiful pictures, it's all about getting the perfect shot, most of all it boosts your confidence and makes you feel beautiful inside and out.

What advice would you give to new models?

Most definitely, my advice would to be don't give up, even if you feel like you're not good enough, or pretty enough, or you're not going anywhere with it, follow your dreams and you never know where they will lead you.

When you are not modeling what's your favorite way to relax?

I love a nice day by the pool, or shopping, any girls favorite things to do. I enjoy taking my daughter to do fun things and spending the day with her.

What do you do to maintain your body to keep it in shape?

It's really important to take care of your body and stay healthy, I always watch what I eat, make sure I'm getting enough rest, take your vitamins and if I can I try to get a work out in.

Favorite sports team?

I'm a huge Texans fan, of course... gotta represent our state!

What do you consider the perfect man?

Personality means a lot to me, I like a man who can make me laugh, who can motivate me, I seek a man with nice eyes and teeth and of course a man that takes care of his body!

What do guys compliment you on most?

I get A LOT of compliments on my smile, and my hair.

What is your favorite food?

You can catch me eating Mexican food all day ever day, I love it, but I definitely have to control myself and watch what I eat.

Do you have any piercings or tattoos?

I have my ears and belly button pierced, I also have 5 tattoos, one behind my neck (daughters name) one on my foot, (a quote) another quote on my side, also a heart with wings on my side, last but not least an infinity symbol with "faith" written in it on the side of my arm.

What do you think is the sexiest thing about a man?

Tall and muscular man, you can never go wrong with that.

How does someone contact you for a modeling project?

I prefer to be emailed at summerboo45@yahoo.com for any modeling inquiries or through my facebook modeling page, www.facebook.com/summercantarella

How did you get your start in modeling?

I had my first photoshoot when I cheered for the Indianapolis Colts in 2012, and I instantly fell in love!

What do you like best about being a model?

I love being in front of the camera. It is so much fun, and is a huge confidence booster!

What advice would you give to new models?

Always have the attitude that you have to just go for it. Don't ever hold yourself back because you aren't sure you will get the job!

When you are not modeling what's your favorite way to relax?

I love the gym. I am an NPC bikini competitor, and lifting weights is my favorite stress reliever.

What do you do to maintain your body to keep it in shape?

I eat a very clean and healthy diet. I think of my food as fuel! I workout 6 days a week. Lifting weights is the best thing you can do for your body in my opinion!

Favorite sports team?

Indianapolis Colts.

What do you consider the perfect man?

To me, the perfect man is a military man! They are very disciplined and are tough. Nothing like a man in uniform!

Do you have any secret weaknesses or guilty pleasures?

I LOVE barbecue bacon cheeseburgers. I don't get to eat them very often, but when I do it's the closest thing to heaven!

What is the most adventurous thing you have ever done?

I love going mudding on a four-wheeler! Being covered in mud head to toe is so fun!

What is your favorite song?

Teenage Nosferatu Pussy by Rob Zombie.

What is your favorite movie?

I could watch the twilight series over and over.

Do you have any piercings or tattoos? If so where?

Yes! I have an eagle on my inner left bicep, I have writing on my ribs, writing on my foot, and a huge piece that wraps from my hip up to the back of my neck.

What do you think is the sexiest thing about a man?

Biceps.

Do you have a website?

A Chat with Ashley Heinrichs

How did you get your start in modeling?

I got my start in modelling simply just by taking pictures for fun. I received a lot of positive feedback and got more serious about making this my career path. Modelling has always been a passion of mine. Ever since I was very young I always loved being in front of the camera.

What do you like best about being a model?

Modelling has helped me build my confidence immensely. Of course I love getting all done up for a shoot but modelling is a great way to express yourself. Every model has their own look and personality they bring, it keeps things interesting.

What advice would you give to new models?

Never ever give up. EVER. If you want something bad enough you will always find a way to make it happen.

When you are not modeling what's your favorite way to relax?

I like to curl up on the couch with a cup of tea and watch a funny movie.

What do you do to maintain your body to keep it in shape?

Eating right is key in my opinion. I don't eat an over abundance of sugar and junk food.

What do you consider the perfect man?

Someone who has a great sense of humour and isn't afraid to take charge.

Do you have any secret weaknesses or guilty pleasures?

I have a slight obsession with all things Hello Kitty and I don't know why!
My weakness is probably Starbucks, I spend way too much money there.

What is your favorite food?

Sushi, if I could I would have it every day.

What do you normally sleep in?

Underwear, that's it. I'm way more comfortable that way.

What is your favorite movie?

I love the Underworld movies those are my favorite.

Do you have any piercings or tattoos?

I have my navel, ears, and monroe pierced.
For tattoos I have a butterfly on my right shoulder, a cluster of stars on my right arm, a lily on my left hip and 4 skulls with roses on my inner left forearm.

What do you think is the sexiest thing about a man?

His eyes and smile.

What is your favorite social network?

Facebook and Twitter are my main social networks that I use, I also have Instagram.

“50 First...Fights!”

“Edge of Tomorrow” directed by Doug Liman and based on the novel by Hiroshi Sakurazaka titled “All you need is Kill”. Edge of Tomorrow’s complex science-fiction thriller brings us into the epic battle field of the future where man versus man is behind us, and man versus invading aliens is at the forefront as Lt. Colonel William Cage (Played by Tom Cruise) is forced into battle as a PR pencil-pusher with little knowledge of the battlefield. He directly dies on the battlefield as a result, but not before being doused in the blood of an alien invader alpha called, a Mimic. He immediately wakes up to a ground base in Heathrow Airport as the previous day before...

“I think we better start over don’t you...” ~ Rita Vratalski

“Edge of Tomorrow” is leading you on a roller coaster that seems to have multiple routes to the top. As groundhog day begins for the newly Pvt Cage, he is introduced to Sgt. Major Rita Vratalski aka the “Angel of Verdun” mid battle, as she warns him to find her when he wakes up. She once had the same abilities as Cage, but lost them. Cage soon realizes that the mimics were aware of their planned attack on the beach, as it will fail. He must continually learn and retrace his every step alongside Sgt. Major Vratalski to locate and destroy the hive mind of the Omega mimic. The film does require the viewer to think a bit on their part, rather than become a mind-numbed viewer as the undertone of love, looping, and camaraderie intertwine creating holes in the plot you fill as the story line proceeds. The dynamic action and fluidness of the movie is still there. Director Doug Liman may have only left slight holes in the tail end to figure for yourself, but it’s acceptable with the quality of the film and its merged video game concept.

“I’m going to tell you a story, at first, it’s going to sound ridiculous, but the longer I talk, the more rationale it’s going to appear...” ~ Cage

The film grossed nearly 29$ million in its first week and over $300 million worldwide so far as it thrives overseas with its production budget of $178 million, coming in competition with “Maleficent” and “The Fault in Our Stars”. “Edge of Tomorrow” isn’t like other sci-fi films as it may appear in its PR debut ads, which may be what leads viewers to shy a bit on this great sci-fi film. With the competing films both with female lead roles, worth the watch as Emily blunt nearly steals the show going toe -to-toe with Cruise on bad ass credibility. The film deserves far more attention for a summer movie.

Release date:
June 6, 2014 (USA)
Stars: Tom Cruise, Emily Blunt,
Bill Paxton

“The Vegas Effect...”

“Think Like a Man Too” directed by Tim Story take us to Sin City in this highly anticipated sequel to 2012’s “Think Like a Man”, and originally inspired by Steve Harvey’s book “Act Like a Lady”. We are back as romantic plans for Michael (played by Terrence J) and Candace’s (played by Regina Hall) wedding go a bit awry as the boys bachelor (including Michael Ealy, Romany Malco, Gary Owen, and Jerry Ferrara) and girls bachelorette parties (including Taraji P. Henson, Gabrielle Union, Wendi McLendon-Covey, and Meagan Good) simultaneously go down hill post-wedding day, and the antics leave everything nearly turned upside down as relationships are tested. Gambling, strippers, clubs, and an occasional arrest record, everything you could expect from a trip to Vegas.

“For one blissful night, gentlemen, we are free from all of our obligations, all of our responsibilities.” ~Cedric

2014’s “Think Like a Man Too” has ditched its previous 2012 molds and coupled its characters. It left most of the book and went for its own avant-garde production of the original film nearly parting ways with its “Think Like a Man” charm. We have a film that circulates around Kevin Hart as “Cedric” Michael’s Best Man. Yet many of its scenes were pretty much fillers filled with what else, but Kevin Hart, a somewhat drug induced music video, and even a montage. Let’s not forget the cameos by other celebrities throughout the film. Many of its first film viewers were expecting some of the depth and characters involvement of this film’s predecessor, there were remnants.

Think Like a Man Too opened at over $30 million box office with a film worth $24 million to produce, and premiering on over 2,225 screens. It’s only contender for the weekend was “22 Jump Street”. The film pitted female and male perspective on things which is always appealing according to Rory Bruer, Sony Pictures president of worldwide distribution as it’s second No. 1 in only a few weeks in Canada and the US. Appealing to 63% female demographic and 59% over 30, the film did try to impart strong relationships, their struggles, and true happiness through relationships as a consolation take away. There may be another sequel. We just hope “Think Like a Man Too” gains more footing in story line and world wide numbers. As the film’s numbers are not yet in as this article is produced.

What do you normally sleep in?

Panties & a loose tank top.

What is your favorite song?

"You make me feel so young" by Frank Sinatra

What is your favorite movie?

Ekkkkkk this is a hard one because I like so many different types of movies I guess I would have to say it's a tie between 'Mean girls' & "Talladega Nights"

Do you have any piercings or tattoos?

My ears are pierced; I've 2 tattoos one's behind my right ear that's a decent size of some flowers & the other one is on my right side it's writing that says "Mi amor Mi Familia".

What do you think is the sexiest thing about a man?

His passion for life.

What's your biggest turn on?

A persons true confidence level. Nothing is hotter than someone who can walk into a room and grab others attention by their mere presence not by their looks or clothing, but by their confidence.

What's your biggest turn off?

Insecurities because I feel this is the cause of so many other issues.

What is your naughtiest fantasy?

It wouldn't be a fantasy if I told.

What is your favorite social network?

Instagram you should look me up @Sweet-peainstagram

How does someone contact you for a modeling project?

My email prepylatina@yahoo.com or my model mayhem

Summertime Still In Full Effect

Who doesn't love summer! And swimsuits are an even better reason to love summer! There are so many choices, styles, and cuts.

We always favor going the custom route, as we all know there are so many shapes and sizes, it's a mistake to make bottoms and tops coincide at the same size. If you're going to look your best and put your best foot forward, then custom is the way to go.

This month features the lovely swimsuits of Ravish Sands. They're synonymous with National Physique competition bling bikinis, but they also have custom swimsuits for the regular beach goer.

When looking for a custom suit, make sure you set a budget; the price tags can get pricey. Make sure you take into account tops and bottoms to be exactly the size you need. Don't be afraid to show off your greatest assets.

Lady Elle is by trade an engineer, turned model/entrepreneur/writer, and wardrobe stylist (men & women) of her own boutique, www.girlslovebling.com.

The Love Shack – Part 10

By M.L. Vee

The girls had Matt sitting on the couch and they were all working at pleasuring him in one way or another. His body was reacting in a way he could not control for much longer. Trying to think of a way to slow things down for him, there was just too much stimulation taking place. Misty, Anna and Stephanie had all been working on his thickness after removing his silk boxer shorts. Angela was passionately kissing him on the lips. He had been gently rubbing the sensual parts of both Misty and Angela who were sitting on each side of him. Misty had leaned in to help her friends lick up and down the thickness, giving him easier and better access to her body. It would be impossible to remain in control.

Angela stopped kissing him and wiggled her way out of the entangled bodies that were at the base of the couch and stood with one leg on each side of Matt's face. She leaned her bare flesh in close placing the correct spot directly onto his lips. He immediately reacted by licking along the thin layers of flesh between her legs. Slowly he would slide his tongue up one side then up the other side. He purposefully teased her by avoiding the most sensitive and pleasuring spot. The folds of her body surrounded his lips and tongue and he concentrated on making sure he used the right sensitivity and rhythm to bring maximum pleasure to her body.

As he licked, Misty continued to take him all the way down her throat and hold it until she felt she was about to gag and then retracted. There was something about the way she did the motion that made him go crazy inside. He was afraid of what he was feeling because it was much better than how his wife did this. It was of great importance to him that his wife be number one at everything in his life, including the ways he was pleased.

It was difficult for him to concentrate and control himself on what Misty was doing, keep a rhythm on Angela to make sure she was being properly pleased and still try to watch his wife and Stephanie make out with each other. Stephanie had laid Anna down on the floor and had her face buried in exactly the right place. Anna was moaning in pleasure giving a clear indication Stephanie was doing everything right. Matt loved the sound of his wife moaning and he especially loved it when she was being pleased by another woman. He could not get a good view of what was happening on the floor but the sounds were wonderful. Anna let out a screech and Matt knew that the peak had been reached. Stephanie never moved her head and continued to try to make it reach the peak another time. She continued until Anna yelled out three times.

Anna was helped off the floor by her pleaser and with somewhat wobbly legs made her way back to the couch and moved in behind Angela who was still being pleased orally. Misty released her mouth from the grip of Anna's husband and assisted him into her as his wife straddled him. Until he was all the way in, Misty never let go of him. She reached and assisted the opening to allow him full penetration. He pushed in until he in all the way to the hilt. Her body was still shaking from being pleased by Stephanie and within the first few thrusts inside of her she released a fourth time in the past few minutes. Her husband felt so good inside of her.

As he thrust, his mouth worked more feverishly on Angela who as receiving the results of the excitement he was experiencing. Within a few moments, she screamed out in pleasure. Her hipbones thrashed into his face as she released from the stimulation. He never stopped his rhythm inside his wife or against the flesh of her friend Angela. Anna had let out another scream of pleasure an instant after Angela had. Stephanie had stayed behind Anna and kissed the inside of Matt's thighs while Misty took Anna's nipple into her mouth and twirled her tongue around it shooting fierce sensations throughout her friend's body.

Matt did not know how much longer he could hold out. He had tried to stop himself from releasing a number of times but it was becoming increasingly difficult. One girl was continually spasming from the oral stimulation he was offering while his wife continued to thrust him deep inside of her. Sweat was dripping from his chest and brow. His heart was feeling like it was about to explode out of his chest.

Without notice, Anna slid him out of her and rolled toward Stephanie. She decided it was time to return the favor she had received earlier and began focusing her attention on pleasing her friend. Pushing Stephanie back against the couch she leaned in and began kissing the inside of her sensitive folds.

Angela quickly shifted her body down and took Anna's place and put Matt deep into her. He hoped to finish himself off inside his wife but knew he was close to no longer being able to. She only thrust a dozen or so times and he had to push her off of him as he released himself all over. Misty leaned in and assisted him by licking he already sensitive flesh. His body jerked a number of times as the evening's stimulation came to a climax much like a fireworks finale.

Anna continued to work on Stephanie who had begun moaning loudly as the satisfaction was flowing throughout her body. Her head had been pulled by the hair tightly against her friend's mid-section and moved from side to side to hit all the right spots. Her screams were loud and repetitive as Anna rolled over on to the floor in exhaustion.

A Chat with Ivy Ferguson

How did you get your start in modeling?

Since A very young age I always wanted to be a Playmate, at the age of 17 one of my good friends introduced me to this photographer, we did a shoot, I started getting connected and it went on from there.

What do you like best about being a model?

I love taking posing and taking photos, I always have fun and seem to connect well with the photographers. I feel good about myself and powerful.

What advice would you give to new models?

Live out your dreams and don't give up! Don't starve yourself but you have to take good care of yourself and work hard.

When you are not modeling what's your favorite way to relax?

I LOVE going to the beach or to the tanning salon, just getting my Vitamin D makes me feel good and relaxed.

What do you do to maintain your body to keep it in shape?

I go to the gym when I can, at home I love to do the Cindy Crawford & Carmen Electra workouts.

What do you consider the perfect man?

Physically the perfect man has to have long hair, green eyes and tanned skin! I love a guy that likes to explore and travel. I love being outdoors and hiking so an outdoors man for sure!

What is the most adventurous thing you have ever done?

I'm soooooo adventurous! One of my favorite things I've done and that I am doing again next month is taking a few day hike to the bottom of the grand canyon and back.. Last time was so amazing, slept outside with no tent, drank water from the Colorado river and hiked my booty off.

What is your favorite food?

I am a proud vegetarian! I love perogies & mexican food.

What is your favorite song?

I am such a rocker! Its hard for me to pick a favorite song but some of my favorite bands are Fastway, Winger, Danger Danger, Kick Axe, Great White & Lynch Mob.

What is your favorite movie?

I love gruesome horror flicks. Hellraiser is amazing, also Zom-bie Strippers with Jenna Jameson I found very amusing.

What do you think is the sexiest thing about a man?

If a guy has got a good singing voice. I honestly don't think there is anything more sexy about that.

What's your biggest turn on?

A good singing voice, a good tan. I love being submissive, that's a big turn on.

What's your biggest turn off?

Smokers.. yuk!

What is your naughtiest fantasy?

All of my naughtiest fantasies involve backstage.

How did you get your start in modeling?

I went with a friend to a creative shoot when I was 14yrs old. Everything came naturally and this was where I discovered the details about getting involved with modeling etc. I then did a few creative shoots on my own, built a portfolio and went to meet with local agencies about representation.

What do you like best about being a model?

I love the people I get to meet and work with. There is something very fulfilling about working with a team that is as passionate about their job as I am about mine. To work with beautiful people and to create something beautiful together is a great experience that grants the opportunity to learn and grow from each other.

What advice would you give to new models?

Get an agent, do your research with everything and everybody. Believe in yourself, but be realistic & remember your brand. Always consider critique for self-growth.

What do you consider the perfect man?

Someone who carries himself well and confidently, has a great sense of humor, can provide as well as protect, is gentle, loving, caring and passionate.

Do you have any secret weaknesses or guilty pleasures?

My ears/neck are very sensitive & I love being smothered with cuddles & kisses when I'm mad.

What do guys compliment you on most?

My eyes, Sense of humor, Body.

What is the most adventurous thing you have ever done?

*Laughs* that's a tough one.. If I had to choose I'd say, stealing a golf cart from private property & driving it on the highway - Summer 2010.

What is your favorite food?

Bacon & any/ALL fruits.

What do you think is the sexiest thing about a man?

KARMEN'S KITCHEN

'If you can't handle the heat, get out!'
By: Karmen Moon

Does the Hersey's spread commercial get under anyone else's skin like it does mine? Strawberries. Yes Pretzels. Yes Waffles. Wouldn't have thought of it on my own, but now I'm totally doing it. Celery. WTF?!! Who (other than Buddy the Elf) dips celery in chocolate?

If you're on a diet chocolate isn't exactly the healthiest dip option for your veggies. If you're not on a diet, then why in hell are you eating celery voluntarily? And ruining your chocolate with it! Seriously of all the things you could possibly find in this world to dip into chocolate, you picked this stringy, tasteless, green water stick! Oh and another thing, Hersey you basically created chocolate. So why'd it take you so long to figure out how to spread it on things? Way to just jump on the Nutella train. You're about 10 years too late.

Here to save our minds from that nightmare of chocolate covered celery, is it's arch nemesis. I warn you, this is not for the faint at heart. Everyone else, you're welcome :)

Maple Whiskey Bacon Brownies

-Ingredients-

- 1/2 pound bacon, diced (save some for garnish)
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 1/2 cup melted butter
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1/4 cup white sugar
- 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- 2 eggs, lightly beaten
- 3/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup cocoa powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup of maple whiskey of choice (I use Crown Royal Maple or Cabin Fever)
- Maple syrup (for garnish)
- chocolate frosting (I'm lazy, any store brand will do)

-Directions-

Preheat oven to 350 degrees Grease an 8-inch square baking dish.

Fry bacon in a skillet over medium-high heat until nearly crisp, about 5 minutes. Add honey and stir until the foaming subsides. Remove the bacon with a slotted spoon to a plate to cool.

Mix melted butter, brown sugar, white sugar, whiskey and vanilla extract in a large bowl; mix in eggs.

Sift flour, cocoa powder, and salt together in a bowl; add to the egg mixture. Fold bacon and chocolate chips into the mixture; pour into the prepared baking dish.

Bake in the preheated oven until a toothpick inserted into the center comes out clean, 25 to 35 minutes. Allow brownies to cool for 20 minutes before frosting and cutting into squares. Drizzle with maple syrup. Garnish with extra bacon.

A Chat with Eva Lyn

How did you get into modeling?

I've been modeling on and off since childhood. I had my first modeling job when I was 8 years old modeling in a fashion show.

What do you like best about being a model?

The best thing I like about being a model is expressing myself and creativity in front of the camera in a non judgmental environment. You're expressing your mind and soul through your body language, facial expressions and eye contact. It's one of the most beautiful forms of art to me

What advice would you give to new models?

Be real, be yourself because that's what makes you beautiful! There are lots of haters out there that will question why you're modeling, give you their unsolicited opinion or even spread rumors out of jealousy. Best advice is to completely block these people out even if they are family or friends. If you can't avoid these people and they continue to bring it up in conversation, just change the subject or simply leave! Most importantly, do what makes you happy and don't let anyone second guess yourself.

When you are not modeling what's your favorite way to relax?

Going to the beach, working out, reading, cooking, baking, pistol shooting and having coffee or lunch with friends.

What do you do to maintain your body to keep it in shape?

A healthy balanced diet, weight training and lots of stretching! Also, I never forget to take my vitamins!

Favorite Sports Team?

I'm a major league soccer fan and looking forward to Florida representing very soon!

What do you consider the perfect man?

The perfect man is hard working with depth and character. He is genuine, loving, honest, loyal, respectful, open hearted and spiritual. Being physically fit and cute certainly doesn't hurt either!

Do you have any secret weaknesses or guilty pleasures?

My guilty pleasures are surprisingly revolved around food and drink! A bottle of Veuve Clicquot, chocolate truffles, sushi and lobster tail.

What is the most adventurous thing you have ever done?

Swimming unprotected (no cage) with sharks in the Dominican Republic. I've always had a fascination with sharks! It was one of the most thrilling experiences of my life.

What is your favorite food?

I'm a big foodie and never discriminate so this is a difficult question to answer! Anything from a spring mix salad, thin crust pizza (fresh mozzarella is a must), lobster, filet mignon, sushi, to a big juicy cheeseburger and curly fries. I love to indulge however, everything in moderation!

What do you normally sleep in?

My birthday suit, what else!

What do you think is the sexiest thing about a man?

A big kind heart, paired with a big beautiful smile, now that's sexy!

What's your biggest turn on?

Someone who thinks for themselves and doesn't conform to society or what others believe just to fit in. Using your own mind, having your own opinion is a turn on and simply refreshing!

What's your biggest turn off?

Arrogance and a bad attitude is a huge turn off!

Do you have a website?

Yes, it's www.sexyevalyn.com

Dressing for Summer

With summer in full swing, here's a few looks to give you some fashion inspiration while participating in your favorite summer time activities to beat the heat! Add a few essential pieces and mix & match these items below to your wardrobe to remain fashionable & functional this summer season.

Rompers & Sundresses:

Rompers & sundresses are an adorable item that can look good on just about any body type with the right cut and fit. A simple one piece item that can be used as a swimsuit coverup or dressed up with some cute wedges or sandals paired with some fashionable accessories like a belt, jewelry, and your favorite pair of sunnies!

Wide-Brim Hats:

Protect your face from the sun and stay wrinkle free while looking chic & fabulous with a big hat this summer!

Sunglasses:

Another item to protect you from harmful UVA/UVB rays from the sun are a good pair of shades. Fashionable & functional, ladies, these will save you from the dreaded crows feet that squinting creates while proving to be your most used accessory this summer!

Bangles & Big Earrings:

Keep your jewelry minimal in the sweltering summer heat with a pair of big dangly earrings and a bangle bracelet or ring.

Summer Look 1

Colorful Bikinis:

Every gal needs a good bikini or two this time of year. Go for a brightly colored swimsuit (as opposed to a darker color) to bring out your own natural colorings. Whether you're tan or pale, blonde or brunette, brightly colored swimwear always makes a woman stand out in a crowd in a positive way making her look radiant.

Summer Look 3

Summer Look 4

Wedges/Sandals:

Wedges or sandals are a must for summer time fun! Easy to slip off at the beach or pools parties, they keep your feet cool in the heat! Go for a wedge for dressier occasions and a flat sandal for more casual outings.

When I was 16 my mom got me involved in doing photoshoots.

What do you like best about being a model?

Getting to travel and meet new friends.

What advice would you give to new models?

Be yourself and stay as natural as you can.

When you are not modeling what's your favorite way to relax?

Horseback riding, mudding and boating.

What do you do to maintain your body to keep it in shape?

Love to work out!

Favorite sports team?

Florida Gators.

What do you consider the perfect man?

Tall, sexy southern gentleman.

Do you have any secret weaknesses or guilty pleasures?

Blue eyes.

Do you have any unusual talents?

Amazing singer!

What is the most adventurous thing you have ever done?

Jumped out of a perfectly good airplane.

What is your favorite food?

Cookies.

What do you normally sleep in?

Naked!

What is your favorite song?

Whatever She's Got by David Nail.

What is your favorite movie?

Sweet Hole Alabama

How did you get into modeling?

A local photographer posted on Facebook that they needed someone and I responded. I've been doing it ever since.

What do you like best about being a model?

I love the amazing support I get from my followers and fans.

What advice would you give to new models?

Don't give up, and don't let anyone tell you that you can't do it.

When you are not modeling what's your favorite way to relax?

I relax when I am shopping, cooking or sleeping. I'm quite simple.

What do you do to maintain your body to keep it in shape?

I'm on the prescription Phentermine to suppress my appetite, and I run with my dog every day.

Favorite sports team?

Denver Broncos.

What do you consider the perfect man?

It's not what, it's who. Perfect man is someone who supports my every dreams and does all he can to help me reach it. He is understanding, and caring but isn't a push-over. He loves animals and children. He makes me feel safe and secure by just being in the room. I am actually fortunate enough to have him already.

Do you have any secret weaknesses or guilty pleasures?

Food! Like gourmet meals and desserts!

What is the most adventurous thing you have ever done?

I recently traveled out of state to Texas by myself, kind of a scary thing to leave your safety net.

What is your favorite food?

I LOVE tri-tip steak with a barbecued potato and assorted vegetables.

What do you normally sleep in?

I sleep in cotton mini shorts, and a cami normally.

What is your favorite song?

My Love is Like Whoa.

What is your favorite movie?

The Great Gatsby.

What do you think is the sexiest thing about a man?

When he is in complete control of a situation.

What is your biggest turn on?

Rib cage tattoos on a fit body.

What is your biggest turn off?

Bad breath is an instant rejection.

What is your favorite social network?

I am a huge fan of Instagram.

How does someone contact you for a modeling project?

Just Another Day

By Jessi June www.jessijune.com

Photos By: Christopher Hann www.liquidcanvas.com

So I know what you're thinking: "Is this girl really going to sit there and try to convince me that a model's job is hard?" Not exactly. I'll be the first to tell you that looking sexy is not a difficult job. But when you shoot over 300 times a year and travel like I do, most of your shoots aren't commercial sets like you'd expect, but small local studios with photographers looking to work with a professional model or trying to expand their businesses and portfolios. This is where the rubber meets the road, and this is what gets difficult. Let's take a usual 24-hours-look into the life of a model.

May 22nd, 2014: At 6:00am, the alarm on my phone would howl through the room to remind me that it's time to start another day. I open my eyes to realize my laptop is asleep and staring me right in the face: I passed out while working again. Before I get out of bed, I remind myself what city I'm in, as you tend to forget traveling in and out of hotels all the time. After the usual morning routine, I begin cooking and check online to see what I missed in the 4+ hours I was unconscious. My banana-infused oatmeal hits the spot as it always does, and I head down to the gym by 7am so I can be sure I don't miss the full episode of Sportscenter. As I get into my routine of squats, lunges, leg-lifts, etc. I put on some workout music and look through last night's emails to see if there's anything that needs immediate responding.

8:30am hits as I hop into the my post-workout shower and by 9am, I'm still on time as I sit down to start doing my makeup while my hair dries. It's 10am by the time my makeup and hair are done, and it's time to check out of my hotel. Run down, pull up the truck, get the cart, head back up, load the cart, head back down, unload the cart, load the truck, return the cart - This is an almost everyday thing.

Once I'm all loaded, I head to my first shoot. I haven't even started working yet.

See, my point is that the actual shooting aspect of our jobs that everyone knows about is the easy part. The actual work isn't done in front of the camera, but off set, where we spend countless hours in the gym, writing messages, responding to emails, interacting with fans and social media (which yes, I can assure you, IS a job in-and-of itself), as well as shoot prep. I'd say I spend 2 hours working off camera for everyone one hour on camera, at least. To think that our work ends when the lights stop flashing would be a tragic underestimation.

Once I get to my first shoot, I drag in my 3 shooting suitcases, my makeup, purse, and if I had time, a starbucks or something to drink along with my lunch I prepared the night before. I get settled in, and just doing that is somewhat involved. I'm pretty much walking into somewhere I've never been, never seen, that could hold any sort of surprises. You have to get settled down within 5 minutes to start going through wardrobe. I check on the makeup with the photographer, and double check to make sure I didn't mess anything up on the way here. For the next three hours, I'll have a pretty easy time today. He's a talker and a nice guy. We're shooting simple glamour stuff: Lingerie and heels, jackets without bra's, topless and jeans, etc. 3 hours goes by in a flash, and before you know it, I'm packing up all my stuff which ended up sprawled across the studio and clocking myself as my next shoot starts in an hour. This is what most of my shoots are like. We do paperwork, handle the compensation situation, and I'm off by 1:45pm with a new friend and a good experience.

30 minutes later, I arrive to my next shoot a few minutes early, so I put together a quick snack for me to bring, and head up. I walk into the studio and this time, I'm not so lucky in the photographers demeanor and arrogance. On top of that, we were shooting Art Nudes for 2 hours. Now, I know what you're thinking, "How hard can it be to wriggle around on the floor in funny positions for a few hours?" Well, allow me to paint a picture: Imagine for a second, getting into some of the most uncomfortable positions on god's green earth (think drunken twister where the person touching the most circles in the most uncomfortable way wins), on not-quite-comfortable surfaces (generally hard floors or wooden boxes or anything that looks like the only thing you'd choose NOT to sit on after running a marathon), and having to stay in these poses on these surfaces for 5-30 seconds at a time all while wearing absolutely nothing. It can get rough.

After those grueling two hours, I finally get finished and my body feels like it just went through a wash-and-dry cycle at the local "We Shrink Your Clothes". We handle paperwork, I get told a few more times how awesome he is and I finally escape with a little bit of sanity. Ego is a very big part of our industry, and being able to assuage the ego of the other party whilst not letting it Godzilla your Tokyo is an art unto itself. Of course, most people you encounter aren't like that, but they're out there.

4:35pm: I get into the truck, and check my phone. 15 text messages, 4 missed calls, 56 new emails, 28 Facebook notifications, 99+ Google+ notifications, 32 Twitter Mentions, and I haven't even posted anything yet today. I grab a selfie I took earlier in the day, and post that with a note of the cities I'll be in and when; basically a default fallback plan for when I'm really busy. Over the next 110 minutes, I'll drive 100 miles to my destination, while speaking to my 4 photographers for tomorrow. 3 are good to go, one had to cancel last minute. I would then listen to my voicemails. Turns out I have another photographer wanting to shoot tomorrow now, so that will make up for the one who canceled, but he can't do the same timing.

Now, here's where one of the biggest pains in the ass of our jobs comes into play: schedules. We somehow make an attempt to juggle the schedules and lives of multiple people together, all while mixing in our own needs on scheduling, and somehow come out with a cohesive shooting plan that includes traveling to location, timing needs of each, as well as dates available. In a week trip, I'll have to do this with 10-20 different individuals, all with different needs and wants and all whose schedules are in-flux and changing as the days go on. Oh, and we're not allowed to make mistakes, because if we do, it costs us money, costs people their shoots and makes us look terrible. This is probably the most stressful part of our jobs.

I finally arrive, and this photographer was a workhorse! He was determined to get 22 and a half different looks into our 3 hour shoot. So I finish the day at a mile a minute and head to my new hotel in my new city. I do my check out routine in reverse, get settled in, and I make myself a quick dinner, when I realize I've still gotten nothing done online today. So I get to work knocking out all those numbers I read you earlier, and that's no small task.

Now, the day I chose wasn't some anomaly from my schedule, but a normal day like any other. I usually shoot 1-3 times a day, depending on shoot lengths and times, I respond to about 100 different messages, emails, etc. a day on average, and I actually usually spend more time on social media than I got to here because of how busy I was. I'm not an extreme case, either. There's lots of us out there all doing the same thing day-in and day-out while everyone thinks that generally all we do is show up, look pretty, and leave. Now granted, I've been told I'm one of the harder working girls out there, and we have the same bell-curve of effort-driven people as any other profession, but for Freelance models, there's no guarantee on tomorrow, so we have to work as hard as we can today.

I'll stay up working until anywhere between 12 and 2am, usually whenever I pass out on the computer. It's not the easiest dream to chase, with any new cute face being the immediate popular kid on the block, but it is my dream. If they want to take it from me, they're going to have to work harder than me, and be willing to sacrifice more than me. Until then, I'll be on the road, working everyday, and living the "easy" life as some people see it. I don't have a home, and I don't take days off. This life has an expiration date, and I plan to extend that for as long as possible, because as much of an ego-pleasing, body-wrecking, sleep-refusing, communication-dreading, non-stop abusive-relationship-of-a-life that this is... it's still my dream, and deep down I love every second of it. Now if you'll excuse me.... I have work to do. :)
